Miss Gibson's Claims to Millions Rests on Stenographic Notes Taken of Alleged Missing Will.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CINCINNATI, Jan. 12.—A peculiar contest began here today in the Probate Court, when the widow of the late Millionaire John McCormick Gibson of this city, who died at Ashville, N. C., a few months ago, presented a copy of his will, made from stenographic notes alleged to have been preserved by Attorney Wells of Ashville. The original will, it is asserted, has never been found since the death of Gibson. It bequeathed his entire estate to his widow, to whom he was married a few hours before his death. His legal heirs, his mother and a brother, contest the probating of the will, and a legal argument is in progress on the question whether a will of this description is valid or not.

Mrs. Gibson, the widow, was Miss Cecilia Wolff of Providence. She was called by a telegram to Ashville, when Mr. Gibson was critically ill, and was married on her arrival. He died the next day. Gibson's first wife was one of the victims of the Windsor Hotel fire in New York.

Colgan Makes Grafters Sad—Gardner on Health Board. Fire in the Capitol.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Brilliant beyond precedent was the Governor's ball. Never have the paintings of the illustrious dead, which look down from the walls of this gray old Capitol gazed with their unchanging mein upon a more resplendent spectacle. An old omen was turned inside out, when Pardee, thirteenth Governor, was tendered this most auspicious ceremonial in the presence of thousands of his friends by people who have acclaimed him as their Chief Executive.

With the chambers, architecturally magnificent, as a ground-work, the cunning of skillful decorators wrought, from the staid halls of the Capitol, ballrooms, that are no mean memory of the famous playrooms of Louis XIV. Pillars, arches and domes were trellised with vines, through chambers, corridors and down winding stairs greens and colors have been fashioned, so that the most unimpressive lines now curve into beauty, and even the stately uprights stand limned in grace. Throughout every part of the vast Capitol, which is brought into use at this splendid quadrennial function, perfect symmetry rules.

At other inaugural balls, a color scheme of a single tint was maintained throughout. That idea was improved upon by C. W. Morton, chairman of the Decoration Committee, who planned the decorations of tonight. The Senate is green of the softest shade, and the walls of the dais over the desk of the President are as green as the plants which line the edge and obscure the musicians. Out of the green rise two snow-white pillars, each surmounted with a witchery of light. The window spaces above great mirrors are in green. The chrysanthemums, from which the incandescents loofl, have suddenly changed to emerald. Greens, ablaze with light, are dependent from the balcony and walls. But there is something else which fixes the eye as the guest enters the chamber, more than all the decorations. It is an oil painting of Gov. Pardee, painted expressly for this occasion.

DELIGHTFUL FEATURES.

No inaugural ball for many years has had as many pleasant features as that given tonight. At previous inaugural balls, some flaw in arrangements was a cause of dissatisfaction, but the plans for that of tonight were perfect, and uninterrupted enjoyment marked the festivity. On inaugural-ball nights in former years the rain poured down, while the weather tonight was calm and clear. In the past there was a crush to get to the banquet table, and gowns were injured. At the ball tonight refreshments were served in a manner that satisfied everyone, and confusion was avoided. Other Governors could not dance, but Dr of the corridor to the other, and he opening lancers as gracefully as any dancer on the floor. Lieut.-Gov. Anderson, Speaker Fisk, and Secretary of State Curry were in the chief set in the first lancers in Assembly chamber. This dance took place at 10.40 o'clock, following the grand march.

In the march were several hundred couples. The line was led by Floor Director W. H. Devlin of Sacramento and his wife, and in succession followed Gov. and Mrs. Pardee, the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Anderson, Speaker Fisk and Mrs. Fisk, the State officials, the Governor's staff, and other military officers in full uniform, members of local committees, all accompanied by ladies, and many other persons. The march through the corridor on the second floor of the Capitol was to the Assembly chamber first, then to the Senate chamber, and back to the Assembly chamber.

When Gov. Pardee appeared in the line he was applauded from one end of th ecorridor to the other, and he had to keep bowing in acknowledgment of this greeting.

BANNER ATTENDANCE.

The local committeemen stated that the attendance was larger than at other inaugural balls held here, it being estimated that over 1450 persons were present. In the throng were residents of every important city in the State. There was a crush in the Senate and Assembly chambers, and in the corridor connecting them until the dancers began to go downstairs, where a large number of small supper tables had been placed. Near the entrances of the two legislative chambers, punch and lemonade were ladled out by colored waiters, and on the floor below the repast was spread.

After the first dance Gov. Pardee held a reception in the State Library. By his side stood H. Weinstock of Sacramento, chairman of the Reception Committee. Hundreds of couples formed in line and shook hands with the Governor. Standing with him were Mrs. Pardee, Mrs. Weinstock, Lieut.-Gov. Anderson and Mrs. Anderson, Speaker and Mrs. Fisk and the Governor's staff. So many ladies and gentlemen wished to meet the Governor that the reception lasted over an hour.

Most of the State officials held open house in their offices in the Capitol and entertained their friends, Surveyor-General Wood being chief among the entertainers.

At 2 o'clock in the morning dancing ended in the Senate chamber and workmen began to put that place in shape for the meeting of the Senate at 11 o'clock tomorrow. Dancing continued in the Assembly chamber until 4 o'clock.

FIRE IN ASSEMBLY CHAMBER.

QUICKLY PUT UNDER CONTROL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A fire occurred in the Assembly chamber this afternoon, which, had it occurred twelve hours later, would probably have caused a serious panic. In arranging the decorations around the Speaker's desk, two electric light wires which had been placed under a pile of inflammable material, became short-circuited and the flash which followed ignited a large American flag which hung against the wall. Instantly the flames shot up and threatened to burn the decorations around the rostrum.

Above the Speaker's desk hangs a magnificent oil painting of Gen. John A. Sutter, which is highly prized, and if destroyed could not be replaced. This picture was in direct line of the flames, and to save it William Wicks, an employé of the chamber, crawled along a cornice from the gallery, intending to take the picture from its place. He was overcome by smoke, but managed to hold on until his fellow-workmen rescued him. The fire was extinguished by the tearing down of a portion of the decorations. The loss was not serious, but for a time it looked as if all the decorations would become ignited.

Had the fire occurred during the inaugural ball, the result would have been a serious panic, and much greater property loss.

DR. GARDNER APPOINTED.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Dr. Mathew Gardner of San Francisco was today appointed a member of the State Board of Health for the particular purpose of representing California at the bubonic-plague conference which is to begin in Washington a week from today.

Dr. Gardner is the head of the medical department of the Southern Pacific, and had direct charge of the railroad hospital in San Francisco. His views on the plague question are known to but few, but his appointment was made so that he could be eligible to attend the conference at Washington which will be composed of members of State boards of health from all over the country. When this conference was called, it was manifest that no member of the Gage State Board of Health would be persona grata at the meeting, and, it being necessary that California should be represented, Dr. W. B. Coffey agreed to resign in order that some new member might be appointed. Accordingly, Dr. Coffey came here today, bringing his resignation. The Governor was told of the necessity for immediate action, and he at once sent to the Senate the appointment of Dr. Gardner, who left tonight for Washington.

Dr. Gardner is probably closer to Surgeon-General Wyman of the United States Marine Hospital Service than is any other physician in the West. When Dr. Wyman was here, he and Dr. Gardner made a tour of the State together. The appointment does not indicate the attitude of the present administration on the plague question, but simply gives to California a representative at the meeting in Washington called for the express purpose of discussing the reported plague conditions in California and elsewhere.

NO PAY FOR NO WORK.

SAVES STATE SOME MONEY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 12.—There was considerable consternation among the attachés of the Legislature this morning when they discovered that they are not to be paid from the date of the opening of the Legislature, but from the actual time of their appointment. Many of those to whom patronage was extended were not named until the middle of the week, and it is those whose stipends were cut in two.

Controller Colgan has decided that the State should not be required to pay for work not actually performed, and when the roll call of the attachés was submitted to him, he refused to draw warrants on the Treasurer for the full amounts.

Whether Colgan's action will be objected to on the floor of either House is now a matter of speculation among the members of the Legislature.

CALIFORNIA LEGISLATURE.

THIRTY-FIFTH SESSION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 12.—SENATE. When the Senate convened this morning, the roll call developed the fact that there was a quorum present. The number of Senators in attendance was immaterial, however, as the meeting was called merely for the purpose of adjourning until tomorrow morning when the regular work of the Legislature will be again taken up.

Before adjournment the following message from Gov. Pardee was received: "I hereby nominate Dr. Mathew Gardener to be a member of the State Board of Health, vice Dr. W. R. Coffey, resigned, and respectfully ask your consent to and concurrence in the same."

The message was referred to the Committee on Communications, and an adjournment taken until tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

MRS. ASTOR EXPANDS NEW YORK'S SOCIETY.

THE FOUR HUNDRED GIVES WAY TO THE SIX HUNDRED.

Greatest Function of the Gothamite Season Held in Her Fifth-avenue Home Last Night—Harry Lehr, the New Ward McAllister, on Whose Discernment and Discretion Reliance Was Placed in the Social Departure.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] There was a widening of society's portals tonight, when Mrs. Astor's ball, the greatest function of the New York season, was held in her home on Fifth avenue. The days of the Four Hundred have passed, and a gallant Six Hundred is reigning. Invitations to that number were issued, and those who failed to declare their allegiance to the acknowledged leader of New York society by their presence were few.

The ball was brilliant. Mrs. Astor's big house and that of her son, Col. John Jacob Astor, next door, were crowded. It was late when the ball began, the first guests not arriving until after 11 o'clock, but from that hour on, the stream of carriages was continuous, and Fifth avenue was alive with the flashing of lights and the clatter of hurrying horses. Mrs. Astor received her guests in the drawing-room, which was decorated with American Beauty roses and orchids which almost buried the mantels, tables and cabinets on which they were placed. From here, the guests passed through the main corridor, which was festooned with roses and pink azaleas, to the picture gallery, which had been transformed into a ballroom. The entrance was through an arch of azaleas, and the same flower scheme was carried out in the decorations throughout the house.

Informal dancing was enjoyed until supper, which was served about 12:30 o'clock, by Sherry, at small tables, arranged in the dining-rooms of both houses and through the spacious corridors. Dancing was resumed after supper, when the cotillion began. It was led by Elisha Dyer, Jr., and Harry S. Lehr, dancing with Mrs. John Jacob Astor and Mrs. M. Orme Wilson. Harry Lehr is said to have been the new Ward McAllister on whose discernment and discretion Mrs. Astor relied in drawing up her latest list of society. Miss Alice Roosevelt was among the guests.

POKING ITS NOSE TOWARD THE OCEAN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] An important announcement concerning a deal in which the Rock Island and another trunk line are interested, will be made late this week or early next week. This intimation was given out at the headquarters of the Rock Island road today, though the details are denied to the public. The only statement which could be obtained is that the Rock Island management is not ready to make any statement, but admits that some important matters and something of general interest will soon be made public.

"One thing is certain, the Rock Island will not rest until it puts its nose into salt water," it was said.

This news was variously construed in Wall street today. One element inclined to the theory that a community-of-interest has been established between James J. Hill and the Moore brothers for control of the Erie Railroad, and that the Great Northern, Burlington and Northern Pacific will use the road as an entrance to the Atlantic seaboard from the northwest, while the Rock Island will use it as an outlet for its southwestern and western traffic. The systems will have very close relations with the steamship combination which is controlled by Morgan, with whom Moore Bros. have formed an alliance.

Another theory which was heard in Wall street today was that the recent heavy buying of Atchison came from the Moore syndicate, and was in the interest of the Rock Island Railroad. Neither theory is regarded as improbable in Wall street. If both were carried out, the Rock Island would have a transcontinental line, which would be several hundred miles shorter than the Gould system, which is gradually completing the links in its transcontinental chain.

MONTEREY AND FRESNO BONDS.

JUDGMENT AGAINST A. W. JONES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Judgment for $879,900 was awarded today by Justice Truax in the Supreme Court against Alfred Walker Jones, formerly president of the Monterey and Fresno Railroad Company of California. The action was brought by F. E. Pettingrell and H. H. Finley through George Eckard, their assignee, to recover 10 per cent. commission on the sale of $7,000,000 of the railroad company's bonds. Their claim was for $700,000, which Judge Truax awarded, with added interest of $179,900.

After the announcement of the decision, Pettingrell said: "This gives us possession of water-front property valued at more than $1,000,000. Work on the road, which was abandoned long ago, will be resumed. London and New York capitalists are interested with me in pushing the line to a point where it will connect with Senator Clark's road, now in course of construction from Salt Lake to Los Angeles. That will give us a transcontinental route shorter by 350 miles than any other."

COLOR NOT SECTIONAL.

Negro Office-holder for Bostonians.

The President Desires to Show the South That He Has not Been Imposing on It.

He Will Appoint Afro-Americans Wherever He Can Do So and Exercise Fairness.

Preparation for Inquiry Into Coal Transportation—Injury to Secretary Moody.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive dispatch.] By way of clearly demonstrating that he is not imposing upon Southern people by the appointment of negro office-holders for them, but merely considering the colored race in an official way and according to their numbers among the population of the country, the President today let it be known that he will appoint William H. Lewis as assistant United States Attorney for the Boston district. This appointment will serve to bring out whether the people in the North, especially in Boston, who have been approving the President's course in appointing negro office-holders in the South, will approve such appointments in their own locality. The belief in official circles here is that Boston folk will not object to the appointment, although, in spite of their protestations of regard for the colored man, they kicked mightily, some years ago, when, through an election slump in East Boston, a colored man was elected upon Gov. Wolcott's council.

It is not understood that the President proposes to establish a rule, or thinks of doing so, giving to negroes appointments according to their population in a State, but he does propose to be as fair with the negro in the North as in the South. Negroes all over the country have been pressing at the White House for greater recognition of their race. Not long ago, the President was waited upon by a delegation from Virginia, which asked that a number of minor places in the Federal service in that State be given to the race. The position of deputy collector at Norfolk was one position sought. The President has taken this matter under consideration, as he has similar appeals from different States.

GRADUATE OF AMHERST.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The appointment of W. H. Lewis was made by Henry P. Moulton, the United States District Attorney for the Boston district, but it is understood that the selection was made on the suggestion of the President. Lewis is a graduate of Amherst College, and while there he was held in high regard by both the student body and the faculty. He took a high rank in his studies, and was a popular member of the football squad. He is said to be a lawyer of excellent attainments.

BILLS BY PERKINS.

FISH HATCHERY PROPOSED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It is pretty well understood that the government will establish a fish hatchery and experiment station somewhere in Southern California waters, and the chances are that it will be put in San Pedro Harbor, that being, in the opinion of officials, the best place for it. A bill authorizing the Fish Commission to establish such a station was introduced today by Senator Perkins. It appropriates $25,000. The bill was referred to the Senate Committee on Fisheries, of which Senator Bard is chairman, and an effort is going to be made to get it up and passed by both houses of Congress this session.

The bill was prepared and introduced at the express request of Prof. Ritten of the University of California, who has been conducting an investigation into Southern California fisheries for some time past.

Senator Perkins also introduced two other bills today. One of these appropriates an additional $500,000 for a new customhouse at San Francisco, and the other, which was introduced at the request of the commercial associations of Alaska, extends the power of exercising the right of eminent domain to municipal corporations and certain quasi-public corporations in Alaska.

He also introduced an amendment to the Civil Service Bill, appropriating $100,000 for an investigation of mines and mining by the Geological Survey. If this appropriation gets through Congress, a bureau of mines and mining will be established in connection with the Geological Survey.

CLOSING SESSION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—SENATE. When the Senate met today Mr. Mitchell of Oregon submitted the report of the committee of the Senate on its investigation of affairs in the Hawaiian Islands.

A House bill was passed, incorporating the Society of the Army of Santiago de Cuba.

The Vest resolution, directing the Committee on Finance to report a free-coal bill, then was called up. Mr. Aldrich announced that there were Dreadful Prospect in Metropolis. Cold Wave Extends from Rockies to the Atlantic.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—List of dead from cold:

FRANK LEMIS, 40 years of age; badly frozen, died in a saloon.

R. ROSE, walked the street all night, and died soon after entering a warm room of a lodging-house.

C. J. POOL, Manilla, Iowa; took on dining car; frozen stiff in his room.

PATRICK M'GOVERN, overcome by cold; fell from his wagon, fracturing his skull.

WILLIAM MADIGAN, found dead in lodging-house from exposure.

W. H. WAHL, swallowed laudanum because unable to procure food and fuel for his family.

DARK OUTLOOK FOR GOTHAM.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The thermometer registered 9 deg. above at midnight, and the prospects are that it will go lower before morning. Suffering among East Side poor is intense, and it is feared that many deaths will result. Charitable organizations are unable to buy coal at any price, and other fuels have greatly advanced in price, including kerosene. The suffering is not confined to the very poor, who are usually provided for by charitable organizations, but people ordinarily able to provide themselves with coal, must go without it.

The cold wave, which has New York in its grip promises to be exceptionally severe and of long duration. A very limited amount of coal reached tide water today, and almost all of this was forwarded by independent operators, who control eastern markets. The price quoted even to the biggest retailers by these independent operators was $11 a ton in cars at railroad terminals. When the cost of getting it into this city and the wholesalers' and retailers' profits were added, it made the price to the individual purchaser from $13 to $22.

Another unfortunate characteristic of the present fuel situation is the charging of spot cash by almost all dealers. Naturally, the price of coal by the pail has been forced skyhigh. Even the most philanthropic of dealers were today forced to charge 12 cents a pail. Investigations completed today by the charitable organizations show that the prices of other fuels have also gone up enormously in connection with the great rise in coal. None of the prominent coal dealers of the city would today hazard a prophecy as to when relief might be expected.

SIX BELOW IN CHICAGO.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Two deg. below zero was the official temperature for Chicago and vicinity at 8 o'clock today, accompanied by a brisk northwest wind. Much suffering among the poor, who have with difficulty endured the moderate weather since the coal famine became acute, has been reported, and a number of deaths were due directly to the cold. Steps have already been taken by the Mayor to provide a fund for the relief of the suffering among the destitute.

The temperature, which was 6 below at midnight, began to moderate soon afterward, and at 8 o'clock this morning, 2 below was registered.

Much delay to suburban and street transportation lines was occasioned by the sudden drop of 17 deg., and a number of minor accidents, owing to the heavy fall of snow, were reported.

COAL FAMINE INQUIRY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—The special grand jury which has been called to investigate the conditions responsible for the coal famine continued today to hear evidence which the Attorney-General and the State's attorney have secured against the coal operators and big dealers. Twenty-five coal men, some of the heads of wholesale firms and others chiefs in the councils of corporations operating mines, presented themselves at the Criminal Court building in answer to summonses to tell what they may know of the "ring" which the Illinois Manufacturers' Association charges is responsible for the fuel conditions.

It is the intention of the grand jury that none but coal men shall be examined, and under Dineen's direction they are being asked to explain just what are the aims and objects of the Illinois Coal Operators' Association, and why coal cars stored on railroad tracks just outside the city limits are not being ordered into the city and marketed. It is said that investigators have discovered trains of coal cars sidetracked, and placarded with instructions to freight crews to hold the consignment indefinitely, and that hundreds of tons of coal have been taken from the cars and heaped up along the tracks.

Atty.-Gen. Hamlin declared that the investigation would not be confined to Chicago, but would reach out so as to take up the conditions throughout the State.

One of the first acts of the jury was to ask that subpoenas be issued for the appearance of Don R. Patterson and W. H. Rhodes of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad. Subpoenas are out for other railway officials, but no returns had been made at a late hour.

S. B. Dalzell of the Spring Valley Coal Company, was the first witness called. He was followed by E. E. Brent, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois Coal Operators' Association; Charles W. Gilmore, of the Crescent Coal and Mining Company, and George H. Holt of the Building Managers' Association.

Evidence is said to have been secured tending to prove that the operations of the alleged conspiring dealers are planned in secret quarters in a downtown office building, and that daily conferences were held until the present investigation began. The manager of the building is said to be a prospective witness, who, it is believed, will give the jurors information of great value in the investigation.

"We have not got our hands on just what we want yet," said States Attorney Dineen "but we will. It is coming, but slowly."

The investigation today was directed at the workings of Northern Illinois Soft Coal Dealers' Association, the Illinois Coal Operators' Association and the Indiana Coal Operators' Association.

BUCKING ICE IN RIVER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

DETROIT (Mich.) Jan. 12.—Following on the heels of the most severe snowstorm of the season yesterday came the coldest night of the winter in this city. At 7:30 this morning the thermometer registered 5 deg. below zero. Zero temperatures were general all over the lower peninsula below Alpena. The car ferries had considerable trouble plying through the ice with their trains. Both the ferries Lansdowne and Great Western spent the night in the river bucking the ice with passenger trains a board. The Canadian Pacific train from Toronto, due here at 2:15 a.m., spent the night on the car ferry fast in the river, and did not arrive here until 8:30 this morning. The International trains on the Wabash road were an average of ten hours late owing to the ice in the river.

SUFFERING IN MISSOURI.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Jan. 12.—Zero weather prevailed in Kansas City at 7 o'clock this morning, a fall of 11½ deg. in the past twelve hours. The suffering because of lack of fuel is severe. The supply of coal in Kansas City, which was short on Saturday, had diminished greatly over Sunday. Similar conditions exist at most points throughout this part of the Southwest.

FRIGID ST. LOUIS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 12.—An intensely frigid temperature prevails here. At 5 o'clock this morning the temperature registered 5 deg. above, but by 8:30 o'clock bright sunshine had raised the mercury to 10 above. Two inches of snow has brought out sleighs.

FOUR BELOW IN CLEVELAND.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CLEVELAND (O.) Jan. 12.—The lowest temperature of the winter, 4 below zero, was recorded here early today. At other points in Northern Ohio the temperature fell to 8 below. Practically all trains on the trunk line roads were running behind schedule time today.

During the night the wind reached a velocity of forty-four miles an hour from the west, and, combined with the extremely low temperature, and scarcity of fuel in many quarters, caused much suffering.

CINCINNATI HAS COAL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CINCINNATI (O.) Jan. 12.—Two-tenths of a degree above zero was the minimum recorded by the Weather Bureau this morning. Two degrees below was shown by many thermometers. This was a fall of 32 deg. in eighteen hours. Fortunately Cincinnati has no coal famine.

TOLEDO IN BAD SHAPE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

TOLEDO (O.) Jan. 12.—As a result of the blizzard, the suffering among the poor is intense. Offers of $12 a ton for anthracite coal were refused.

NEBRASKA IN LINE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

OMAHA (Neb.) Jan. 12.—At 7 o'clock this morning 3 deg. below was registered at the local Weather Bureau, with indications for little relief from the cold snap before tomorrow. The extreme cold covers Nebraska, Western Iowa and South Dakota.

IOWA'S LOW RECORD.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

DES MOINES, Jan. 12.—Extreme cold has prevailed throughout Iowa for thirty hours, the temperature ranging from zero to 6 below, accompanied by considerable wind. It was 3 deg. below zero here this morning. Hard coal cannot be obtained, and the soft coal supply is exhausted in many places, resulting in much suffering.

ZERO OUT OF SIGHT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. PAUL (Minn.) Jan. 12.—One degree below was the warmest reported here Sunday, and last night it went down to 7 deg. below. Moorhead reports a minimum of 18 deg. below, and Duluth 6 below. Fuel is scarce, and although there is not yet actual famine, there is much suffering.

FULTON LEADING IN RACE FOR SENATE.

HIS SUPPORTERS ORGANIZE THE OREGON LEGISLATURE.

Fight Likely to Be Protracted as There is No Caucus in Sight—Special Election Rendered Necessary by Death of Congressman Tongue.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SALEM (Or.) Jan. 12.—After a protracted caucus of the Republicans, both houses of the twenty-second biennial session of the Legislature were organized this afternoon.

George C. Brownell was chosen president of the Senate and L. T. Harris Speaker of the House. After selecting minor officials, both houses adjourned out of respect to the memory of the late Congressman Thomas H. Tongue.

The election of Brownell and Harris, as President of the Senate and Speaker of the House, respectively, is considered a victory for C. W. Fulton, one of the leading candidates for United States Senator. At present there is no prospect of a caucus on the Senatorship, though balloting will not begin until one week from tomorrow.

SPECIAL ELECTION NECESSARY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SALEM (Or.) Jan. 12.—The death of Congressman Thomas H. Tongue will necessitate the holding of a special election to fill the remainder of the term, which expires March 4 next, and one to fill the full term to which Mr. Tongue was elected last June. It is understood that the special election to fill the term ending March 4 will be called at once.

Utah Legislature Organizes.

SALT LAKE (Utah) Jan. 12.—The fifth biennial session of the Utah Legislature met at 12 noon today. Beyond electing officers, and organizing for the coming session nothing was done in either House, and adjournment was taken until 2 p.m. tomorow, when Gov. Wells's message will be read. The Republicans control both branches by heavy majorities. In the Senate Senator E. M. Allison was chosen President pro tem. Thomas Hull of Salt Lake was chosen Speaker of the House. Both were caucus nominees.

Beyond the election of a United Senator to succeed Senator Rawlins, little business of importance is in view at present.

Colorado's State Vote.

DENVER, Jan. 12.—The Legislature this afternoon canvassed the vote on State officers. The vote for Governor stands: James H. Peabody (Rep.) 87,774; E. C. Stimson (Dem.) 80,816; Frank Owers (Pop.) 6463; scattering, 6324.

The only Democrat elected is Mrs. Helen M. Grenfell, Superintendent of Public Schools, who received 87,073, against 84,942 cast for Mrs. A. B. Brandt (Rep.) Mrs. Grenfell was indorsed by the Populist State Convention

PITH OF NEWS FROM THE MIDDLE WEST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The mercury reached 6 deg. below zero here at 1 o'clock this morning; managed to crawl back to zero just before noon; attained a maximum of 2 deg. above at 5 o'clock this afternoon, and has stood at that point ever since. The cold wave is passing to the northeast, and a rise in temperature to 15 deg. above is promised for tomorrow. The coldest area in the United States tonight is in Minnesota. At Duluth the temperature is 6 deg. below; at St. Paul, 4 deg. below, and at Moorehead, zero. Southern Michigan and Northern Indiana report a blizzard, with trains stalled in snowdrifts, and otherwise delayed. All trains arriving in Chicago were from one to twelve hours behind time. Temperatures at 7 a.m.: New York, 22; Boston, 28; Philadelphia, 10; Washington, 10; Chicago, 2 below; Minneapolis, 4 below; Cincinnati, 0; St. Louis, 4.

ELEVEN PERSONS FROZEN.

With the continuance of the cold wave, the suffering due to the fuel famine grows worse hourly. Eleven persons have frozen to death in the last twenty-four hours. The Salvation Army and all the charitable machinery of the city are being exerted to the utmost to relieve the destitute, but are unable to reach hundreds of cases. On top of all this, the coal barons today ordered an advance of 50 cents a ton in the price of Pocahontas coal, in spite of the fact that thousands of cars loaded with coal fill the railroad yards and sidetracks just outside the city. In pleasing contrast to the reports of suffering and coal shortage from all parts of the Middle West, is the report that Cleveland coal dealers have cut the price to $2.50 a ton to the deserving poor, and also the report of the action of Iowa operators in blacklisting dealers who charged more than the listed prices.

LEAVING FOR CALIFORNIA.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Auten, Miss Cort Auten and Frank Auten will leave for California January 21, to remain until spring.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL FOR POOR.

An eight-story building in the Ghetto, to be used as an industrial school by the poor, is to be erected and completed by next July, under the auspices of the Daughters of the Revolution. Mrs. Marguerite Springer, State regent of the Daughters, has given the site on West Lake street, and the contract has been let.

PENNINGTON'S DEBTS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RACINE (Wis.) Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] All the debts of M. J. Pennington, of airship fame, have been settled by his wife, who has been left an income of $500 a month by the death of her father. Warrants against Pennington have been withdrawn, and their personal effects will not be sold.

BRYAN'S BROTHER'S DENIAL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LINCOLN (Neb.) Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Charles W. Bryan, business manager of the Commoner, denies a report in circulation here that his brother, W. J. Bryan, is contemplating the purchase of a local evening paper.

COMMANDEERED COAL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TUSCOLA (Ill.) Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Two hundred citizens commandeered ten cars of coal in the Illinois Central yards today, and distributed it among the poor. The Board of Health passed a resolution declaring that the confiscation was necessary for the preservation of the health of the people. The coal was afterward paid for.

ANTHRACITE COAL'S JUMP.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TOLEDO, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Anthracite coal jumped today, with zero weather, prevailing, from $3 to $15 a ton, and dealers do not want to sell, even at the latter price.

PRESIDENT OF MONMOUTH.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MONMOUTH (Ill.) Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Rev. T. H. McMichael of Cleveland has been tendered the presidency of Monmouth College, and it is believed he will accept. He is the son of the late Rev. J. B. McMichael, who was president of the institution for twenty years.

THEATER MANAGER ARRESTED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ANDERSON (Ind.) Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Manager James B. Dickson of the Grand Opera house was arrested tonight, charged by the local Anti-Crime League of desecrating Sunday by giving theatrical exhibitions, the receipts of which were given to charity. The complaint is based on an Indiana law which forbids business or manual labor Sunday.

LABOR.

MANY DAYS OF IDLENESS.

Miners Fond of Resting at Frequent Intervals.

Suffering of Freezing Poor Not a Spur to Industry.

Demands Made on the Alton—Portage Iron Works Forced to Shut Down.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 12.—Brig.-Gen. Wilson again presided at today's session of the Anthracite Coal Strike Commission, Chairman Gray still being confined to his home by illness.

A. B. Culver of New York, controller of the Delaware and Hudson Railway, who was on the witness stand when the commission adjourned Saturday, was again called upon to testify. Culver said that the wages statements handed in Saturday are final and that the miners representaves have agreed that they are a fair presentation of the case.

Gen. Wilson hoped that the representatives of other companies would be able to arrive at some understanding with the miners in the presentation of statements such as the Delaware and Hudson company had done.

Forge H. Anderson, a clerk in the coal department of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company, submitted a statement showing that 2388 of the 12,358 employés have been in the employ of the company from ten to sixty years. Darrow asked the witness if the company raised the price of coal 50 cents after the strike ended and he replied that it had, and that so far as he knew, the price was still maintained.

Anderson presented a statement showing that the twenty-eight colliers of the company lost 368 ten-hour days in 1901, for which the employés were responsible. Of these 115 were lost on account of picnics and other holidays (not including legal holidays;) 59 days on account of "Mitchell day," and other days, and 194 days on account of strikes and suspensions. Another statement offered by the witness showed that since the strike ended in the latter part of October, the twenty-eight collieries lost 110 days, reducing the coal production of the company 92,581 tons. Darrow, on cross-examination, disputed the method of the witness in arriving at the conclusions contained in the statement.

Thomas R. Thomas, outside foreman at the Jermyn colliery, of the company told of the difficulty he had in inducing the men to mine more coal. He produced a paper, alleged to have been drawn up by local union, No. 125, which stated that any man loading more cars in the heading than are loaded in the chambers would be expelled from the union.

William H. Dettrey of Neurenburg, the newly-elected president of District No. 7 of the Miners' Union, against whom it was testified last week that he said non-union men should have their throats cut, or should receive "a good thumping," was summoned to the witness stand by the miners. He denied the charges absolutely, and several witnesses were called who corroborated his statements.

CHICAGO AND ALTON FIREMEN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Representatives of the locomotive firemen employed by the Chicago and Alton Railroad waited on Superintendent Barrett today, and presented demands for an increased wage scale.

Barrett informed them that the company had increased their wages twice in two years, and said he could not promise them any further advance at present. He assured them, however, that should the Wabash or any of the other competitors of the Chicago and Alton increase wages, he would immediately grant similar concessions.

The committee said they would have to consult with Grand Master Hannahan of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen before taking final action. It is believed that a settlement will be reached at future conferences.

Iron Works Shut Down.

ALTOONA (Pa.) Jan. 12.—The plant of the Portage Iron Works, a branch of the American Steel Hoop Company, was shut down today because of lack of coal. About 500 men are thrown out of work.

SANTA FE WAGE QUESTION.

OFFICIALS OFFER TO CONFER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

TOPAKA (Kan.) Jan. 12.—The Grievance Committee of the Santa Fé conductors' and brakemen's conventions, in session here, were today notified by General Manager Mudge of the Santa Fé that Third Vice-President Kendrick would confer with then regarding an increase in wages. No action on the invitation was taken, but it is understood the conference will be held in Chicago next week.

The men are holding out for 20-percent. in crease in wages. This will not be granted by the road, but the Santa Fé is anxious to agree on a compromise measure.

BIG INCREASE.

ROCK ISLAND ENGINEERS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The general board of adjustment of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers on the Rock Island system finished its six weeks' labor of revising the wage schedule today, by which the engineers receive a 10 per cent. increase in wages, amounting to nearly $350,000 added to their pay a year.

His Personal Property Assessments Exceeds All New York Multi-Millionaires, Being Double That of Rockefeller.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—The tax assessment books opened to the public today show that Andrew Carnegie leads the list of personal property assessments, with $5,000,000. The list includes: Russell Sage, $2,000,000; John Jacob Astor, $2,000,000; John D. Rockefeder, $2,500,000; J. P. Morgan, $500,000; Howard Gould, $750,000; Cornelius Vanderbilt, $250,000; Reginald Vanderbilt, $350,000.

The real estate assessment valuation of the greater city shows an increase of $1,425,425,387 over 1902; personal property, $939,969,243 increase.

Among those who are not taxed by reason of having sworn off their taxes on the ground of being non-residents are Richard C. Croker, William Waldorf Astor and George J. Gould of Lakewood.

John Kattley, a Pittsburgh policeman, was killed Sunday night, and four other persons seriously injured in a street-car collision.

TELLS STORY OF MURDER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] James Buxter, a Metlakahtla Indian, is under arrest at Haines Alaska, charged with murdering white man near Haines Mission in September. The charge of murder made by Johnny James, another I dian who claims to have been wi Buxter when the crime was commi ted.

James told the story of the crim before the United States Commissione at Haines, January 1, later signing formal complaint charging Buxter wi the murder. Buxter was arrested a once, and is in jail with Johnny James while the authorities are investigating the latter's story. Buxter asserts h innocence.

According to Johnny's story he an Buxter were paddling about on an in let opposite Haines in September when they saw a white man watchin their movements from behind some trees on the shore. Buxter picked up a rifle from the bottom of the canoe and shot the white man, killing him. The Indians intended to carry the body into deep water and drop it overboard. They became frightened, however, and left the body on the shore, where the tide could reach it.

Johnny James was recently converted to the Christian religion, which is given as the cause of his confession. He lays the whole blame on Buxter.

OTTINGER IN JAIL.

JUDGE SLOSS SENDS HIM.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—Judge M. C. Sloss of the Superior Court today dealt a severe blow to the business of selling contraband railroad tickets, when he imposed a fine of $200 upon Adolph Ottinger and ordered him committed to jail for two days. Ottinger is one of the best-known ticket brokers in the country, and has long been a source of annoyance to the principal transcontinental railroad companies. It is charged that he makes a business of dealing in what are called scalped tickets. Ottinger has suffered conviction in the past, and now promises to take the matter to the Supreme Court.

SECRETARY OF NAVY IN RUNAWAY ACCIDENT.

THROWN FROM CARRIAGE AT THE NAVAL ACADEMY.

Mr. Moody Falls Upon His Face and is Rendered Unconscious—Horses Frightened by the Salute of Seventeen Guns—Senator Hale Was With Him, but Was not Hurt.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 12.—Secretary of the Navy William H. Moody was seriously but not dangerously injured at the Naval Academy grounds today in a runaway accident. Accompanied by Senator Hale, chairman of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee, the Secretary arrived here at 2 o'clock to inspect the new buildings that are being erected in the Naval Academy grounds, being driven from the railroad station in Superintendent Brownson's private carriage.

The battalion of cadets was drawn up in line of salute, just inside the academy grounds, and as the carriage bearing the Secretary, Senator Hale and their escort, Lieut. Poyer, passed in review, a salute of seventeen guns belched forth from the guns on the Santee wharf. The restive horses attached to the carriage swerved suddenly, and got beyond control of the driver. They dashed down Upshur Row, past the line of cadets, the driver meanwhile making every effort to quiet them. The breaking of the pole of a carriage, as the spirited animals dashed down the roadway, served to render them more excited.

As the maddened animals dashed down the hill toward College Creek, the driver, seeking to stop them, suddenly turned their heads into a vacant lot between two houses. Secretary Moody, who had opened the door of the carriage as the horses dashed over the frozen ground, suddenly leaped to the pavement as the carriage made the turn into the inclosure. He landed on his face on the pavement, and was rendered unconscious by the shock.

The battalion of midshipmen had broken ranks without orders as the carriage dashed by, and very soon the Secretary was lifted by tender hands and carried to the near-by residence of Superintendent Brownson, where he shortly recovered consciousness. Slight cuts and bruises on his forehead, nose and face are thought to be the extent of the Secretary's injuries. Neither Senator Hale nor Lieut. Poyer was injured, as the horses were brought up against a wall soon after making the turn into the open lot.

WILL REMAIN AT ANNAPOLIS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—It is reported from Annapolis tonight that Secretary Moody will remain there a day or two, in order to recover from the shock resulting from the accident.

De Lonyay Decamps Leaving His Princess Behind.

Poverty Came in at Door and Love Flew Out of Window.

Crash Comes After Vain Effort to Live on Beggarly Twenty-five Thousand a Year.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

VIENNA, Jan. 12.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Serious differences, according to Die Zeit, have arisen between the Count and Countess De Lonyay, formerly the Crown Princess Stephanie, during their stay in the south of France. The Count is reported to have suddenly left his wife, and to have since given no intimation of his whereabouts. The nature of the alleged differences has not developed.

The Crown Princess Stephanie of Austria-Hungary, widow of the Archduke Rudolph, and a daughter of King Leopold of Belgium, was married March 22, 1900, to Count De Lonyay, a popular diplomat of high standing in court circles. The marriage of the Princess to Count De Lonyay was bitterly opposed by King Leopold.

CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

VIENNA, Jan. 12.—The Associated Press has ascertained that the story published in Die Zeit is repeated in other Vienna papers. They report that the Count left his wife at Mentone January 7, and his present whereabouts is unknown.

Friends of the Count assert that in addition to difficulties in his financial affairs, the Count has found his position in society as the husband of the former Crown Princess of Austria-Hungary exceedingly uncomfortable and unpleasant. That the Count will seek to obtain a divorce is regarded as by no means improbable. The disagreement between the couple has long been evident, and it is believed that pecuniary troubles underlie the affair.

As a widow, the former Crown Princess enjoyed an income of $125,000, and had a free residence at the imperial palace, and the use of carriages and servants. It is reported that the couple married in the belief that Emperor Francis Joseph and King Leopold together would contribute handsomely to their maintenance; in this, however, they were disappointed. The Emperor gave the Countess de Lonyay $25,000 a year only, while King Leopold stopped her former allowance of $20,000 a year.

The Countess consequently tried to meet all the expenses of maintaining her household with one-fifth her former income, and found the task impossible. She used the influence of her daughter, Archduchess Elizabeth-Marie, who is a favorite with the Austrian Emperor, to secure additional money, and to obtain permission to reside in one of the imperial palaces, where she was out of reach of her creditors. She was granted the use of the palace at Heisendorff, near Vienna, but this privilege expired upon the marriage of her daughter to Prince Von Windischgraetz, January 3, 1902.

The Countess de Lonyay is supposed recently to have borrowed money from Princess VonWindischgraetz, but the visit of the Countess to her daughter at Prague, December 6, which lasted only an hour, has led to the belief that the Princess refused her mother further supplies. It is thought that since the marriage of Archduchess Elizabeth-Marie, Prince Von Windischgraetz has interfered to prevent his wife from continuing to act as intermediary between her mother and her grandfather, the Emperor, who had been remarkably generous to the Countess.

The present situation is believed to have resulted from the interference of Prince Von Windischgraetz.

strong hopes that action with respect to a removal of the duty on anthracite coal will be taken elsewhere, and he asked that the resolution go over. Mr. Vest vigorously objected, saying he had no assurance that anything will be done in any other place.

"Circumstantial evidence," he said, "is strongly against any such assumption. No action has been taken, and no suspicion of any action has been seen anywhere, and, therefore, under existing conditions, to allow this resolution to go into the uncertain and nebulous future would be equivalent to its defeat."

Mr. Vest referred to last Thursday's debate on the subject, and declared that the only partisan feature of it came from Mr. Aldrich. In all his experience, he asserted, he had never seen such unanimity of public sentiment on any subject. He called attention to the action of the Legislature of Rhode Island, January 8, unanimously voting for the removal of the duty on coal, and had read newspaper reports commenting upon the action. Mr. Vest said he did not want to embarrass the Senator from Rhode Island, who was amply able to defend himself, but his desire was to place before the Senate proof of the sentiment for free coal now existing.

Mr. Vest again reverted to what he called his "unfortunate reference to Mr. Dingley," which had been so vigorously resented, and sent to the desk and had read a letter from Congressman Fleming of Georgia, enclosing one from former Representative King of Utah, dealing with a conversation with Mr. Dingley at the time the Dingley Bill was under consideration in Congress, in which he is said to have apprehended changes in the bill, which were necessary to obtain foreign markets for American goods, and that the trend of Mr. Dingley's mind was in that direction, and therefore bore out the statement contained in the Philadelphia Bulletin and republished in the Washington Post.

Mr. Carmack of Tennessee charged that reciprocity has been "strangled" by protection.

"It has been murdered in cold blood by protection," said he. "Beneficiaries of the protected manufacturers and the protected trusts," he said, "have paid to themselves every particle of the tariff duties provided in the Dingley act."

Mr. Aldrich said the remarks of the Senator from Missouri, and the Senator from Tennessee only confirmed his former statement that the resolution was for no other purpose than to discuss questions outside the coal question.

Referring to the newspaper report which Mr. Vest had read, Mr. Aldrich said the people of Rhode Island fully understood his position on the tariff question.

"There has been no disguise in the past," he said, "and there will be none in the future as to that position."

Mr. Aldrich then took up the statement attributed to Mr. Dingley regarding reciprocity, and declared that the bill was in print, and had been prepared nearly a month before the conversation is alleged to have taken place. The resolution went over until tomorrow, when Mr. Aldrich will continue his remarks.

The vote by which the Senate passed the bill incorporating the Society of the Army of Santiago de Cuba was reconsidered, and the bill was ordered recommitted.

At 2 o'clock the Statehood bill was taken up.

TONGUE'S DEATH ANNOUNCED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Mr. Nelson continued his remarks in opposition to the Omnibus Statehood Bill, and had not concluded when, at 4 o'clock, by unanimous consent, a large number of unobjected-to pension bills on the calendar were passed.

Mr. Mitchell of Oregon announced the death in this city yesterday of Representative Tongue of Oregon, and offered the usual resolutions, expressing the sorrow of the Senate. The President pro tem appointed Messrs. Mitchell, Perkins of California, Dolliver of Iowa, Turner of Washington and Dubois of Idaho, a committee on the part of the Senate to accompany the remains of Representative Tongue to Oregon, and the Senate, at 5:15 o'clock p.m., adjourned until tomorrow.

HOUSE PROCEEDINGS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—HOUSE.—When the House met today, the desk of the late Representative Tongue of Oregon, who died suddenly in this city yesterday, was heavily draped with black and covered with flowers. The chaplain, in his invocation, referred feelingly to the loss that the House had sustained, and prayed for the bereaved widow and children.

After the reading of the Journal, a resolution was adopted, providing for a session Sunday, February 8, for fitting tribute to the memory of the late Representative Salmon.

The Diplomatic and Consular Bill was reported. The Speaker reported the resignation of Mr. Henry from the Committee on Insular Affairs, and the appointment of Mr. Robinson of Indiana to fill the vacancy.

Mr. Grosvenor of Ohio, from the Committee on Rules, called up the resolution on merchant marine and fisheries, providing for an investigation by that committee into the coal situation, and it was adopted without debate. Mr. Moody of Oregon then announced the death of his colleague, Representative Tongue, and offered the customary resolutions of regret, which were adopted.

The Speaker appointed the following committee to attend the funeral services: Messrs. Moody of Oregon, Burton of Ohio, Payne of New York, Bishop of Michigan, Davidson of Wisconsin, McLachlan of California, Ransdell of Louisiana, Needham of California, Bellamy of North Carolina, Southerland of Utah, and Bates of Pennsylvania. Then, at 12:10 o'clock p.m., as a further mark of respect, the House adjourned.

SENATE AND HOUSE.

COAL PROPOSITION PROMINENT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—A lively debate occurred in the Senate today between Messrs. Aldrich, Vest and Carmack, when the first-named endeavored to secure a postponement of the Vest resolution requiring the Committee on Finance to report a bill removing the duty on coal. Mr. Aldrich announced that there were strong hopes of action being taken elsewhere with the view of removing the duty on coal. The proposition was not acceptable to Mr. Vest, who expressed the opinion "that to allow the resolution to go into the uncertain and nebulous future, would mean its defeat." Mr. Nelson continued his remarks in opposition to the Omnibus Statehood Bill, and a large number of private pension bills were passed by unanimous consent.

The House today, after adopting a resolution to authorize the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee to investigate the coal situation at once, adjourned out of respect to the memory of the late Representative Tongue of Oregon, after the appointment of a committee to attend the funeral.

The resolution to investigate the coal situation recites the fact that a resolution has been introduced to extend the privilege of carrying coal to coastwise ports to foreign steamers for ninety days, because the present scarcity of coal involves great suffering and distress, and authorises the committee to investigate "facts, charges and necessities; to inquire into the elements and conditions involved in the coal trade, the cost of coal, the methods, facilities and cost of transportation and distribution of the same, and treasons, or causes of such scarcity and distress."

The committee is directed to report to the House the testimony, with its conclusions thereon, as soon as possible. It is given power to send for persons and papers, to administer oaths, etc., and incur such expense as may be deemed necessary. The meetings are to be held in Washington and in such other places as the committee may determine.

PACIFIC TRANSPORT SERVICE.

MR. HULL OPPOSES TRANSFER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Representative Hull of Iowa, chairman of the House Committee on Military Affairs, had a conference today with the President on the proposition to abandon the government transport service on the Pacific. Chairman Hull is opposed to the relinquishment of the transport service. He says that the United States now has the best transport service in the world, and that it is much cheaper in operation than any similar service on commercial lines would be.

REPORT ON AFFAIRS IN HAWAII TERRITORY.

EX-QUEEN HAS ONLY RENTAL INTEREST IN LANDS.

Recommendation Made That the Leper Colony Be Placed Under Marine Hospital Service Control and That a General Leprosario Be Established.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The Senate Committee on Porto Rico and the Pacific Islands met today to receive the report of the committee instructed at the close of the last session of Congress to investigate conditions in the Hawaiian Islands. This subcommittee consisted of Senators Mitchell of Oregon, Burton of Kansas, Foster of Washington, Cockrell of Missouri and Blackburn of Kentucky. The last two named did not visit the islands, but Senator Blackburn joined in the recommendations, numbering twenty-six. The visit to the islands was made last September, and covered twenty-five days, during which time forty-three meetings were held and 176 witnesses were interrogated.

The investigation was general, and covered all questions with which the government possibly could be concerned, including the laws, local and Federal, and their execution, the public lands, labor on plantations, the harbors, taxation, the leprosy settlement, Queen Liliuokalani's claims and other subjects. The condition of affairs in the leper settlement on the Island of Molokai excited the liveliest interest.

The committee made a quite thorough inquiry concerning this settlement, which is under Territorial control, with the result that it recommends that the management of the colony be transferred to the Marine Hospital service, with headquarters in Washington, and that a general leprosario, or retreat, for all the lepers of the United States, be established on that island.

At the time of the visit of the committee there were 858 lepers in the settlement. The opinion is expressed that there are many hundreds of cases of leprosy in the Territory. In the past year, in the Molokai settlement, there were 144 deaths and sixteen births in the colony, eight of the children born being illegitimate.

Much diversity of opinion was found in the Territory as to whether the control of the settlement should be retained by the Territorial government, though all the Territorial officers were found to be favorable to such retention. The committee takes strong grounds in favor of a change, and in this connection freely discusses the conditions with reference to morality which prevail, saying:

"Your committee has been somewhat surprised to find that, under existing management of the leper settlement, indiscriminate legitimate and illegitimate cohabitation is permitted in the settlement. Marriages are suffered to be celebrated between leprous men and women, regardless of their physical condition. Children are born in the settlement of leprous union, and as a result of concubinage, and, strange as it may appear, the leading officials seem to regard all this not only as permissible, but protest vigorously against a system of segregation that would prevent it."

Further along, the commission says that unrestricted illegitimate association is permitted by the authorities, and adds: "The only attempt seemingly to abate or minimize this evil is by counseling and earnestly urging marriage on the part of lepers, even going so far in this direction as to aid in facilitating divorces where a leprous man or woman has a wife or husband outside of the settlement, so that the husband or wife thus released from the marriage obligation may be married to a leper or inmate of the leper settlement."

THE LABOR QUESTION.

In connection with its discussion of the labor question, the committee takes up the effort on the part of the business men of the islands to secure the removal of some of the restrictions on Chinese immigration. This desire is conceded to be very general, but Senators Mitchell and Foster, representing a majority of the subcommittee, take very positive ground in opposition. They say that the conditions are not different in the islands from what they are on the mainland, and make the usual argument against Chinese admission. They contend, also, that the Chinese do much to introduce and maintain bubonic plague and other contagious diseases.

Senator Burton takes the opposite view. He says that neither the native or white men will work in the sugar fields, and he calls attention to the freedom with which oriental labor was brought in the days of monarchy.

"It is," he says, "a well-known fact that the country was very prosperous when it was a kingdom, and continued very prosperous under the provisional government and under the republic. Its period of decline began with annexation, and matters have gone on under annexation from bad to worse, until today the spectre of hard times is found everywhere throughout the islands."

He says the Chinese are preferable to the Japanese, and he urges that it is an unfair discrimination to allow the latter to come in unrestricted and not to permit the former to come in at all. He suggests that Chinese be allowed to enter to perform agricultural labor, and for no other purpose.

Much space is devoted to discussion of the administration of the public lands of the Territory, and the committee finds that the policy pursued in Hawaii with reference to those lands is directly contrary to the policy pursued in the United States. It is remarked that whereas the policy on the mainland is to preserve the lands for homes for the people, the policy now being enforced in Hawaii seems to be to utilize the public domain solely for the purpose of revenue, and consequently very little of the public lands are being sold, but large tracts placed under long leases, a policy which, in the judgment of your committee, should not be continued under any circumstances or for any length of time.

In addition to the recommendation that the leasing system be abolished, the committee suggests that the control of the lands immediately be taken from the Territorial government and vested in the Interior Department at Washington. The appointment of a Surveyor-General for, and the creation of two land districts in, the Territory are recommended, and it is suggested that the Secretary of the Interior should be empowered to make a thorough investigation pertaining to the administration of the lands.

CENTRALIZED GOVERNMENT.

The centralized character of the present government is commented on at length, and very sharply criticized. It is declared there is very slight difference in this respect from the monarchical form of government preceding annexation. The committee says that so marked, indeed, was this centralized condition that it is difficult to determine the extent and character of the changes. This situation, they think, is due to oversight on the part of the Congress, and to conditions existing in the islands at the time of their acquisition, but they think it should not be permitted to continue. They express the opinion that if the people are not granted the privilege of participating in the government they may in time revolt, and on this point the report says:

"The people of Hawaii as a mass cannot be commended too highly for their attitude toward the Federal government since annexation was consummated. They have shown a spirit of devotion and loyal allegiance to the republic and its flag worthy of all praise. Yet it is not strange that those who held office under the late monarchy, and many of whom are now holding leading official positions in the Territorial government, should be slow to relinquish many of the old governmental forms and practices under which they lived and officiated for so many years."

Among other institutions of the government of the islands of which the committee disapproves, is the Governor's advisory council, which, they say, is without any authority of law. All questions, even those pertaining to slight improvements in distant islands, are passed on by this council. The committee considers this an evil to be remedied by the creation of local municipal governments throughout the Territory.

Referring to the recent defalcations on the part of officials in the islands, the committee says: "There has recently been a perfect saturnalia of defalcations, involving the administration of Gov. Dole in a cloud, and enshrouding his name in a maze of embarrassments."

GOV. DOLE BLAMELESS.

The committee criticizes the present system, which requires no bonds from persons engaged in judiciary positions, saying: "Although all these officers thus defaulting, except Woodward, Thompson, Chief Clerk Wright and Walter A. Wright, were appointed by Gov. Dole, by and with the advice and consent of the Territorial Senate, inasmuch as it is conceded by all that these defaulting officers had always, prior to their respective appointments, borne good reputations for integrity and business capacity, it would, in the opinion of the committee, be unjust to attach any blame on account of these official irregularities to Gov. Dole. It is, however, a matter of surprise that there is no provision whatever in the organic act, or in any local statute requiring either the Territorial Treasurer or any other Federal or Territorial officer, except in the case of 'the Assessor and Tax Collector,' to give a bond conditioned for the faithful performance of trust.

"In the case of the 'assessor and tax collector,' while the local statute requires him to give bond in not less than $10,000, he was only required to give a bond, and is now under such bond, in the sum of but $2000, while by his own testimony before the committee, he may have as much as $650,000 taxes in his hands and under his control at one time. In requiring a greater bond from this officer, your committee believes the Governor and Secretary of State are properly chargeable with negligence of public duty. Your committee recommend legislation that will compel every officer, both Federal and Territorial, who has control of public funds to give a sufficient bond to cover any and all delinquencies."

CROWN LANDS.

The committee finds that ex-Queen Liliuokalani had no personal interest in the crown lands which have been claimed for her, but only an official interest during her reign. Such interest would have entitled her to the rental of the lands, and the committee finds from the time of the dethronement to September 1 last, the rental would have amounted to $432,378. In view of all the circumstances, the committee recommends that, as an act both of justice and national grace and wisdom, the Senate consider with favor, on the lines indicated in this report, the claim of the late Liliuokalani, now a loyal private citizen of the United States, and make such reasonable provision for her as the facts presented may seem to justify.

The committee recommends the disallowance of claims made by the other persons, professing to be members of the late royal family of Hawaii.

OTHER MATTERS.

The committee refers to charges of corruption and incompetency made against Justice John W. Katua, Circuit Judge in the Second Judicial Circuit District, and gives the testimony adduced in support of the charges. It makes no comment, however, but says Judge Katua made no reply to the charges.

Speaking of the treatment of employés of the large plantations, the committee expresses the opinion that good provision in the way of houses is made for them, and adds that all of those employed seem to be living in happiness and contentment. In addition to houses, fuel and medical attendance, farm laborers received from $15 to $20 per month.

The committee finds such reasons for encouragement in respect to the coffee industry in the islands, and recommends a bounty of 4 cents a pound on coffee for ten years.

The report proper covers almost 200 pages, while the testimony is much more extended.

COAL TRANSPORTATION.

INQUIRY IN PREPARATION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries, which today was authorized by the House to investigate the question of coal transportation, will meet Wednesday and outline a programme for hearings that are to be given.

CONFERENCE IN SENATE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—There was a conference on the floor of the Senate today, which was participated in by Senators Aldrich, Allison, Spooner and Lodge and Chairman Payne of the House Committee on Ways and Means. After the conference, Senator Aldrich announced in the Senate, when the Vest resolution for the removal of the duty on coal came up, that he had reason to believe there would be action elsewhere regarding the removal of the duty. It had been the contention of Senator Aldrich that the Senate had no power to initiate such legislation.

Chairman Payne said, after the remark of Senator Aldrich in the Senate, that the Ways and Means Committee would meet tomorrow and consider the coal bills. Several bills have been referred to the committee, some providing for a suspension of the duty for a fixed period, some for a rebate, and others for the removal of the duty without limit. Mr. Payne said he thought the committee would take some action, either for a suspension of the coal duty or a rebate.

STEWART'S RESOLUTION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Senator Stewart of Nevada, who is conducting the coal investigation before the committee of the District of Columbia, today introduced a resolution providing that the committee shall be authorized to send for persons and papers and administer oaths and compel the attendance of witnesses. Owing to the expense involved, the resolution had to go to the Committee on Contingent Expenses of the Senate.

The object of the resolution is to secure the attendance of officials of coal roads and coal companies, and to secure testimony from dealers in the city who have refused to answer questions. Senator Stewart intends to secure an early report from the committee, and to pass the resolution today, if possible.

THE SEVERAL BILLS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Among the bills before the Ways and Means Committee affecting the duty on coal is one introduced early in the session by Representative Hill of Connecticut. The bill received the favorable consideration of the committee. It provides as follows:

"That there shall be allowed and paid, under such regulations as the Secretary of the Treasury shall prescribe, on all coal of every kind and form imported into any port on the Atlantic Coast, a drawback of import duties paid on the same to and including the 30th day of June, 1903. This act to take effect immediately upon its passage."

Another bill, introduced by Representative McCall of Massachusetts, suspends the collection of duties on coal for ninety days. Mr. McCall and Senator Lodge had a talk on the House side late in the day. One of the members of the Ways and Means Committee said it was immaterial whether a bill to suspend the collection of duties, or one providing for a rebate, was adopted, since both have the same effect, and that it would be only a matter of method, but he inclined to the view that a rebate bill would be preferable.

A number of bills have been introduced in the House, and have been referred to the Ways and Means Committee, which provide for the repeal of all duties upon coal of all kinds imported into the United States. There is still another bill providing for a reciprocal trade relation between the United States and Canada. It is not stated whether this last bill is to be considered tomorrow with the rebate and suspension measures.

WILL REMOVE THE DUTY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—It is expected that Congress will pass a bill removing the duty of 67 cents a ton on coal imported into this country. This bill may take the form of a rebate or drawback for ninety days, and also will provide for reciprocity admitting free of duty coal imported into this country from countries granting the same privileges to the United States. This means Canada, and will permit Nova Scotia coal to come into this country free, while coal from the Alleghenies and westward will go into Canada free of duty.

The Ways and Means Committee will meet tomorrow, and according to the present programme will report a bill on the above lines. It is expected the bill will pass the House tomorrow. It will be taken up in the Senate very soon, and the intention is to have it pass without much delay.

SECRETARY MOODY INJURED.

THROWN FROM HIS CARRIAGE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The Superintendent of the Naval Academy telegraphed to the White House this afternoon that, during the reception to Senator Hale and Secretary Moody this afternoon, the horses attached to their carriage ran away, and Secretary Moody was thrown out and slightly bruised. Senator Hale escaped injury.

ANTI-TRUST LEGISLATION.

PROMISED BY CONGRESS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The President has pressed both houses of Congress into confessing that they will attempt to pass some sort of trust-regulating legislation at this session, and all that remains to be decided now is how far the Senate is willing to go in "trust-busting". The House, it appears, will pass some bill within the next three or four weeks. Probably the House bill, however, will be too stringent to suit the more conservative Senators.

At today's meeting of the Senate Judiciary Committee, it was almost agreed that legislation will be put through this session, in view of the President's repeated statements that he will feel it to be his public duty to call an extra session, if some legislation be not had, but it did not appear that the Senate Judiciary Committee stands ready to adopt the suggestions for legislation framed by the President and Atty.-Gen. Knox. These suggestions are a bit too hot for some old-time Senators, who have long practiced extreme conservatism in dealing with business affairs in legislation.

SENATORIAL SQUABBLES.

THE PRESIDENT HOLDS ALOOF.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The President has taken no part in the political situation at Albany, growing out of the defection of State Senators Brackett and Brown from the organization. It can be stated on authority that the President has not been asked to take a hand; has not volunteered to do so, and would not do so under any circumstances. It can be stated on the highest authority that the President has not offered to use his influence with State Senators Elsberg and Brown to persuade them to vote for United States Senator Platt's reelection, nor has he been asked to do so; notwithstanding the published reports to the contrary. He has not interested himself in the matter one way or another, and has not at any time thought of doing so.

The general proposition is laid down that the President will take no part in State politics anywhere. An apparent exception to this rule was in the Utah case, where the election of a Mormon apostle to the United States Senate was threatened. It was held in this case, however, that the matter was not strictly one of State interests, but one of national concern. Both sides of the fight in Colorado have repeatedly appealed to the President to say something which would straighten out the tangle at Denver and smooth the way for the election of a Senator. These appeals, however, had no effect, for the President is resolved to keep out of the controversy.

TWO WERE EASY MARKS FOR CLAIRVOYANT.

HE TOLD THE CONFIDING WOMEN TO BORROW AND TO BURY.

His Clients Sell Their Property for Bank Notes Which He Charms—The Money Buried in a Barn Turns to Paper—Next Day it Snowed Over Everything.

[Portland Oregonian:] Taking advantage of the superstitious nature of his patrons, and dazzling them with the hope of enormous riches, De Amandus, a clairvoyant who has an office at No. 167½ First street, recently succeeded in robbing two Montavilla women of $1028. A complaint has been made to the District Attorney, and the detectives are now trying to find the clairvoyant. When seen late last night Deputy District Attorney Arthur C. Spencer was not able to tell the names of both of the victims, although he said one was a Mrs. Moor of Montavilla, and the other a relative of J. B. Wild, a liquor dealer who has a saloon on Third street near Alder. Mr. Wild, when seen, admitted that a relative of his had been the victim of a trick which had cost her a considerable amount of money, but refused to give the name.

The game which the smooth clairvoyant played was a simple one, and it is almost incredible to believe that two women of a mature age would have been taken in by such a scheme. He had instilled confidence into them, however, by his smooth talk, and had filled their minds with avaricious hopes, and they were ready to do his bidding.

"Get $1500," said he, "and bring it to me. I will charm it. You can bury it and leave it for a certain length of time. Upon digging it up you will find that it has turned into a box of gold and you will be magnificently rich."

DREAMED OF GREAT RICHES.

The women believed his great story and made an effort to raise the money. Both were poor, and the hope of a box of gold was beyond anything they had ever dreamed of. Through years of hard work and saving they had possessed themselves of a small amount of property. This they mortgaged, thus obtaining the money. About December 1 bills to the amount of $1028 were drawn from an Oregon City bank, and the women proceeded to the office of De Amandus to have their money charmed. One had succeeded in raising $700 and the other $328. They did not count on their present share, however, for the box of gold, they thought, would be of such great value that they would never again need to figure their accounts closely. The bills were closely tucked away in an envelope, and when they arrived at the office they told the magician that they could not raise the entire amount, but would like to have as much gold as $1028 would produce. He took the envelope, made some marks upon it, and went through a ceremony which was supposed to give it the power of changing into a large amount of gold as soon as it was buried away. They could not think that it was any trick, for he did not wish to know where it was to be buried, rather impressing upon them that the whole thing was to be a secret, and that they were to be the only ones to know where the money was buried. After he had counted it over carefully to make sure that it was all there, and that he was not making a charm for a different amount, he sealed the envelope again and handed it back to them, charging them that it was not to be opened or tampered with, but buried at once and left until December 22, when they could dig it up and would find that they were enormously rich. With trembling hands and fluttering hearts they proceeded at once to their homes, and carried out the instructions.

They did not wish any one to know of the burial of the money, and finally decided that the safest place was in the center of the barn. A board was torn from the barn floor, a hole the required size was dug, and the money placed in it. It was on December 5 that the money was buried, and they were to have their riches in time to celebrate the great Christmas holiday. Great plans were made for presents on the day of festivity, and they confided to each other that they would make a sensation when they dug up their fortune. On the appointed day they again went to the barn. Their excitement was great, and they whispered to each other that there was danger of their being robbed before they could get the money to the bank. Trembling with hope and excitement, they dug down where they had left the sealed envelope, expecting every moment to strike the box of gold. Great was their disappointment when they found the envelope just as they had left it.

HOPES DASHED TO GROUND.

"We were foolish enough to believe such a thing," they said, and laughed together as they thought how they had been fooled. But it did not occur to them how badly they had really been deceived. Their spirits depressed, and their hopes of riches vanished, they went back into the house to divide their money, and it was here that they received the hardest blow of all. In place of the bills which they expected to find, the envelope was filled with newspaper clippings and small pieces of paper the size of a currency bill. The mystery was too deep for them. They were sure that no one had known where the money was buried, and felt as though they had in some way failed to carry out the instructions, and the charm had worked in an opposite direction. They went at once to see the clairvoyant, but he was not to be found. Their adventure was then related to friends, and it took but a few moments and a small amount of explanation for them to solve the mystery.

"Yes," they admitted, "he had handled the money, but had put it all back in the envelope, and had left them to bury it wherever they might see fit. There was no chance for him to have taken the money, for he did not know where it was buried." The friends were quick to see, however, that in handling the money and going through his motions, which were to charm it, that he had mystified the two women who had not watched him closely enough, and had substituted the paper slips and kept the bills for his own use.

The District Attorney's office was of once notified, but their man had remembered when the time was up and had evidently decided to leave for a place where the people would not know his game so well. He must have taken the money along, for there is nothing left of him now but an office in First street, with his name engraved on a large plate on the front door, with a long list of his magical accomplishments.

OUTFITS FOR WARSHIPS.

They are Becoming More Sumptious Every Year—Wardrooms Resemble Modern Hotels.

[Brooklyn Eagle:] "The outfits for our warships are becoming more handsome and sumptuous every year," was the remark of one of the officers attached to the Bureau of Equipment, recently. "A stranger stepping into the wardroom of one of our new cruisers would never imagine that he was on a ship, except for the somewhat cramped quarters. The expensive rugs, heavy mahogany furniture and costly fittings resemble the interior of a modern and expensive hotel rather than that of a fighting machine. When the American navy officer puts to sea nowadays he is provided with every luxury and comfort that is to be had at the Waldorf-Astoria."

An examination of the "allowance list" for the new battleship Maine, which is soon to go into commission, bears out what the officers above quoted said about the lite of ease and luxury which our officers lead while at sea. For instance, it is estimated that it will cost $5000 alone to purchase the dining-table outfits for the officers of the battleship. This does not include any solid silver, although everything will be of the finest. The fact that the Maine is to be a flagship will require five separate messes to be maintained, so provision must be made for that many tables. The flag officer, of course, is fitted out in the most liberal manner; then comes the captain's table, the wardroom mess, the junior officers' mess and the mess for the warrant officers. The furnishings for the flag officers' table are bought with a liberal hand, and he has every accessory that would be needed for the most elaborate dinner entertainment. For instance, the Maine will go into commission with the following stock of supplies in the flag officer's quarters: Thirty-six doilies thirty-six napkins of two different sizes, the same number of table cloths and towels for glasses.

The same outfit is provided for the captain's mess, for the wardroom mess, the junior officers' mess and the warrant officers' mess, although the last two messes' supply is cut down to one style of table cloths and napkins. A long list of cooking and pantry utensils, covering four printed pages single column, of the book of "allowances," seemingly calls for everything that would be needed to stock a large-sized hotel. One of these outfitfits is provided for each of the five messes. In addition to plies of the same kind are to be for the mess of the master at arms, the mess of the ship's corporals, the berth deck mess and the ward room and general mess.

The outfit of plated ware for the officer is generous in the extreme, and, with the china and glass equipment, furnishes every kind of dish or table utensil that would be required at any kind of dinner function. There is a gradual shading in the number and variety of these articles when it comes to supplying messes below the grade of officers. The glassware stock for the officer includes half a dozen sets of different kinds and styles, two dozen champagne glasses, twice that number of claret glasses, two dozen sherry glasses and two dozen sherry glasses. The captain's mess gets about the only eighteen glasses for each kind of wine; while the warrant officers are not supposed to indulge in such extravagances, as they get none at all.

It is not generally known that every commissioned warship in the navy has on board a complete athletic outfit, so that if officers complain of gout for other complaints that a high living they may regain health by vigorous exercise. The outfit, for instance, will get the following athletic goods: Punching bags, Indian clubs of three sizes, dumb bells, number of dumb bells of varying weights, eight pairs of eight-ounce boxing gloves, and all kinds of fencing supplies, such as gloves, helmets and plastrons. Theodore Roosevelt, by the way was responsible for the inclusion of the athletic outfit on our warships. When Assistant Secretary of the Navy he caused an order to be issued calling for boxing gloves, dumb bells and other strength-giving apparatus to be supplied to each vessel.

I Will Cure You of RHEUMATISM

Else No Money is Wanted.

Any honest person who suffers from Rheumatism is welcome to this offer.

I am a specialist in Rheumatism, and have treated more cases than any other physician, I think. For 14 years I made 2000 experiments with different drugs, testing all known remedies while searching the world for something better. Nine years ago I found a costly chemical in Germany which, with my previous discoveries, gives me a certain cure.

I don't mean that it can turn bony joints into flesh again; but it can cure the disease at any stage, completely and forever. I have done it fully 100,000 times.

I know this so well that I will furnish my remedy on trial. Simply write me a postal for my book on Rheumatism, and I will mail you an order on your druggist for six bottles Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure. Take it for a month at my risk. If it succeeds, the cost is only $5.50. If it fails, I will pay the druggist myself, and your mere word shall decide it.

I mean that exactly. If you say the results are not what I claim, I don't expect a penny from you.

I have no samples. Any mere sample that can affect chronic Rheumatism must be drugged to the verge of danger. I use no such drugs, and it is folly to take them. You must get the disease out of the blood.

My remedy does that even in the most difficult chronic cases. It has cured the oldest cases that I ever met. And in all my experience—in all my 2000 tests—I never found another remedy that will cure one chronic case in ten.

Write me and I will send you the order. Try my remedy for a month, as it can't harm you anyway. If it fails it is free.

Address, Dr. Shoop, Box 63, Racine, Wis.

Mild cases, not chronic, are often cured by one or two bottles. At all druggists.

Corbett Posts Forfeit for a M With Jeffries—New Orlea and Oakland Races.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES]

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Local turfmen were treated to a sensation today, when Emil E. Herz, senior partner of the racing combination of Durnell & Herz, ordered a stable made ready for entertainment for Churchill Downs, Louisville and Los Angeles. The first twenty-six odd head of horses will be sent away from the fair grounds Thursday morning.

The cause assigned for such abrupt decision is that successive losses by the local ring have soured Herz, the prime speculative partner of the firm. He is said to have lost upward of $[illegible] since Thanksgiving day in the local ring alone. After a long session of betting triumphs at Chicago, this sudden reverse has greatly provoked the plunger. Talking to a well-known trainer at the St. Charles Hotel last night, Herz said:

"We made up almost $200,000 at Chicago last summer, and it has been the opposite here. McChesney and some of our good horses will be sent to Los Angeles to race."

The fact that Durnell & Herz will race horses at Los Angeles is taken as a direct slap at Tom Williams, president of the California Jockey Club, who refused to accept their entries last fall on account of Durnell being ruled off the turf in France. They are taking this step to get even with Williams, who is fighting the Los Angeles meeting.

BUSINESS.

Checks taken to the Los Angeles clearinghouse yesterday, for the period since Saturday noon, amounted to $[illegible],170.42, as compared with $960,-[illegible]97 for the corresponding period of last year. The figures indicate a satisfactory business activity in every line. Wheat prices were subject to many fluctuations at Chicago, and the close was at 75¾@75¾. Large selling of stocks at New York took the vigor out of speculation, and the market sank into a condition of semi-stagnation.

TRIPLE EVIL.

Statements made by Charles T. Yerkes, the railway magnate, who recently returned from Europe, as reported in a special dispatch from New York to The Times of Sunday, are likely to attract widespread attention. Coming as they do from one of our leading captains of industry, who knows what he is talking about, Mr. Yerkes declared that the trusts are a deadly menace to prosperity, and he said that they will work ultimate and most serious harm to the country. In other cities instances where the trusts have actually put an American industry from competition in foreign markets, by maintaining ridiculously low prices for dividend-paying purposes, and he predicted an early and disastrous result in American stocks and securities.

Mr. Yerkes declared, further, that the new London railroads will be owned and equipped with English men, and so far as possible with English labor, for that reason that American materials are absorbed by the trusts have been absorbed by the business interests of this country. Americans, he says, have slowly learned a lesson from European markets, and have refused to purchase articles offered by agents of the trusts unless the prices were satisfactory to the purchasers. Mr. Yerkes declared, moreover, that the trusts were maintained for a single purpose, Mr. Yerkes declared, that of "freezing out" competition. For instance, steel is now selling at 60 per cent. higher than a year ago, and is now a drug on the market. Cars which could be purchased three years ago for $1200 are now sold at $2000, and prices in proportion in other lines. Mr. Yerkes emphatically declared that the trusts will do this country more harm than good, and that the people would be born about four years hence before the trusts would be in a position to do business with the same freedom that they now do. Mr. Yerkes' opinion is shared by so many that one of the causes of the trust disturbances is productive of much distress in the East is the great anthracite coal strike, which kept so many mines idle during the greater part of last summer, rendered it impossible for the usual supplies of coal to be accumulated, to supply the demand of the following winter. To this the blame for the strike usually rests, and the strikers

ANGLING FOR A BIG FISH.

Methodist General Conference is the Prize.

Final Canvass for the Guarantee Fund Begins Today.

Will Bring Thousands of Excursionists to Los Angeles from the Whole World.

The last grand play for securing the prize of the great Methodist International Conference, in May, 1904, is on.

Every Methodist in the city—every Methodist on the Coast—has his fighting clothes on, and the battle royal begins today.

Efforts looking to securing the necessary guarantee of funds have been going on quietly in all the churches of the Los Angeles conference for some time, but today marks the beginning of the supreme effort.

Presiding Elder G. F. Bovard leaves on January 31 for New York, to attend the meeting of the Book Committee, of which he is a member. Its sessions will begin on February 11, and among its duties will be to determine finally where the session of the general conference shall be held in 1904.

There can be no more parleying, but Dr. Bovard must go to New York armed with the very best proposition our people are prepared to make for the entertainment of the international body, and the lessening of the expense necessarily incurred in bringing it across the continent. This amount of money is conservatively fixed at $25,000, of which amount the churches of the conference have undertaken to raise $10,000, and the citizens are asked to raise the other $15,000.

The competitors of Los Angeles are Saratoga, Boston, Philadelphia and Cincinnati, but if this city puts up the necessary guarantee, all the chances are in our favor, as the committee is predisposed in favor of coming to California.

Besides the money to be raised, the churches will also be at the expense of providing halls for the sessions of the conference and its various auxiliary branches during the entire month of its continuance in session, which alone will be a considerable item of expense.

AS TO THE RETURNS.

The general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church is the largest ecclesiastical body in the world, and its coming means the gathering in Los Angeles of the brains of the great denomination from all parts of the civilized globe. Its 800 delegates and accompanying thousands of bishops, missionaries, editors, officers of the general boards, woman's auxiliaries, fraternal delegates from all other denominations throughout the world, and from the ranks of the membership, contribute to swell the numbers to something fabulous, as conventions go.

A conservative estimate places the amount these people will spend for board alone, during the month of their stay, at $4000 a day, making a total of at least $120,000. Add to this what will be spent for luxuries, souvenirs and excursions, and the sum will amount to very considerable proportions.

But this is not all. Among the people who will come will be a host of editors and writers for newspapers; preachers who will preach of Los Angeles; the Governors of seven States, who will talk it to their cabinets; Secretary Shaw of the United States treasury; Senator Beveridge of Indiana, and a host of men of national and international fame. They will tell to the very winds the glories of our climate and our products, and many of them will make investments ere they depart and come again to stay longer.

From every civilized country will come representatives—from England, Germany, Austria, Scandinavia, Australia, Africa, India, China, Japan, Canada, South America, and from every corner of the globe.

It is apparent that if we wish to take an entirely selfish view of it, and get the conference wholly for what it pays, it will be a good financial investment, and is in line with the broad and liberal policy which has been adopted by those who have for years labored for the upbuilding of Los Angeles and Southern California.

But there are other considerations more worthy of a liberal, refined and educated people. The conference will add moral tone to the populace, and a mental and Christianizing influence to all who come in touch with it. The after-effects will be something tremendous in every direction.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ACTS.

Today the committee of the Chamber of Commerce will commence its canvass among the business men of the city, to see what can be done toward raising the fund before mentioned, in order to secure this great body of people, which, as each quadrennium rolls round, is coveted by leading cities of America.

Los Angeles ought to have the conference, and it would be a pretty safe guess to make that she will get it.

MISTAKEN FOR ROBBER.

Restaurant Proprietor "Caught" Opening His Safe This Morning and Got into a Queer Dilemma.

Joseph H. Sass, one of the proprietors of the New York Kitchen on West First street, came near being arrested shortly before 1 o'clock this morning for "robbing" his own safe. He was forced to stand behind a door with his hands up and an officer's gun pointing at the pit of his stomach for about five minutes, until other officers could be summoned to seize him.

A half-hour after midnight a Japanese employed at the restaurant was in the rear of the building, and saw some one enter the back door from a drug store on Spring street. He divined that the intruder was a robber, and ran down into the Palace restaurant in a great fright to spread the news.

Two waiters rushed up just in time to see Mr. Sass tampering with the combination of the safe. They were sure that they had surprised a desperate criminal, and acted accordingly, that is, they were very shy about closing in. Mr. Sass detected them lurking at the door, and thought they acted very susp

"Gentlemen of the jury, have you arrived at a verdict?" asked the court.

C. C. Bailey, a gray-bearded veteran from Gravilla, a man of marked intelligence and unquestioned probity, who had been chosen foreman, rose and said:

"Ten of us have agreed on a verdict."

The verdict was then read, as follows:

We, the jury, in the above-entitled cause, do find for the plaintiff and assess the amount of damages at $7500.

[Signed] C. C. BAILEY, Foreman.

Foreman Bailey himself requested that the jury be polled, inasmuch as the verdict was not unanimous. Eugene Daney, counsel for the defense, also requested that the jury be polled.

The following-named affirmed that the verdict read was their verdict: B. E. Holcomb, Andrew B. Jackson, A. R. Menett, J. M. Crutcher, E. F. Bowen, J. S. Winfree, W. A. Sickler, W. L. Dietrich, W. A. Copeland and Morgan R. Watkins.

C. C. Bailey and J. C. Duncan answered in the negative. Duncan is a rancher from Potrero and is understood to be the man who wanted to give a verdict for $50,000.

Judge Torrance thanked the jurors, one and all, for their faithful attendance and performance of duty, and then dismissed them. Each juror was paid his fees and mileage by Clerk Neale before leaving the courtroom.

END—OF FIRST CHAPTER.

The defendant will give notice of appeal in due time.

Public sentiment in San Diego was overwhelmingly in favor of the defendant at the close of the trial, and Judge Torrance is being severely censured for his biased rulings and his extraordinary charge to the jury.

Had the jury been given proper leeway the priesters of Point Loma would have suffered ignominious instead of only partial defeat in this engagement. But as already remarked, the battle is not yet fought out. Mrs. Tingley has not yet laid her clutches on that little $7500.

TOY CANNON GOES OFF.

DOINGS ON CLOSING DAY.

Judge Torrance's courtroom was crowded this morning, at the opening of the nineteenth day of the Tingley trial, but the crowd of spectators was not so large, nor the interest manifested in the proceedings so intense as Saturday, when Mr. Shortridge was addressing the jury. The argument today was by J. W. McKinley, who closed for plaintiff. His speech was so dull and prosy that it was with difficulty that the jurors kept awake under the droning sound of his raucous voice. He had not spoken an hour before people began watching the clock, and wondering how long the agony would last. A good many who had attended all the proceedings from the inception of the trial got up and left in disgust before McKinley had half concluded.

McKinley's effort to bolster up his client's cause was laborious and totally devoid of the eloquence that had characterized the preceding addresses. He seemed to have something akin to stage fright, for he halted and stammered, and did not bellow with his accustomed vigor. The contrast between his delivery and that of Mr. Shortridge was so marked that one intelligent spectator, a lawyer, compared it with the report of a toy cannon to the booming of a 13-inch gun.

McKinley spoke three and one-half hours in all, closing at 3:30 o'clock with a peroration that is scarcely deserving of the name, so lacking was it in eloquence and oratorical embellishment. His last sentence was to the effect that the jury should return a verdict for plaintiff for the whole amount sued for, as a warning that the "licentious course of some newspapers must be stopped," and "to show that the character and reputation of a pure, honest woman is as safe in San Diego county as elsewhere."

It was generally remarked that plaintiff made a mistake in allowing McKinley to emit the closing argument in her behalf, it being conceded that Mr Andrews could have made a far more effective reply to Mr. Shortridge's parting cannonade.

But the court, in his charge to the jury, made up for all deficiencies in the presentation of plaintiff's case, for the charge, which was very voluminous and took over an hour in delivery, was so obviously argumentative, that defendant's counsel took exceptions to many portions of it on that account.

COURT AGAINST DEFENDANT.

The court waxed more eloquent in the reading of his charge than he did in rendering any of his numerous oral opinions during the course of the trial. He displayed much elocutionary power and dwelt with great emphasis and apparent unction on the points scored against the defendant.

The court instructed against the defendant on thirteen different points, saying there was no legal proof to sustain the allegations and that the jury must regard them as false.

ONLY TWO LEFT.

Two questions of fact, only, did the court leave for the jury to decide.

First—Did persons who read the alleged libelous article understand or believe it to convey the meaning that men and women in attendance at the Point Loma Institution were in the habit of making midnight pilgrimages insufficiently clothed, or were they in the habit of indulging in immoral practices, under the direction or at the suggestion of plaintiff.

Second—Did the article convey the meaning that practices were carried on at Point Loma under the direction of plaintiff which were more shocking than revealed by the matters set forth in the article.

The court also read some special instructions handed up by counsel for the defense. These were read without any special emphasis. They had been modified in certain particulars to meet the views of the court, and Mr. Hunsaker, of counsel for the defense, took exceptions to this. Mr. Hunsaker also excepted to the charge by the court as a whole, as not based on the law and the issues in the case.

THE JUDGE'S CHARGE.

Judge Torrance's charge to the jury was in substance as follows:

It is the province of the court to determine the legal effect of the evidence. If there be no evidence legally tending to prove a fact in issue, it is the duty of the court to so decide and not to submit to the jury a question which there is no evidence tending to prove. In order to justify the submission of any question of fact to the jury, the proof must be sufficient to raise more than a mere conjecture or surmise that the fact is as alleged. It must be such that a rational and well-constructed mind can reasonably draw from it the conclusion that the fact exists, and when the evidence is not sufficient to justify such an inference, the court ought not to submit the question to the jury.

The defendant alleges that it was true that numerous outrages were committed by plaintiff and under her direction at Point Loma. I declare to you as a matter of law that there is no legal proof of the truth of that charge, and therefore you must regard it as false.

The defendant alleges that it was true that people were falsely imprisoned and deprived of their liberty by plaintiff and under her direction. I declare to you as a matter of law that there is no legal proof of the truth of that charge, and therefore you must regard it as false.

The defendant alleges that it was true that women and children were by plaintiff starved and that it was necessary to rescue such persons from the plaintiff and from the institution conducted by her. I declare to you as a matter of law that there is no legal proof of the truth of the charge and therefore you must regard it as false.

The defendant alleges that it was true that the men and women in attendance at said institution are in the habit of making midnight pilgrimages in their night robes. I declare to you as a matter of law that there is no legal proof of the truth of that charge, and therefore you must regard it as false.

The defendant alleges that it was true that the institution conducted by plaintiff is a fake and a fraud and is carried on by the plaintiff for the purpose of defrauding people who are induced to attend it. I declare to you as a matter of law that there is no legal proof of the truth of that charge, and therefore you must regard it as false.

The defendant alleges that it was true that practices were carried on at the institution conducted by plaintiff which should not be tolerated in a civilized community. I declare to you as a matter of law, that there is no legal proof of the truth of the charge, and therefore you must regard it as false.

In view of the wide range taken by counsel in argument, and the many matters that have been passed on your attention, I deem it of great importance that you should clearly apprehend the real legal issues in this case, what are the issues the court must determine in view of the law, and the actual stage of the evidence, so far as they pertain to the exclusive province of the court. They are these, and the court thus decides them:

First—The publication in the Los Angeles Daily Times complained of in this action was capable of the interpretation placed upon it by the complaint.

Second—So far as the defendant has not denied by its answer (not by the words of its counsel,) the meaning attributed to this publication by the complaint, the article must be regarded to have been published, and to have been understood by those who read it, in the sense imputed to it by the complaint.

Third—The publication, in all respects, in which it is construed by the complaint, is in law libelous.

Fourth—The publication must be regarded as false as to these matters already so declared by the court; that is, as to its alleged meaning, which the defendant has not attempted to justify by pleading their truth in its answer, and as to its meanings the truth of which the defendant did plead, but which the court has already declared there is no legal evidence to prove.

The issues for the jury to decide are these:

First—What injury has been done to the plaintiff's reputation, and what mental distress has she suffered, as the natural and direct consequence of the publication of the libelous matters contained in the defendant's newspaper, which the court, in the lawful exercise of its functions, has declared to be false, because their truth has not been pleaded, or if pleaded, has not been proved by the defendant.

Second—If you should find that the other portions of the published article did bear the meaning attributed to them by the averments of the complaint, and were so understood by the persons who read them, and which meaning the defendant has denied, was either intended or understood to be conveyed by the article, then the jury must decide what injury has been done to the plaintiff's reputation, and what mental distress she suffered as the natural and direct consequence of the publication of such matters. But if the jury should find that such portions of the article did not convey the meaning given them by the plaintiff, then they would not be libelous, and, in contemplation of law, the plaintiff could not be injured thereby.

Third—The amount of money which in the judgment of the jury will compensate the plaintiff for the injury to her reputation and feelings directly resulting from the publication of all the libelous matter concerning her.

Fourth—Was the publication of the libelous matter inspired by actual malice on the part of the defendant, and, if so, was it of such degree and character as, under all the circumstances, disclosed by the evidence, to justify the jury in awarding exemplary damages against the defendant.

Fifth—If exemplary damages are to be given, the amount which the jury believes to be just.

There are some things which are not in issue in this case. One of the elements of damage in a libel suit is the injury resulting to the plaintiff's reputation as to those presumably good traits of character which were disparaged or defamed by the libelous publication. The only way the defendant can make the plaintiff's character an issue in the case is to prove the truth of the accusation, or to prove that the plaintiff's reputation was already bad in the respects in which it was attacked by the article complained of. There is no evidence in this case that the plaintiff's general reputation was bad as to any of the traits of character involved in the charge on which this suit was brought. Only so far, then, as the defendant has proved the truth of any of the injurious charges it in fact made against the plaintiff, can her right to recover damages be affected. Her sentiments, beliefs, opinions, or acts, which were not discussed or referred to in the article published by the defendant, are not matters proper to be considered by you, either for the purpose of increasing or decreasing the amount of damages the plaintiff should recover.

The subject of the constitutional liberty of the press, and the suggestion that the publication in the Los Angeles Daily Times was a privileged communication, because it referred to the conduct and management of a quasi-public institution, were not suggested by the defendant's answer, nor by any previous contention of the defendant, but were first referred to by its counsel in his argument to the jury. In the opinion of the court there are no facts or circumstances appearing in this case which give the defendant any legal right to have these questions considered by the jury. Nor is it the opinion of the court that either the progress of Christian civilization or the principles of the Christian religion are involved in the issues in this case, unless it be said that God's command, "thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor," is the underlying principle which justifies the enactment and enforcement of the law of libel.

CRIMINAL COMPLAINT AGAINST SCHMIDT.

TINGLEY TACKLING LOS ANGELES INSURANCE AGENT.

Alleged Letter Asking How Much it Was Worth to Keep Her "Back Past" from the Public Basis of Action.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Katherine Tingley has sworn out a criminal complaint against E. W. Schmidt of Los Angeles, an insurance agent, charging extortion. The complaint is based on a letter alleged to have been written by Schmidt to the plaintiff March 29, 1901, stating that her "back past is in hand" and ready to be published to the public, and asking her how much it was worth to her to stop the same.

The complaint was issued by District Attorney Carter last evening, and a message was sent to Los Angeles for Schmidt's arrest. Constable Marks went to Los Angeles this morning to make formal service of the papers and bring Schmidt down. Mr. Marks has not returned. The arraignment is due in Township Justice Thorpe's court.

No Arrest Reported.

Up to 2 o'clock this morning the arrest of Schmidt had not been reported, and it was presumed by the police that he had not been found.

SANTA BARBARA COUNTY.

COLLECTOR UNDER ARREST.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SANTA BARBARA, Jan. 12.—After having collected a large sum of money from persons indebted to the Ventura Independent, J. R. Severance left for Santa Barbara without reporting to the office, and he was arrested in this city this afternoon on a charge of embezzlement, prefered by one of the proprietors of the Ventura paper. Severance invaded Ventura about a week ago and applied at the Independent office for a position as collector. He was put to work at once, and, according to the statement made in the complaint, proved to be a proficient man at the work, for he is said to have had a pocketful of money when he took the train from Ventura. Severance is held at the County Jail awaiting the arrival of the Sheriff from Ventura. When he arrived in the metropolis of the bean-growing district, Severance was accompanied by his wife. When he jumped the town, he left her without a penny, and she is now dependent upon friends for her support.

GREAT DAMAGE THREATENED.

The high tides and heavy seas of the past two days have made serious attacks upon the Ocean boulevard, and much concern is felt as to the safety of that thoroughfare. Yesterday morning the surf broke over the embankment and crossed the boulevard into the grounds of the Potter Hotel. Tons of seaweed and hundreds of rocks were thrown from the sea upon the boulevard, a distance of several feet above the low-tide level, and a section of the boulevard was washed away. This morning the tide was still higher, but the sea was comparatively calm, and no particular damage was done, although much sea weed and rock was thrown up by the waves. Tomorrow morning, at 9 o'clock, the tide will reach the highest point, and, in view of the fact that a heavy storm has been predicted, fears are entertained that the boulevard, which was constructed at an expense of many thousands of dollars, will suffer great damage.

SAN DIEGO.

HABEAS CORPUS DISMISSED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.]. "Without comment the plaintiff moves the dismissal of the petition." These were the words of Attorney S. R. Beloate in Department Two of the Superior Court today, in calling off the habeas corpus proceedings, brought by Dolores Diaz of Cuba for the recovery of her boy, Calixto Acosta Diaz, from the domain of Katherine Tingley and the Raja Yoga School. Tingley was present at the dismissal, and was in high glee over it. Before the formal actions, Attorney Wadham filed Tingley's answer.

Fire destroyed a four-story building at Dearborn and Illinois streets, Chicago, yesterday, causing a loss of $60,000.

EDISON'S VIEW OF FUTURE.

He Says 1903 Will Be a Wonderful and Beneficial Year for Us—The Horse and Cables Doomed.

[Kansas City Journal.] Thomas A. Edison, the great inventor and "wizard of Menlo Park," in a statement said the coming year would practically annihilate space and time so far as communication between the people of the earth was concerned. The horse as a beast of traffic would disappear, the steam locomotive would be a back number, while wireless telegraphy would be a success. In addition to all this, medicine would give way to surgery and diet, if not during the year at least in a comparatively short time. His New Year's prediction was full of promise for the scientists and the people.

"I look for a wonderful year," said the wizard, as he surveyed his surroundings. "There is more activity in science than there has ever been before, more men are working on big projects and great discoveries would be only natural.

"For myself, my storage battery, on which I have worked for four years, will be put on the market in January. It solves the traction problem and its introduction means that the horse will have to go.

"I expect to give up practical invention for two years. I am going to experiment—going to delve in some problems that I have put by for an idle time—and for once am going to work without having the production of a commercial commodity in view. I am going into the byways of science. I prefer not to say what my experiments will be. Yes, trying to get electricity direct from coal is one of them.

"The wireless telegraph I assuredly expect to see perfected for commercial purposes—if not fully so in 1903 at least advanced toward that end. The right kind of man is working on it, a practical man, an earnest man, and I have confidence in him. As to the objection that messages may be tapped—that's as far as the objectors can see now. That may be true tonight; tomorrow it may be different.

"I'm not interested in the flying machine. I could never see any commercial use for it. I have never had time to read much about it.

"I expect to see electricity supplant steam as a motive power. In fifteen years electricity will be the railway motive power—1903 will advance it in that direction.

"Nineteen hundred and three will bring great advances in surgery, in the study of bacteria, in the knowledge of the cause and prevention of diseases. Medicine is played out. Every new discovery of bacteria shows us all the more convincingly that we have been wrong, and that the million tons of stuff we have taken was all useless.

"They may even discover the germ of old age. I don't predict it, but it might be by the sacrifice of animal life human life could be prolonged.

"The doctor of the future will give no medicine, but will instruct his patient in the care of the human frame, in diet and in the cause and prevention of diseases.

"Surgery, diet, antiseptics—these three are the vital things of the future in the preservation of the health of humanity. There were never so many able, active minds at work on the problems of disease as now, and all their discoveries are ending in the simple truth—that you can't improve on nature.

"The great problems of the year are the problems of fighting bacteria, of getting electricity direct from coal, of getting power from the elements cheaply, and in the many uses of electricity in manufactures.

"The newspapers are among the great agents that will grow better in 1903 and in the years to come. They are the great school. A man who does not read the newspapers might as well be dead. They are a powerful influence for advancement. They are getting better, they are printing more science and paying more attention to the things that benefit and improve humanity.

"There will be few more wars. The world seems to be tending to peace. We should have a great navy, one three times as large as the present—not to fight, but to have ready in case there should be a fight. A great navy is one of the greatest stimulants to science.

"We are only in the infancy of electricity. Its possibilities no man can dream, any more than a man fifty years ago could have foretold what we have today. Little discoveries like the Roentgen and the Becquerel rays, and similar things, will lead to great things—what, cannot be told just now.

"As to books, the books of today are more to my liking than the old books. It is so with painting. It is a great time, great things are being done, and it is impossible to prophesy. Better health, greater enlightenment, better facilities of living, are being placed in our reach with every day."

He Asked A-Miss.

"What's the trouble, my boy?" queried the minister of a young member of his flock. You look sad."

"And I feel sad," replied the young man. "I asked Miss Silverton to be my wife and she declined the honor."

"That's too bad," said the parson. "But it's in accord with the scriptures which say, 'Ye asked and received not, because ye asked amiss.'"

"Well, what would you advise me to do?" queried the youth.

"Next time ask a widow," replied the good man, with a suspicious twinkle in his eye.—[Chicago News.

AND SO

She Found How the Coffee Habit Could Be Easily Left off.

"My husband had coffee dyspepsia for a number of years," writes a lady from Dundee, N. Y. "Coffee did not agree w... him, as it soured on his stomach, and he decided to stop it.

"We felt the need of some warm drink and tried several things, but were soon tired of them. Finally a friend told me of the good Postum Food Coffee had done her family, and I ordered a package from the grocer.

"We have used it for three years with splendid results. It agrees perfectly with his stomach and dyspepsia has entirely left him. I find in talking to people who have used Postum and not liked it that the reason is that they do not let it boil long enough. When prepared according to directions it makes a beautiful, clear, golden brown beverage like the highest grade of coffee in color.

"We let the chi ren have Postum every morning and it agrees with them nicely and they thrive on it. I am sure that if every one using coffee would change to Postum that the percentage of invalids would be far less than it is at present." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

It is easy to change from coffee to Postum and the benefit is sure and quick. For Postum is composed only of the grains intended by Nature for man's subsistence and it goes to work in Nature's way to correct the disorders caused by coffee and rebuild the broken-down blood and nerve cells. A ten days' trial of Postum will prove this to the most skeptical.

A Point Well Followed Up is a Mark of Distinction

I have made it a point through a ripe experience of 20 years to appropriate everything that possessed Merit, for the cure of disease and for the same number of years I have made it a point not to guess, but to know why I applied a remedy—and what for. I have not discovered any new disease, but have learned through experience and close application how to eradicate the "EXACT CAUSE." For every diseased condition there is some cause, and it is the first effort of the common sense physician to find that cause. Once matters are righted at the very foundation of a trouble, then, and only then, can we look for a cure. I determine the exact cause before I attempt a cure, and it is because I get started right that my treatment is invariably successful instead of being mere attempts.

Functional Decline, Termed Weakness by Some

It may be that you have treated for a condition which was considered a "weakness" and have wondered why you were not cured. This condition is one in which a great deal of guessing has been done, and may be the cause of your not obtaining satisfactory results. It should be understood that with the majority of these cases the derangement is purely functional, failure to cure will occur when treated upon the general lines of "weakness." The derangement may be due to several causes—Contracted diseases, their evil after effects, the improper treatment of either, or to a lingering chronic condition or excesses, nerve exhaustion, etc. If others have failed to get at the exact cause and give you relief, it's no argument against what my personal treatment will accomplish. I cure these conditions by "Exact Cause" treatment.

One of the most important adjuncts in getting at the exact cause is a complete X-Ray apparatus. Examinations are free.

Patients coming to the city for treatment are furnished rooms free of charge and have my special attention. I accomplish more in one week than can be accomplished in months by mail treatment.

Varicocele Cured in Four to Six Days

My treatment shows results from the very start. Pain ceases, soreness and swelling quickly subsides, the clots of stagnant blood are forced from the dilated veins, and they rapidly assume their normal size, strength and soundness.

My Treatment for Stricture

Ten to fifteen days. There is no other treatment that has ever accomplished like results. It is perfect and absolute.

Contracted Diseases

Rest assured your cure will be thorough and complete, and no evil after effects will follow my treatment. A great number of men come to me who have treated unsuccessfully for these conditions and whose cases have become chronic from improper treatment. Ten to fifteen days is usually sufficient for these chronic cases where complications are not present. I make cures in less time than is required by some to give temporary relief. It's my way of personal attention, and the right treatment rightly applied that gives you quick results.

HEMORRHOIDS OR PILES

Cured Without Operating

Piles are the outcropping of pathological conditions which may be treated persistently for years without cure. I treat these conditions for real and permanent results by local, painless application, which restores tone to the hemorrhoidal veins by improving the circulation in the abdominal and pelvic organs. I prevent engorgements, which at the same time, cures constipation. Surgery is too arbitrary to be effective with minor ills which come from wrong living. Of course there are cases when it is surgery or nothing. There are fewer than is generally supposed. There is too much operating, too much cutting. No matter how long you have suffered I will effect a permanent cure of every case that comes to me. My examination consists of something more than you usually get, and is such that it reveals the exact pathological condition, which is susceptible to my personal and exact cause treatment.

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S QUEUE.

It Had a Luxuriant Suit of Straight and Very Dark Hair.

The Father of his County concealed a luxuriant suit of hair beneath his queue wig. Many now wish the old fashion were in vogue, to conceal thinned hair or baldness. Yet no one need have thin hair nor be bald, if he cure the dandruff that causes both. Dandruff cannot be cured by scouring the scalp, because it is a germ disease, and the germ has to be killed. Newbro's Herpicide kills the dandruff germ—no other hair preparation will. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." There's no cure for dandruff but to kill the germ. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

NEWS AND BUSINESS.

Burns Celebration.

The Burns Celebration will be held at Lincoln Hall, No. 450½ South Spring street, on Thursday evening, January 22, and not Tuesday evening January 13, as previously stated.

Petition in Bankruptcy.

John A. Chapin of this city declares he is "broke." In the United States District Court yesterday he filed a petition in bankruptcy, wherein he claimed debts to the amount of $1155.45.

Trial Calendar Arranged.

The general-term trial calendar of the United States Circuit and District courts was called yesterday. The hearings of cases set for January, February, March and April have been arranged.

Wiggins in Demand.

Secretary Frank Wiggins of the Chamber of Commerce leaves today for Ventura to attend the annual meeting of the Ventura County Board of Trade. He has also received an invitation to attend the annual meeting of the Kern County Board of Trade, to be held in Bakersfield on the 23d inst.

Army Maneuvers Illustrated.

Maj. J. H. Dockweiler will give an illustrated lecture tomorrow night at the Armory on the United States Army field maneuvers at Fort Riley last October. Maj. Dockweiler was California's special representative at the big encampment to report his observations for the benefit of the National Guard.

New Directors.

The Merchants' National Bank added three solid names to its directorate yesterday. At the annual meeting of the stockholders the following new directors were elected: W. A. Barker, of Barker Bros.; E. T. Stimson, of the Stimson Mill and Lumber Company; Will E. Keller, president of the Globe Grain and Milling Company.

Guide to City Free.

The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce is furnishing guides to the city free. What a chance for tourists! There will be plenty to go around, as Secretary Wiggins ordered 20,000 printed, and every one is full of information about the city and how to find the points of interest. Other organizations have been invited to help pass them along.

Deer Hunters Acquitted.

Weaver, Fisher, Cluggage and Fisk, the alleged deer slayers of Burbank, have been acquitted of the charge of running down a deer out of season with dogs. The jury before whom they were tried in the court of Judge Gayno Henry of Burbank, found them not guilty. The defense was that, although the deer was found in their possession, there was nothing to show that they were wilfully and unlawfully in possession.

Suits for Circuit Court.

A number of suits originally filed in the Superior Court of this county have just been transferred to the United States Circuit Court for trial. Steinway Pianos

While some other makes, Steinway pianos of today are constructed by direct descendants of the original house of Steinway—the business having passed from sire to son through three generations. Is it any wonder that the Steinway reputation is unsurpassed?

The Steinway Piano is entitled to first place, without a single rival, is acceded by the world's foremost musicians and critics.

If any dealer, firm or factory claims another instrument as good as the Steinway, it is either a deliberate attempt to mislead the public, or an inexcusable ignorance of facts—because Steinway Pianos cost from a third to a half more to make than any other instrument on the market.

No Cadillac occupies the same exalted position among piano players and attachments as does the Steinway Piano—unapproached and unapproachable.

Cecilian Piano Player

We are sole selling agents for Steinway Pianos and Cecilian Piano Players in all of Southern California and Arizona.

HUNDRED INVESTORS CHARGING SWINDLE.

After Hot Meeting Last Night Unhappy Ones Decide to Go to Law.

Disastrous Real Estate Deal Ripped Open—People of Small Means Bought Lots and Can't Get Their Titles—Property Was Sold by Lane Novelty Company, Which Has Disappeared from the Earth.

LAST evening, in the office of J. Marion Brooks, thirty-three persons, claiming that they have been swindled in a dubious real estate deal, held a meeting to determine upon a course of action.

The course of action was not fully decided upon, for the wisest can't tell for the life of them by whom they have been bamboozled, or who is really at the bottom of the alleged fraud.

In all probability a legal action will be brought by "The People of the State of California versus——" whom? That is the question. It has only been decided that a suit will be brought. That was the sentiment of the meeting.

The whole business rests at the bottom of the subdivision of an immense piece of acreage property in the extreme southwestern part of the city, which section, after subdivision, was known as the "Western-avenue Tract." This was put upon the market with a great splurge of advertising and gilt-edged promises last May by the "Lane Novelty Company," a mysterious concern of which no one seems to know anything in particular.

About 100 persons, most of them of moderate means, were "in" on the sale of lots here, which sale was made at a uniform rate of $25 per lot, selection to be made in a grand drawing, which was held a few weeks later.

From the "Lane Novelty Company" each of the 100 received a certificate of title, which ornate document purported to represent the deeds, which were to be made out as soon as all questions of ownership should be settled.

The "certificate of title" is all that the purchasers have ever received. Many of them are persons who can ill afford the loss, and to bring a separate suit would cost more than the money originally sunk.

Meanwhile, the "Lane Novelty Company" has vanished completely, and the patient people have come to know that only two men are behind the deal.

These men are Will W. Beach, who represented the "Lane Novelty Company," and R. D. List, investment broker, the owner of the acreage property.

List claims that Beach purchased the land of him as an investment, has never been able to pay for it, and consequently has no title. Beach says that List was the original instigator of the subdivision, but has so defective a title to his own property that an abstract cannot be procured.

And all these months the 100 victims of somebody's scheming have been endeavoring in vain to get possession of their own, or a refund of their money. So far they have not been able to obtain either.

Last Saturday one of them—a woman—came to The Times' office and voiced the sentiment which comes from the lips of every one of the investors, telling the bitter-sweet story: "We have paid our money; we have been promised good, clear titles; we have endeavored for eight months to obtain those titles; we have been put off with more excuses than one might think up in a century—and we are just as badly off as ever."

Will W. Beach, who represented the Lane Novelty Company, and who conducted an office for the sale at No. 105 South Broadway, has been more closely connected with the transaction than any one else. Mr. Beach has been the active member of the peculiar "combination."

Mr. Beach did the advertising, and it was likewise Mr. Beach's persuasive arguments which led the embryonic speculators to put up what little spare cash they had.

Consequently, it is upon this same gentleman that the complaints fall hardest, and whose brain has been racked to the limit.

MR. BEACH'S STATEMENT.

And here is Mr. Beach's justification of his part: "Some time last April, Mr. List and I got to talking over the possibility of cutting up his place of some 300 acres, out on Western avenue, into lots, and selling them off.

"He finally agreed to go ahead, provided that his part in the transaction could be kept dark, and reserved some seventy acres, fixing the price of the balance at $18,000. He said that the title was gilt-edged, with the exception of the lower ninety-five acres, but that a guaranty company could soon fix that.

"Afterward I found one, O. P. Lane, who wished to put in an automobile factory and novelty works. At that time no objection was made to the First National Bank holding all moneys received, but he refused to sign the papers then, saying that he might get all tied up, and that then Mr. Lane would not do anything. He then kept me waiting three days, and told me that he had decided to put up a deed of the land with the State Bank and Trust Company, to be taken out when all of the $18,000 was paid in.

"Then, we went to great expense in advertising and in running carriages down to show people the land, and in other ways, and finally, despairing of ever getting a clear title for the lower ninety-five acres, we cut that out, and started out with the remaining 130, at a stipulated price of $13,600. Then O. P. Lane was so disgusted that he told us to go ahead without him, and all the lots were marked down to $25. The time of distribution was set for June 28, and when the Title Insurance Company delivered the certificates, one piece stood in the name of a Mr. Wolfe."

"Mr. List said that this man was his brother-in-law, and that he had another deed at home in his safe. When this deed was produced, some days thereafter, it was found to be antedated four years, but the ink was scarcely dry, and all the attaches of the Recorder's office pronounced it the work of a few hours before. Finally, Mr. List agreed to put up a good deed from his brother-in-law, Wolfe, who lives in Pennsylvania, which arrived at last, but we were blocked again. Then I mortgaged a lot of valuable property and placed the money up in certain banks here, which Mr. List now refuses to take.

"The sum and substance of it is that the land has gone up and he wishes to hold it now as a personal investment."

Mr. Beach's allegations, contained in a large typewritten folio, charge a number of further balks on Mr. List's part.

LIST'S VERSION.

Mr. List's version is a short one. He says: "I have no part in this matter beyond the mere sale of the land to Mr. Beach. He first came to me May 5 of last year, and wished to purchase the land for a Mr. Lane. He agreed to pay the price, $18,000, on the last day of June. The bank which held the deed received no money from him, and I gave him an extension running to August 31, reducing the amount of land, and the price. The deeds were put up as before, and Beach again failed to produce the money. I am sick and disgusted with the whole affair now, and do not believe that he could produce the money today.

"This has been my only part in the affair. My deeds are in my office today, and I will be glad to show them to anyone who may care to see them."

As Mr. List said, the titles, with numerous other legal and business papers showing the whole transaction, are on exhibition there and were shown to a Times reporter. They are apparently in perfect shape.

At last night's meeting an attack was made on Beach's statement of his case. It was alleged that he had claimed that he had put $1000 in escrow in the First National Bank, waiting to be paid on the sale, whereas the bank's records showed no such deposit.

When this discovery was hurled point blank at Mr. Beach last evening he seemed disconcerted for a time, but explained that he had neglected to state that the money was not in the care of the bank proper, but in the personal charge of President Elliott.

The most unfortunate part of the mix-up is that nearly all the investors are people in poor circumstances, though one man claims to have bought 100 lots at $25 a lot.

E. D. MOORE RETURNS.

Edward D. Moore, local agent of the Associated Press, returned yesterday afternoon, after a month's absence spent in reporting the laying of the cable to Honolulu. "Honolulu is Great," said Moore, "but there is none like Los Angeles, and I am overjoyed to be back. Honolulu is already a live American city, and the cable will give it tremendous impetus. The biggest thing in Hawaii just now is the magnificent new $1,750,000 hotel, owned by Alexander Young, the sugar king, and managed by H. W. Lake, the Southern Californian who formerly conducted the Baldwin. The edifice is almost entirely of imported stone, covers an entire block, and will be opened for business in March. This great enterprise gives an idea of the extraordinary progress of the islands, as there will probably be no finer hotel extant."

PROHIBITIONISTS' RALLY.

All-day Session in Temperance Temple—Party Wants to Name a Police Commissioner in Los Angeles.

The Prohibitionists of Southern California held an all-day rally and conference in Temperance Temple yesterday under the management of the Prohibition State Central Committee.

Several spirited papers on the work of the party were read during the day, and a set of resolutions roundly denouncing the "traffic in human bodies and souls" that is going on in what is known as the "crib district" of this city, was unanimously adopted.

About seventy-five of the leading anti-saloon workers in this end of the State were present, and many of them took active part in the deliberations of the day. J. A. Kanouse, the standard bearer of the Prohibition party in the late campaign, was chosen presiding officer, and delivered a stirring address of welcome.

Gideon T. Stewart of Ohio, one of the organizers of the Prohibition party and a temperance worker of national reputation, spoke at some length of the history and achievements of the party and related many interesting reminiscences of the early days.

Fred T. Wheeler was enthusiastic over the prospects of the party, and said if the Prohibitionists would go about the matter in earnest he believed they could have one of their members appointed a Police Commissioner in this city. He also expects the Prohibition party to get control of the city government at Whittier, as they now poll over one-third of the entire vote in that city.

Mrs. Tongier of Ventura discussed the "Possibilities of Success," and painted a glowing picture of the future victories of the temperance crusaders.

Rev. Leonardson told "what a preacher can do." His remarks were in a humorous vein and made a decided hit.

Among the other speakers of the day were Dr. Stephen Bowers of Los Angeles, J. M. Glass of Pasadena, J. S. Edwards of Redlands, W. T. Hull of Santa Monica, Rev. C. B. Ebey of Pasadena, Rev. J. R. Fuller of Santa Ana and Rev. N. F. Gill of this city.

The Meneloys, the temperance campaign singers, and Eugene Knox, the impersonator, gave an interesting entertainment at the temple in the evening. The auditorium was well filled, and several of the numbers received an encore.

HATE TO LOSE GOV. TAFT.

MANILA, Jan. 12.—A delegation of former insurgents visited Gov. Taft today and urged him to remain here and not accept the nomination of Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court. The delegates said the whole Filipino people petitioned the President to allow Gov. Taft to stay here. The delegation sent a cable message to Washington urging his retention as Governor of the Philippines.

RUSSIA WILL STAND PAT.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Now that the United States Supreme Court has decided that Russia does pay a bounty on exported sugar, says the St. Petersburg correspondent of the Herald, there is no probability of Russia's removing the countervailing duty on American machinery, agricultural implements excepted. Dealers in bicycles and resin have lost all of their trade in those lines.

Col. William R. Morrison, former Interstate Commerce Commissioner, is lying dangerously ill at his home in Waterloo, Ill.

REFORM HALO ON "CORNEY'S" HIGH BROW.

WOULD CUT OFF "PIE" BECAUSE IT WON'T GO AROUND.

His Portion So Small That He'd Have None at All, So He Heads Movement to Abolish Patronage—Consternation Among Democratic Followers.

All bound round with a halo of reform, a vision of Senator "Corney" Pendleton floats down from the State capital, and there is wonderment in the minds of those who look on the barber-by-brevet statesman as a perfect type of the political grafter.

"Corney" for reform!

The report is quite as incredible as would be one that the late Gov. Gage had appointed a fit man to office on the last day of his reign, and yet "Corney" is on record as being in favor of retrenchment in the expenditure of State funds. He would cut off the patronage of the Senate and the Assembly—the "pie" that is cut every session as a reward to the politically faithful.

In view of the indebtedness that "Corney" incurred during the last campaign, when he was elected to the Senate by Democratic votes, it was supposed that he would be one of the most clamorous patrons of the pie counter. Instead, he has raised his voice against any increase in the distribution of the ward-heelers' dessert.

"Cut off the patronage," shouts "Corney," and his face tingles with the righteous modesty of a reformed rot declining a drink. "We're spending too much money for something that brings no returns to the State. Let us retrench," and he falls back into his seat with a thud.

But the secret of "Corney's" burst of righteousness is out.

As a Senator, his piece of pie is too small, and he prefers to have none at all.

When he was Speaker of the Assembly he commanded great power as a distributor of patronage. He had more committee clerks, pages, and other attachés than any other legislator, and wielded a club that made him mighty.

Now that he has become a Senator, with an apportionment of ubt $8 a day patronage, he finds that he cannot maintain his equilibrium on the political tight-rope, and he would have the word go forth that there's "nothing doing" for those who look to him to provide them with soft berths.

The trouble is that "Corney," if he attempted to find places for all those to whom he is under obligations, would make more enemies than friends. Besides, there would be too many Democrats in position under a Republican administration, and the honorary barber would be the central figure in a stirring political scandal.

Down in the Democratic Seventh and Eighth wards, whence Pendleton drew the support that resulted in his election, the position of the pseudo-tonsor has caused great indignation, and the "boys" would like to know where they get off.

PRECIOUS OLD GUN.

Possession of a Certain Revolutionary Musket Carries With it Title to Property Said to Be Worth Millions.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Members of the Stoy family all over the United States, including Mayor Franklin P. Stoy, have been interested in finding the possessor of a certain revolutionary musket, ownership of which may carry with it the inheritance of an estate in Troy, Pa., worth, it is said, several million dollars, says an Atlantic City, N. J., dispatch to the Tribune. A letter received by Mayor Stoy probably settles the question of ownership of the gun. Isaac Stoy of Sherwood, Mich., stating that he is its possessor.

Seventy years ago the property in question was leased to John Stoy, the father of Isaac. At that time it was found that, inserted in the grant to the original lease, was a clause which provided that any dispute in regard to the succession of the property was to be settled by the possession of a revolutionary musket, which was minutely described and spoken of as having been carried by one of the original Stoys at the Cornwallis surrender at Yorktown. The musket was to be passed to the nearest heirs of the holders of the lands, and to be absolute proof of ownership.

The hunt for the gun shows that a few years ago it came into Isaac's possession. Mayor Stoy has informed him of the queer circumstances under which the big bequest is to be made, and backed by the remainder of the Stoy family, Isaac Stoy will make a fight for the estates.

GIGANTIC SWINDLE.

Purchasers of Stratton's Independence Alleged They Were Defrauded of Millions by "Salted" Ore Samples.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

DENVER (Colo.) Jan. 12.—Through Attorney Harry J. Lee, the Stratton Independence Company, Limited, today filed in the United States Court a suit of $5,000,000 against the executors and trustees of the Stratton estate, and also against I. Harry Stratton, heir-at-law. The complaint alleges that at the time the mine was sampled, preparatory to concluding the sale, which had been negotiated through the Venture Corporation of London, the samples were "salted," so that the amount of ore estimated on those samples was valued at $7,000,000, when in reality the ore in sight was worth only $2,000,000 or less. It is alleged that the sacks of samples were opened and quietly but thoroughly sprinkled with rich, ground-up sylvanite.

The Venture Corporation will also file a similar suit, claiming that its expert, C. A. Richard, was deceived by the salted ore, and the individual stockholders will bring action for the return of their money, alleging that they were induced to purchase stock at $8, $10 and $15, which in reality was not worth such prices.

MEAT MERGER OPTIONS.

Those on the Controlling Interests in the Cudahy and Sulzberger Companies Have Lapsed and Have not Been Renewed.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Persons interested in the meat merger were today talking over the news that the options which were held on the controlling interest in the Cudahy Packing Company and the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger Company by big Chicago beef packers, had lapsed, and had not been renewed.

Both companies refused to assume any proportion of the $30,000,000 expended by the Chicago packers in acquiring "outside" plants. Such a proposition was made by the Swift and Armour interests, and acceptance would have bound them to the combination, but Sulzberger and Cudahay rejected it. The deal with these two interests is off. Cudahy has already shown his independence by competing in the Texas field.

Whole Front of Store Fell on Spring Street, Nobody Hurt.

JUST before noon yesterday, with an ominous crash, the old front of the London Clothing House, at the corner of Spring and Franklin streets, fell to the street, and the only marvelous circumstance to relate is that there are no deaths to report.

The building is a one-story structure, and the front had been torn out to be replaced by a deeper recessed one, supported on iron pillars, and the subsequent raising of the building to two stories. Everything was in readiness for the iron pillars to be put in, and several workmen were examining it prior to commencing that part of the work. Without the slightest warning, the frail supports gave way, and the portion of the old front left above the girders came down with a crash, followed by the tin roof, which swung in against the entrances, and filled the whole establishment with a cloud of dust indescribable, and that was the most serious damage done to the interior.

Outside, M. P. Hazel, who had ascended a ladder to examine the wall at the Franklin-street corner, received an injury to one of his wrists by falling with the mass, which was the most serious injury to any one about the job.

A number of persons were passing along Spring street, as usual at that hour, but they had time to rush from the sidewalk, and no one was injured.

The work was in charge of John C. Ince, foreman for John Rebman, the contractor, and the accident was the result of insufficient propping when the front was taken out. The fact that there was no loss of life is in no wise due to the care taken by those responsible for the work, nor to the inspection it may have received at the hands of the building inspector.

Following so closely upon the falling of the wall and loss of life at Fourth and Spring streets, the accident yesterday was accompanied by great excitement, and a vast crowd gathered about the scene. For a time it was thought some one must certainly have been killed.

Work on the new store will be pushed, and the London Clothing Company will have a very handsome establishment.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE—OFFICIAL DOINGS.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Without a dissenting vote the poolroom ordinance passed the Council yesterday. By the omission of a section from the original draft the Council seeks to prohibit the making of books on local track meets.

Proceedings for opening San Pedro street from Aliso to Fifth street again to be abandoned.

J. B. Holloway was named for boiler inspector.

The official Council proceedings, published by authority, will be found elsewhere on this page.

Judge Smith has directed the grand jury to take up the case of the Mexican, Sepulveda, who is said to have been murdered in the City Jail.

Charles Temple is on trial for murder in Judge Smith's court.

George Preston, of the raided poker joint, changed his plea to guilty, in the Police Court yesterday, and was fined $50.

AT THE CITY HALL.

RACE MEETS HARD HIT BY NEW ORDINANCE.

MAKING OF BOOKS ON ALL RACES STRICTLY PROHIBITED.

Black & Fitzgerald's Poolroom to Be Legislated Out of Existence—Councilmen Think Betting at Local Race Meets Has Been Crooked—What Will Mayor Snyder Do?

Not an act of commission, but one of omission will bring the first storm of protest about the ears of the new Councilmen.

Without a dissenting vote the City Fathers passed the [illegible]ended poolroom ordinance yesterday morning. Davenport moved its adoption almost as soon as the Council convened. Nofsiger seconded the motion and the votes of the seven Councilmen present were all recorded in its favor.

Before the ordinance was presented, however, an important change was made in its provisions. Section 6 of the original draft was omitted from the measure as finally passed by the Council. This change was agreed upon at a conference of the Committee on Legislation Saturday afternoon, at which several other members of the Council were present. Section 6 read as follows:

"Nothing in this ordinance shall be construed as prohibiting or applying to the making of books or the selling of pools upon any horse race run or conducted within the corporate limits of the city of Los Angeles."

The omission of this section makes the ordinance absolute, and if signed by the Mayor will prohibit the making of books on any races and under any circumstances.

Undoubtedly this will prove a severe blow to the projected fall race meet, and it is not unlikely that the meet will be abandoned if the ordinance becomes law.

While the measure is primarily aimed at the poolrooms of Black & Fitzgerald, some members of the Council thought that the making of cooks on running races at Agricultural Park should also be prohibited. They stated that the public usually had no show with the "bookies," and that the book-making at the park in the past has been a sort of licensed robbery. Such radical views were held by one or two members that the section was left out of the ordinance. Apparently the radicals succeeded in convincing the other members of the Council, as the vote in the Council chamber was unanimous and the measure was not even read.

President Bowen was not present. In the absence of Mayor Snyder he discharged the duties of the Chief Executive yesterday. Bowen is in sympathy with the ordinance and could have signed it yesterday, but he preferred to leave that duty to Mayor Snyder, who is expected back some time during the week.

Todd was also absent from the Council chamber when the measure was passed. A few minutes after the ordinance was put through, the tardy member from the Eighth came in very much out of breath and, looking at his watch. It was then a few minutes after 10 o'clock. The former Council rarely met until 10:30 or 11 o'clock, although the hour of 10 o'clock is fixed by custom.

Councilman Summerland, temporary president and at one time a legislator from the Eighth Ward, smiled indulgently upon his successor, as Todd wiped the beads of perspiration from his brow. But Todd asked no questions about the poolroom ordinance. If he intended to oppose it he manifested no sign. If he intended to come in late he succeeded admirably.

Whether the Council acted wisely in removing from the ordinance the restrictive section is a matter of debate among those informed upon the subject. A loophole has been given Mayor Snyder. He can refuse to approve the ordinance on the ground that it will prohibit racing exhibitions in the city. The merits and demerits of Black & Fitzgerald's poolroom will not come squarely before the Chief Executive, and if he chooses to evade that issue at the behest of the racing public it cannot be said that he vetoed the ordinance as an act of favoritism to his staunch supporter, Col. F. D. Black.

Pending the return of Mayor Snyder from the northern metropolis there will be much speculation concerning the fate of the proposed ordinance.

The approval of the ordinance will be a blow to Black & Fitzgerald's joint, and it will also strike at professional race meets.

A veto message may be based on the demands of the race-going public instead of upon the main issue—the suppression of downtown poolrooms, where young men lose their money in gambling upon races run on eastern tracks.

DEAD RATS.

COUNCIL'S MISCELLANY.

To the Finance Committee was referred the recommendation of the Board of Health that a bounty of 2½ cents apiece be offered for dead rats. The Board of Health believes that an effort should be made to exterminate the rodents in Chinatown, as an additional precaution against the introduction of bubonic plague from San Francisco or Mexico.

Approval of the map of the Pacific Improvement tract in the Sixth Ward was postponed one week because of a complaint from people living south of the tract that the method of subdivision interferes with their riparian rights.

Consideration of an emergency roll which the Council is requested to purchase and place in all public buildings to instruct persons in the public service in the principles of "first aid to the injured," was referred to committee.

The paving of the Third-street tunnel was accepted by the Council, and a demand for $3632.87, the balance due Contractors Fairchild & Gilmore, was passed.

By the close vote of 5 to 2 the Council voted to request the Mayor to return without his approval certain ordinances providing for the sale of city lands in the First and Ninth wards. In the estimation of the new Land Committee, the minimum price fixed was too low. Todd, who was chairman of the former Land Committee, took exception to the views of McAleer, which he interpreted as criticism of his acts in the former Council. McAleer's motion prevailed, however, Todd, Nofsiger and Davenport vainly voting "no."

Street Superintendent Werdin was instructed to proceed with the replanking of the Buena Vista-street bridge at once. The cost will be paid from the cash fund. In the last few weeks as many as fifteen holes have been made in the old flooring, which has worn very thin. H. C. Dayton filed a protest with the Council yesterday, stating that last Thursday his horse broke through the bridge, a shaft and a part of the harness was broken, his sister thrown on the horse's neck and her arm and back severely injured. To repair the damage (whether to the shaft and harness or to the arm and back, he does not say,) will cost several dollars. He writes that if the city does not settle with him immediately he will bring suit for damages. A force of men will be put at work on the bridge this morning. The bridge was closed for traffic yesterday afternoon.

On motion of McAleer, the City Attorney was instructed to prevent all work on the Pacific Electric Railway Company's viaduct across Alhambra avenue until such time as plans and specifications for the structure are presented to the Board of Public Works for approval, in accordance with the terms of the franchise.

A report by the Board of Public Works in favor of a spur track across Buena Vista street, as asked by the Baker Iron Works, was held over for one week. Nofsiger and McAleer of the board favored the granting of the franchise, and Davenport opposed it. During the week a further investigation will be made.

Smoking is prohibited in the Council chamber. Yesterday Acting President Summerland noticed that Nofsiger had a cigar in his hand, and reminded the Ninth Warder of the rule. Nofsiger protested that his cigar was not lighted. A few minutes later Summerland absent-mindedly placed a cigar in his mouth. Just as Nofsiger rose to the occasion, Summerland furtively jammed the cigar into a side pocket and nonchalantly inquired of Nofsiger upon what question he desired to address the Council.

A few bouquets were thrown at the new Councilmen by the market department. Large bunches of violets and small white lilies were placed on the desks just before the noon adjournment.

George A. Smith, of the firm of Nolan & Smith, gave a dinner to the Councilmen at Levy's yesterday noon, in honor of the appointment of his son, Dr. Arthur M. Smith, as Police Surgeon.

Already there is trouble over the appointment of the janitors. The last Council, in a burst of magnanimity and in the interest of better service, resigned this patronage in favor of the City Clerk, who is custodian of the City Hall. Yesterday Councilman Davenport discovered this fact, and after a talk with City Clerk Lelande, he conferred with some of the other City Fathers. In the furtherance of the spoils system, it is not unlikely that the Councilmen will take a whack at the janitors. Very little else has been overlooked.

An ordinance naming Willard L. Goodwin as sergeant-at-arms and committee clerk of the Council was passed.

STREET OPENING.

SAN PEDRO DIFFICULTY.

Again the fiat has been issued that all proceedings for the opening and widening of San Pedro street from Aliso to Fifth street will be abandoned upon the payment by those living in the assessment district of the cost of proceedings to date, roughly estimated at $1600.

There has been a constant wrangle over the opening of San Pedro street since proceedings were commenced. Action was taken on a petition about three years old, and few persons in the assessment district knew that such proceedings were contemplated until all the surveys had been made.

Councilman Lauder favored the improvement, and did all he could to have the street opened. While he was confined to his bed from the effects of a bad fall, the Council voted to abandon proceedings. When Lauder returned to the City Hall he secured a reversal of that verdict, and more surveys were made.

Councilman Kern, his successor from the Seventh Ward, evidently is committed to the opposite policy, as he made the motion yesterday.

The City Attorney and City Engineer will determine the exact amount of costs, and the property owners will have sixty days to pay that sum into the city treasury.

City Engineer Stafford places the cost of the proposed improvement at about $100,000, but Charles A. von der Ahe, addressing the Council yesterday, estimated it at from $300,000 to $400,000. The street, if opened, will cut through several brick blocks.

BOILER INSPECTOR.

HOLLOWAY NAMED YESTERDAY.

J. G. Patterson is no longer boiler inspector.

The monster petition, signed by over 1100 representative citizens, was unavailing. The programme for the division of patronage went through from alpha to omega.

Councilman McAleer presented the name of J. B. Holloway, who was named by the boilermakers' union, it is said, almost the last thing yesterday afternoon.

Councilman Todd rushed to the rescue of Patterson. He said he understood that Holloway was not an engineer within the meaning of the ordinance.

McAleer said he was all that, and more, too.

"I wish to name J. G. Patterson for the place," declared Todd. "His candidacy is supported before this Council by a large petition signed by practically all the steam users of the city, by the Engineers' Association, and by hundreds of well-known citizens. If there is one place that should be under absolute civil service, it is that of boiler inspector. After a man has served the city as long and as faithfully as Mr. Patterson, I believe the Council should stop and ponder before putting him out of office to make a place for an unskilled man. It is wrong—absolutely wrong—to do such a thing. Patterson ought to be kept in the office. We can not afford to try experiments. He is a Republican and I am a Democrat, but that makes no difference. I think the Council should consider before it takes this action."

But Todd was all alone. His vote was the only one Patterson received. Holloway had seven votes. The sequel indicates that Kern and Farish have decided to legislate with the Republican majority.

Oil on the Streets.

Oil Inspector Charles Blackmer indicates a desire to earn his salary. Yesterday he petitioned the Council to pass an ordinance making it a misdemeanor for any one to leave a tank, sumphole or reservoir while water is being drawn out of it. Inspector Blackmer states that much of the oil on the street comes from the overflow of tanks and sumpholes when an attempt is made to draw off the water. The request was referred to the Committee on Legislation.

AT THE COURT HOUSE.

BEAUTIFUL SPANISH GIRL IN MURDER CASE.

HER HUSBAND THE ALLEGED SLAYER OF HER BROTHER.

Charles Temple, Who is Said to Have Murdered Tomas Besye at Old Mission, Came to Trial in Judge Smith's Court. Story of the Killing Sounds Like an Old Romance.

A beautiful Spanish girl cuts a romantic figure in the murder trial of Charles Temple, which began in Judge Smith's court yesterday.

She is the young wife of Temple. Charles Besye, who was shot to death in a saloon at the old Mission, was her brother. She herself played a peculiar and romantic part in the grim tragedy.

The whole story is like a chapter cut out of a romance of the days before the gringo came. All the people concerned in it were descendants of the old Mexican families. The names that come into the story are the Temples and the Rowlands, and others that cling to the traditions of the old days.

The killing took place at old Mission, out on the old El Monte road, where the life is almost as it was in the years that are long gone by. The witnesses who hang about the courtroom waiting to testify seem to have wakened like swarthy Rip Van Winkles from a sleep of a quarter of a century.

Even the killing itself was such a killing as used to be the fashion long ago, before they yanked men up in an $800,000 Courthouse and tried them for such little differences as this before a dozen jurors who wear white socks and keep corner grocery stores.

Temple kept a saloon out at old Mission. On August 3 of this year the place was filled with Mexicans, some of whom were half tipsy, and most of whom were making a noise. One of the crowd was Charles Besye, the brother-in-law of Temple.

Temple was trying to get them to be still. Finally he told them to please get out of the saloon. Besye didn't want to go; he said he had some more money, and he wanted to spend it.

Temple insisted that they must all go, because he said his wife was sick.

As luck would have it, the inner door flew open at that moment, and there stood Temple's beautiful young wife with a drawn knife in her hand. With flashing eyes, she demanded to know who it was wanted to fight Charley Temple.

There was an instant uproar. Besye charged Temple with having lied to him, because his wife was not sick.

Temple said that anyhow Besye would have to get out, Besye said he would not get out.

The beautiful Spanish girl stood watching while her husband shot her brother to death.

Temple drew a gun and told the men between him and Besye to get out of the way. Besye was flaunting defiance. "All right, fire at me," he said.

Temple shot him dead, the bullet entering the throat.

Temple's lawyers claim that there are many other circumstances connected with the story to show that Temple only shot in self-defense.

Temple is as handsome a fellow as you could find in a day's travel. His young wife clings to him with a pretty devotion. In the courtroom she nudges up close to his side, and holds his hand, and nobody ever suspects for a minute, because his hat hides it all.

Beyse's family has retained the firm of Earle & Creede to assist Deputy District-Attorney McComas in the prosecution. Temple is defended by Davis & Rush, and H. H. Appel, Esq.

All day yesterday was spent trying to get a jury. Ten jurors were selected.

SEPULVEDA MYSTERY.

COMES TO GRAND JURY.

As predicted in The Times, the mystery of the death of the Mexican, Sepulveda, in the City Jail is about to be brought to the attention of the grand jury. Judge Smith has ordered a special convening of the jury to take the case up. The District Attorney has had the case under investigation for some time.

TRAGIC SEQUEL.

OF TALLYHO PARTY.

What was once a gay tallyho party was lined up in Judge York's court yesterday as defendants in a damage suit.

The title of the suit was Mrs. C. A. Ludlow against V. S. Glase, R. C. Annin, John Wagner, C. Myers, Lee Myers, E. Hanson.

Mrs. Ludlow claims that she was riding in a buggy on one of the roads near San Dimas, when a tallyho came up behind her. She alleges that it was driven recklessly, and carelessly. At any rate, it smashed into her rig, upset her and spilled her out into the road. She claims that it caused her injuries that she will always bear the effects of. It wrenched one of her hips and broke her knee cap. She wants $10,000 damages.

The defendants claim that Mrs. Ludlow herself, was the careless driver. They state by way of defense that they were driving along at a harmless trot and came up behind her. She is alleged to have turned off to the right of the road, as though she expected the tallyho to pass to the left. As she got to the middle of the road, she is said to have stopped so suddenly that one of the tallyho horses could not avoid smashing into one of the wheels of her buggy.

SPINKS ON WAR PATH.

DENTISTS IN COURT.

With due respect to His Honor on the bench, the preliminaries for a sort of a two-ring circus were arranged in Judge Conrey's court yesterday.

W. E. Hutchason and M. E Spinks, the warring dentists, are all ready to legally devour each other alive. The jury was selected yesterday, and all the legal trappings fixed on.

Hutchason wants $10,000 damages from Spinks. He claims that Spinks sold him the good will of his dentist business and represented it to be worth $1800 a month. Hutchason paid $4050 cash.

He now claims that the business was only worth $250 a month, and that Spinks did not turn trade to him, as he promised, but did everything he could to injure his business. Spinks is alleged to have set his own son up in business, and turned all the trade he could to him, instead of Hutchason.

Hutchason claims that Spinks tore down the sign which showed the public that he was Spinks's successor. He also claims that Spinks told a Mr. Kidder that he was an irresponsible person, and told Judge Morgan that Hutchason's tools were covered with septic matter, and were dangerous.

Spinks has a suit against Hutchason, however. In this he claims that Hutchason has $5000 worth of his dental goods, and asks for their return, or the money equivalent.

ASTONISHING VIRTUE.

WHERE 'ARE HATCHETS?

Something is the matter down in Chinatown. Such a state of virtue is unheard of. Imagine one Chink going to the courts with the polite complaint that his partner and he can't agree.

Yesterday Chew Chewey and Lew Dock brought an action in the Superior Court against Wong Foog to dissolve their partnership in the restaurant business. They claim that they can't agree at all, and that it is impossible to continue in business any longer with Wong Foog.

The etiquette of such situations has always been different. The thing for Chew Chewey and Lew Dock to do, according to the old custom, is to lay for Wong Foog in a dark alley, and split him open with a hatchet.

LEUSCHNER'S REPLY.

TO VICTORIA'S SUIT.

Oscar Leuschner, who figured as defendant in a sensational lawsuit brought by Victoria Young, a servant girl, has made a reply to her assertions.

The woman claims that Leuschner cheated her on a trade of lots. She states that they were engaged, and that he took advantage of her trust and confidence in him to exchange some worthless lots for good property.

Leuschner states that her suit is an attempt at blackmail. He says that they never were engaged to be married; that she was not a single woman, but a married woman separated from her husband.

He claims that the property trade was a straight business transaction, entered into by him in perfect good faith, November 10, 1898—four years ago. He said there was no agreement between them, about not filing the deeds, as she states.

He alleges that the real state of affairs was that she was in danger of losing some property she had made a part payment on, and he came to her rescue, giving her $180 down on a trade of the lot, and that her property was thus saved.

COURT NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

SCHOOL BONDS. The South Pasadena $20,000 school bonds were sold by the Supervisors yesterday to Isaac Springer. The premium was $1275.80.

FRANCHISE GRANTED. The Pacific Electric Company got a franchise from the Supervisors yesterday for a road out East Colorado street, for $150.

INDORSED COUNCIL. A. L. Wilson, the City Council's appointment for manager of the Free Labor Bureau, was indorsed by the Board of Supervisors yesterday.

OIL CONTRACT. The Woolner Oil Company was awarded the contract for furnishing oil to the county institution at 6¼ cents, gravity 13.

THE INFERIOR COURTS.

POKER-JOINT PRESTON WILL QUIT THE TOWN.

WENT TO COURT WITH WIFE AND PAID HIS FINE.

William Newton Settled for His Spree. Claims to Have Been Robbed of Eleven Gold Twenties—Scriver's First Arrest Since Last Year.

A week ago yesterday, George Preston, who was charged, in the Police Court, with keeping the poker joint on Main street, which was raided on the previous Saturday night, appeared before Justice Chambers yesterday and changed his plea to guilty, and asked the court to pass judgment upon him.

He was accompanied to the court by his wife and one of his twain of children, and looked very much worried. Both he and his wife had appealed to the District Attorney to be permitted to take this course, as they desired to leave the city.

When Preston was on the stand he said he was not really the proprietor of the place, but that two other men were interested in it. He also said that he has been a traveling salesman and had drifted into that line of business in a peculiar way, though he did not explain how.

He was questioned concerning what he intended to do to support his family, but he gave no definite reply. He said, however, that he was done with the poker business, and would never again be found in the Police Court on that, or, he hoped, any other charge.

The justice imposed a fine of $50. The amount was deducted from his ball money and he threw the change to his wife.

Newton Lost His Twenties.

R. G. Smith, a switchman in the employ of the Santa Fé Company, ran afoul of William Newton and F. B. Hare, who were on a drunk on Sunday evening, and the three were soon in a general fight. At the trial in the Police Court yesterday, Smith said that he had met the two blocking the way into a restaurant on North Main street, and when they showed a disposition to be quarrelsome he went away. The two men followed him, and he says one of them struck him, but as he was sober and they were drunk, he soon laid them both out. His story was practically corroborated by other witnesses, and he was discharged, but the other two were fined $10 each.

Both Hare and Newton said they were so drunk that they could give no explanation of the trouble, and the latter told the court that he had been robbed of eleven $20 gold pieces during the evening. He claimed to have had the money in a belt about his person. He was badly battered up about the face and walked with difficulty.

Thought He Had a Joke.

P. B. Scriver, an old regular in the police dock, was handed out another dose of days yesterday.

"How many times have you been here before?" sternly demanded the court.

His answer had a far-away sound, but it didn't mean much when you looked at the calendar:

"Last year, sor, I was here several toimes."

"Wasn't you up here last week?"

"No, sor; it was last month, but that was last year."

Police Court Brevities.

George Briggs, who stole an overcoat from the hallway of a Main-street lodging-house, will be sentenced this morning.

Albert Foster, milkman, was fined $2 for permitting his horses to stand on the street without hitching.

THE OIL INDUSTRY

KERN RIVER'S GREAT YIELD LAST YEAR.

PRODUCTION OF ALL DISTRICTS BEING INCREASED.

Oil Driller Arrested Charged With Stealing Tools—New Operator for Santa Maria District—Progress With Whittier Gas Well—Stock Market.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

BAKERSFIELD, Jan. 11.—The Kern county oil fields are becoming more active every day. Last year the total production of the Kern River field was estimated at 3,500,000 barrels. Now many wells that have not been worked before are being pumped again; drilling has recommenced on many others and new ones are being started all the time. Since the first of the year several have been completed. Among these is one of the Chanslor & Canfield company at Midway; one of the United Crude at Sunset, just perforated, and flowing excellently, and one of the Illinois Crude Oil Company at Kern River. The McKittrick company has now succeeded in shutting off the water from its well at that point and is again pumping oil. In the Tremblor district, the Paraffine Oil Company, which drilled to a depth of 1700 feet, and was then unable to get through the black shale, is reported to be about to drill another well near the first. J. E. Beard and W. W. Stevenson are now erecting a rig on the southwest quarter of 30, 32, 24, adjoining the Spellacy wells at Midway. The Combined Oil Company is now down 850 feet on its well, on 7, 28, 28, at Kern River, and is preparing to put in another engine for pumping at its water well now ready.

DRILLER PINCHED.

CHARGED WITH STEALING TOOLS.

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., Jan. 12.—J. C. Pelton, a well-known oil driller, and a resident of Bakersfield, is in jail charged with having stolen over $2000 worth of tools and supplies from the property of the Commonwealth Oil Company. Pelton has made a complete confession, implicating one L. C. Napier as an accomplice, whom the officers are holding as the main witness against him.

The works of this company are in an isolated locality and operations were discontinued there some time ago. When an officer of the company visited the well he found that thieves had carried away a new engine, 1200 feet of manila cable, 1500 feet of sand line and other tools and paraphernalia. Napier confesses to having been with Pelton upon his marauding expeditions, but says he was acting only in the capacity of a hired man, presuming that his employer, Pelton, had the right to the property he was taking.

Pelton is a successful driller, and has been in the employ of many well-known companies.

FOR LIGHT OIL.

NEW ONE FOR SANTA MARIA.

A new company has been organized in this city to begin operations in Santa Maria Valley. The company has a capitalization of $30,000, nearly all of which has been paid up. It has acquired 2000 acres of property adjoining the Pinal oil lands, on which oil of 29 gravity was recently found in paying quantities. If indications count for anything, the new venture will be a success.

This company will be known as the Trader's Union Oil Company, and the officers are W. C. Price, president, and J. E. Koeberle, secretary.

PROGRESS WITH GAS WELL.

The company putting down a gas well on the Meyer's ranch near Whittier is making good progress, and already a fine showing is reported. The drill has reached a depth of 200 feet, and even at that level there is a slight pressure of gas.

Several new contracts have recently been made in the Whittier field, and all are at advanced prices.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

The average grade of local fuel oil is quoted at from 50 to 65 cents a barrel at the wells. Oil of less than 13 gravity finds a market at from 40 to 50 cents a barrel.

CENTRAL'S ANNUAL MEETING.

At the annual meeting of the Central Oil Company, held in this city yesterday, the following were elected directors of that company for the ensuing year; W. W. Neuer, Senator R. N. Bulla, H. R. Lacy, Philip Forve, W. M. Garland, W. H. Cook and Harry Crane. Later the directors reelected W. W. Neuer president; H. R. Lacy, vice-president; Senator Bulla, secretary, and Philip Forve, treasurer.

According to the report of the various officers the company is now in a thriving condition. Its production is now close to 20,000 barrels of oil a month, and there is a good market for its product.

HAND OF CORPSE AT THROTTLE.

KNOXVILLE (Tenn.) Jan. 12.—Passengers on an incoming Knoxville and Ohio Railroad train rode several miles with the hand of a corpse at the throttle of the engine. The train left Buckeye, Tenn., on time, and ran through Carriville, the next station. When Engineer A. C. Young ran through the latter town, Fireman Matlock knew somthing was wrong, and stepped to the engineer's side of the engine. He found Young dead, and immediately stopped the train. There is a wound in the left side of the engineer's head, and the supposition is that a piece of stone fell from a high cut through the mountains and killed him instantly. The train ran perhaps eight miles after Young was killed.

SAYS DEMAND WAS TOO BI

Manager Wells on Trainme Request for "More."

Santa Fe's Chief Comes Back Los Angeles Desk.

One Hundred More Locomoti Ordered for the Use of the System.

A. G. Wells, general manager of Santa Fé, returned to Los Angeles yesterday after an absence in the E of more than three weeks. He con back saying that everybody bey the Rocky Mountains, where coal high and the thermometer is low, talking California, and that a w host who can get thawed out are their way to the Land of Sunshine has some other things to say that also be of interest to Californians.

When seen at his Orchard-ave residence by a Times reporter l night, Mr. Wells looked somewhat tired after his long journey, but not fail to be affable, though int viewed.

"Have you anything of interest tell the people of this section, Wells, as a result of your trip Eas was the question thrown at the railroad man for a starter.

Mr. Wells thought not.

Most men usually answer such question like that.

"You know," he said, "that busine with me on this trip was quite l dental. Of course, there was some re time to be looked after."

"Went back for a rest," chipped the reporter, thinking he had sure just said it.

"Well, no, not exactly," correcte Mr. Wells, "I went back to attend wedding."

Then came an amused smile thro a big absence blush.

"The annual budget had somethin to do with the trip, did it not?"

"Yes, that was under considerati but no definite action has as yet be taken, and what parts of it will b acted upon favorably, of course, we d not know. It is safe to say, howeve that all the money that was asked f will not be appropriated. The ne of the entire system will have to b considered very carefully."

"How much do you expect to get fo the Pacific Coast?"

"Oh, about $1,000,000."

"Of that amount what is to be Sout ern California's share?"

"That is hard to say, but probabl about a third—maybe more. It will b used in many improvements that ar now under contemplation for makin the present lines more serviceable t the public. Much new equipment will be bought."

"Didn't you order a lot of engine while back there?"

"Why, you know, there are sixty three engines on order that are n undelivered. We hope to get thos soon, and now an order has been place for 100 more for the coming year, b it may be impossible to get them with in that time."

Mr. Wells was then asked if he had duly received the request of the train men for an advance in wages, amount ing to about 20 per cent. What the request was before him, but that it would be some time before any an swer could be given, inasmuch as the mere of these employés had been gran ted on all western lines this side o the Illinois Southern, and it is to be expected, of course, that there will be some sort of uniform action by the railroads in the matter.

"Yes," said Mr. Wells, "this matter is up to me, now. You know this re quest is general throughout this part of the country, but certainly it is pro hibitive. We increased the wages of engineers about 6 per cent. some time ago, and now the trainmen feel that they are entitled to something, and doubtless they have asked for more than they can reasonably expect. They made their demand big enough, that's certain But the system could not afford to pay any such wages. We would have to curtail our service to the public if such wages were paid, of course, that is just what we cannot do."

Mr. Wells seemed inclined to think that the matter would finally be adjusted to the satisfaction of all parties concerned.

EVENTS IN SOCIETY.

Miss Lillian Wellborn, whose marriage with Burton Edmond Green is to take place tomorrow evening, is feted and dined to a degree that speaks loudly for her popularity. Last evening she, with Mr. Green, were guests of honor at a pretty dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Flint, Jr., at their new home on Chester place. Beside the affianced couple, there were at table Mr. and Mrs. Roland Bishop, Miss Huston Bishop, Miss Bessie Bonsall, Miss Sara Goodrich, Messrs. Robert Roth, Calvin Green and Luther Green.

Mrs. W. D. Woolwine of St. James Park entertained for Miss Wellborn Friday afternoon with a daintily-appointed pre-nuptial luncheon, where pink and green were used in decorating and where heart shapes and other apropos ideas obtained in all the arrangements. On this occasion the guests were: Mrs. Charles Wellborn, Mrs. Roland P. Bishop, Mrs. Robert Clark of Peoria, Ill., Miss Sara Goodrich, Miss Huston Bishop, Miss Anna Fay, Miss Elizabeth Shankland, Miss Bessie Bonsall, Miss Lou Winder and Miss Lila Fairchild.

The butterfly luncheon given Saturday by Mrs. William C. Read of Thompson street for Miss Wellborn and Mrs. Read's sister, Mrs. Robert Davis Clark of Peoria, Ill., and the card party for these same ladies, given by Miss Goodrich, has been noted.

Mr. Green, who is a well-known oil man, gave a "farewell" at the California Club Saturday evening to nineteen bachelor friends.

To See the Neills.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Jones entertained friends last evening at the Burbank, the party occupying boxes and loges downstairs. Afterward a supper was served in the blue room of Christopher's annex. The guests who enjoyed Mr. and Mrs. Jones's hospitality were: Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Fay, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Ezra T. Stimson, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. Nat Myrick, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Bundrem, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Norton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dick, Mrs. Robert Drake Clark of Peoria, Miss Lila Fairchild, Miss Bird Chanslor, Messrs. Charles Henderson, Moore, Llewellyn.

One of a Series.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Warrington entertained the members of the Gold Seal Whist Club at their home on Magnolia avenue Tuesday evening. After the game, appetising viands were placed before the guests, followed by the distribution of prizes to Mrs. Daley and Mr. Pearson for the highest scores won in the last two meetings, and to Mrs. Clapp for the lowest score.

Will Wed.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Rebecca Van Loon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Van Loon of Cincinnati, O., and Oscar William Leonard of this city, and cards are out announcing the marriage at the home of the bride's parents Wednesday evening, January 21, for which about 400 cards have been issued. Mr. Leonard will bring his bride to Los Angeles to reside, and they will be at home at "Inglenook," South Pasadena, after February 21.

For Miss Thorpe.

Miss Maude Merryweather entertained informally Thursday evening for her cousin, Miss Lucile Thorpe, who is her guest. The evening was spent in playing hearts and burnt-leather prizes were won by Miss Geraldine Parry, Miss Anne Walker, Claude St. Morris and Leland Gillespie. After dainty refreshments, dancing was enjoyed. Those invited to meet Miss Thorpe were: The Misses Constance Carwell, Helen Isaacs, Geraldine Parry, Rebo Smith, Mabel Gywits, Helen Cooms, Edytha Marchand, Gardner Anne Walker, Bertha Heintz and Messrs. Lee Gillespie, Meaney, Walter Corbin, Claude St. Morris, Budd Schew, Charles Thorpe, Jeff Ferris, James Page, Clarence Variel, Roy Ackley, Frank Bailey and Ernest Merryweather.

FOOD VALUE OF MILK.

A MOST IMPORTANT ARTICLE OF DIET FOR ADULTS AS WELL AS INFANTS—HARMED BY STERILIZING — KILLING THE GERMS KILLS THE MILK—CHEMICAL CHANGES—TESTS FOR QUALITY.

BY W. R. C. LATSON, M.D.

Editor Health Culture Magazine, New York; author of "Food Value of Meat," etc. This subject will be discussed further in a later article.)

AMONG the many debated questions of diet is the milk question. There are those who contend that milk is the ideal food for all ages, sorts and conditions of men and women. On the other hand, there are those who claim that, save for the infant suckling, man or animal, milk is entirely unfit for food, that its use as food means always grave risk of disease, and that in the human digestive system it can do only harm.

Between these two extreme views stand many thoughtful people who are undecided on the milk question, and a few people who feel that milk has a certain definite dietetic value.

To determine which of these positions is warranted by scientific dietetics and practical experience, to show whether or not milk is a food that is of value to the emaciated, the weak, the sickly—such is the purpose of this article.

VARIETIES OF MILK.

Milk may be described as a solution in water of certain albuminous matters, salts and sugar, holding in suspension other albuminous substances and fats. The character and composition of milk vary widely both as regards the various animals producing it and as regards milk from the same animal at different times. Among the animals whose milk is most often used as food by man are the cow, the goat, the mare and the camel. Of these, cow's milk is by far the most widely used.

The composition of cow's milk of fair average quality may be roughly represented by the following formula:

	Per cent.
Fat	4.00
Sugar	5.00
Proteids	3.30
Mineral matters	0.70
Total solids	13.00
Water	87.00
Total	100.00

Although, as remarked above, the milk of the same animal may vary widely at different times.

FOOD ELEMENTS IN MILK.

From the above analysis it will be seen that milk is nearly nine-tenths water. The solid matter contains, of course, the substances which are useful as food, and it is claimed by many that the food substances are in proportion best adapted to the upbuilding of the body, not only of the infant, but of the adult man or woman.

The most important food elements, perhaps, in the milk are the albumins or proteid ingredients. The greater part of these elements are in the form of casein, or, as it is sometimes called, caseinogen. Other albuminous matters found in milk are lactoprotein, fibrin, lactalbumin and lactoglobulin. The two last-named albumins are coagulated by cooking.

ITS MINERAL CONSTITUENTS.

The mineral matters of milk are also important—more important, many claim, than the proteids just named. The mineral matters consist of phosphates and chlorides of potassium, sodium, lime and magnesium and traces of iron and other metals. Many, if not all, of these important mineral elements are found in chemical combination with organic elements. For instance, the calcium probably exists only as a phosphate with the casein, and the magnesium in combination with citric and other organic acids. The effect of cooking upon these substances is to break up the combination between mineral and organic elements, causing the mineral to become "free." This is a most important point, and will be referred to later.

ITS SUGAR AND FAT.

The sugar present in milk, lactose, is peculiar to that substance, being found in no other connection. When treated beyond a certain temperature it undergoes radical chemical changes.

The fat of milk is found in the form of minute globules. It consists of glycerides of ten different fatty acids. They are little, if at all, affected by cooking. The fat, being the lightest part of the milk, tends to rise to the top and forms a layer which consists of what is known as cream. Cream, therefore, is nothing more nor less than milk containing an excessive amount of fat. In former times all cream was obtained by pouring the milk into shallow pans, and after a few hours skimming off the cream, which rose to the top. Now, however, by the use of devices known as "separators" the cream is produced much more rapidly and in much greater quantities.

TESTING QUALITY OF MILK.

In judging of the quality of milk and in selecting that best adapted for use as food certain instruments are employed. These are devised to test the milk by reference to its weight (specific gravity,) the amount of fatty matters or cream it contains and its color. The instrument most generally used is the lactometer. This device consists of a weighted bulb surmounted by a tube, upon which are scratched certain marks or characters. Upon placing the lactometer in milk the weight of the bottom sinks the entire instrument to a point dependent upon the weight—that is, the thickness, richness of the milk. If the milk is thin through the addition of water or from the abstraction of too much of its fat or cream by means of a "separator" the little tube will sink far down, showing a low specific gravity. If, however, the milk is heavy and rich the bulb will not be so deeply submerged. Thus adulteration, unless very slight, can always be detected by means of the lactometer.

The creamometer is an upright graduated glass tube about two inches in diameter. In this tube the milk can be tested if allowed to stand for thirty-six hours in a place of moderate temperature. The cream that rises toward the top can then be distinguished, and upon the amount of it present depends the quality of the milk. A good milk should yield at least 10 per cent. of cream.

QUALITY AFFECTED BY DIET.

It has been said that the character of milk varies widely in the same animal at different times. The variations in milk depend upon the food of the animal, upon its state of health, upon its activities, upon the time and manner of its milking and upon other conditions. If the food of the animal be improper or deficient the milk is necessarily affected. According to a well-known German chemist a sample of milk derived from cows fed on distillery refuse "yielded nearly 1 per cent. of alcohol. Another case is still more striking. A certain infant, cared for by a wet nurse, was seized with alarming convulsions every Monday and Thursday. On other days the child seemed to be in good health. On investigation it was found that the wet nurse during her "days out," which were Sundays and Wednesdays, was in the habit of taking alcohol freely. The servant's drinking of alcoholic liquors was stopped and from that time the child had no more convulsions. Many physicians can testify to the appearance of symptoms in the nursing infant resulting from drugs given to the nursing mother. Indeed, physicians have at times administered drugs to the mother for the sake of their effect upon the nursing child. Many other instances might be cited of the effect of bodily states upon the milk, but enough has been written to show that the character of the milk is intimately affected by the physical state of the animal from which it is derived.

Not only, however, as to the health of the cow, but regarding the handling of the milk, is there danger of the milk being so injured as to make it unfit for use or even dangerous to health. All the necessities in this respect may be embraced in one word—cleanliness. The teats of the cow, the hands and person of the milker and the various utensils in which the milk is conveyed from the cow to the consumer—all these should be absolutely clean.

DESTROYING GERMS IN MILK.

Some would go farther than mere cleanliness and advise methods such as "sterilizing," boiling, "Pasteurization," etc. As these methods of treatment are widely practiced, and as they effect radical changes in the nature of the milk, it is perhaps well to examine them here.

Boiling, sterilizing and Pasteurization are done mainly for the purpose of killing certain micro-organisms. It is popularly believed that the presence of these germs in milk may cause disease in those drinking the milk. Indeed, the claim was seriously made some years ago that all tuberculosis found in human beings was derived in milk.

"GERM THEORY" NOW DOUBTED.

Before going further, it may not be out of order to consider very briefly this matter of germs so much talked about and so little understood. There is a popular impression to the effect that the medical profession is unanimous in accepting the "germ theory"—i.e., the theory that many, if not all, diseases are caused by micro-organisms. This is not the case. Many of the most advanced members of the profession, both here and abroad, express doubts as to the adequacy of the "germ theory," and many are frank in stating their conviction that the "germ theory" has no scientific basis. Certain investigators once identified with the "germ theory" are now on record as being in doubt as to its tenability. For instance, at the thirteenth triennial session of the international medical congress, recently held in Paris, Dr. Rudolph Virchow, who is conceded to be the leading authority on the subject now living, stated plainly that in his opinion too much stress is being laid on the micro-organism as a factor in disease. Dr. Virchow said, further: "Microbes are also found where there is disease. They are also found where there is no appreciable disease; and may be the result, and not the cause, of disease."

STERILIZING INJURIOUS.

Without going into this matter at length, it may be said that the artificial methods used to kill the "microbes" in milk have not, in all probability, the slightest good effect, but have several very bad results.

It will be remembered that in discussing in the earlier part of this paper the various food elements contained in milk, it was stated that all the salts, part of the proteids and the sugar of milk, when subjected to cooking, undergo certain radical changes. The salts became separated from their organic combinations, some of the proteids were coagulated and the milk sugar was decomposed. Now, with regard to these changes, it may be said, without going into detail, that the coagulated proteids are entirely indigestible, that the "free" mineral matters resulting from raising the temperature of the salts and the decomposed lactose are not only quite unassimilable, but are actually irritant substances in the body. So, in the effort to kill the microbes by cooking, the only result is to kill the milk. When we cook our milk, we kill it.

VALUABLE FOR ADULTS.

Regarding the practical side of this question, the writer, after some years of careful study and experiment, has come to believe that milk is not only entirely suited to the use of the adult man and woman, but that milk is one of the most valuable food substances we have.

The plant, subsisting upon the air, the water and certain chemicals drawn from the earth, recombines these elements so as to afford to the animal a means of sustenance. Were it not for this, animals could not live, for the radical distinction between plant and animal forms is that the plant can draw its sustenance direct from the earth, air and water, while the animal cannot obtain its food direct from these sources, but must get its food from the plant. So the apple tree eats the earth and the air, and drinks the water, which it recombines and gives to man in the form of a nourishing food. Just so the cow, absorbing the nutrient elements presented by the plant, recombines those elements once again, and gives us, in the form of milk a delicious, valuable and easily-digested food.

A GOOD BODY BUILDER.

As a food, milk has a practically unlimited application. For the weak, the sickly, the emaciated, the undeveloped, it is the most valuable of all foods. The water, which constitutes nine-tenths of its total weight, flushes and cleanses the system, accelerating the action of all the depurating organs. The proteids build tissue and give energy and power; the mineral matters repair all tissues, while the fat gives heat.

While, perhaps the most valuable, milk is of all foods the most peculiar. It has its affinities and its antipathies. Milk cannot be taken with good results except under certain restrictions. In the first place, it must be taken in its natural state. It must not be cooked or sterilized, or Pasteurized. Then, milk should be taken only with other natural foods in a natural state. Milk may be combined with uncooked eggs or cereals, or with raw fruits, nuts or salads, it should not, however, be taken with ordinary cooked foods, as in such case it is certain to ferment, producing auto-intoxication, popularly recognized as "biliousness," and other disagreeable symptoms.

One who is undeveloped, thin, emaciated, may by the free use of milk and eggs, with such other natural foods as mentioned above, restore his or her body to full contours, and will at the same time experience a sense of well being and capacity which is possible only when the body is in a high state of nutrition.

The secret of cure, whenever cure is within the bounds of the possible, may be expressed by two words—nutrition and elimination. Milk is a perfect nutrient, and at the same time, because of the water in it, a great aid to elimination. For those suffering from an acute condition, an absolute fast should be imperative. For the weakly, however, and for those whose bodies, while, perhaps, strong and active, are thin, undeveloped or undernourished a diet of milk, with fruits, nuts, cereals, salads and eggs, all eaten in their natural state—such a diet will effect a change both radical and lasting.

WOMEN'S CLUBS.

How it Will Build.

At a business meeting of the Ebell Club, held in Cumnock Hall yesterday afternoon, the report of the Building Committee was read for the second time, by the chairman, Mrs. R. H. F. Variel, and with modifications was adopted by a unanimous vote of the club. In brief, the present plan is to incorporate for $50,000, and to pay $35,000 for a site and building, thus leaving $15,000 margin in case of emergencies. Thus capitalized, 5000 shares, at $10 each, will be offered, and it is expected that all the shares will be taken by club members. As soon as $20,000 has been pledged, the association will issue stock, purchase a lot and build. The building association is to be the sole owner of the building, to furnish it, and to have charge of the subletting, the Ebell association being simply a tenant. The report provides that stock owned by an Ebell member shall not be transferred to any one by the Ebell association, or to one of the members, until it has been offered to said association, or to members, notice of the same having been sent the secretaries of both the building association and the Ebell association, and until notice of the proposed sale has been posted on the Ebell bulletin board ten days, and Ebell members will be supposed to pay for such stock what a third party would offer.

Mrs. Variel presented an argument showing that money so invested would draw interest of at least 4 per cent., which is the usual bank rate, from the first, and considering the predictions of conservative business men, in regard to the rapid increase to be looked for in land values, and with good facilities for subletting, it is confidently expected that 7 per cent. will be reached in a short time.

Provision is also made that the amount shall be subscribed in four months, the subscriptions to be paid in equal payments, at periods of thirty, sixty and ninety days.

At a called meeting, held immediately following the business meeting, with Mrs. Florence Collins Porter in the chair, a committee of eleven stock subscribers was appointed, as recommended in the accepted report, whose duty it is to have subscription lists prepared, and to cause them to be circulated, and to appoint an Organization Committee of five stock subscribers, who shall sign the articles of incorporation, and who shall constitute the board of directors for the first year. This committee is Mrs. R. H. F. Variel, Mrs. Frank King, Mrs. W. F. Place, Mrs. P. G. Hubert, Mrs. P. A. Demens, Mrs. J. W. Van Bentuysen, Mrs. A. L. McAulay, Dr. Rose L. Burcham, Mrs. William Niles, Mrs. J. B. Millard and Mrs. T. D. Stimson.

At the business meeting, Mrs. Hunt announced Miss Myra H. Strawn's resignation as curator of the economic section, Miss Strawn wishing to devote more time to literary work, than she has found possible in the past, and read the following list of delegates to the State Federation at Fresno in February: Mrs. Sumner F. Hunt, ex-officio; Mrs. Charles N. Flint, Mrs. Felix C. Howes, Mrs. J. B. Millard. The alternates are Mrs. A. L. Danskin, Mrs. Frank Flint, Mrs. Florence Collins Porter. One more alternate is to be appointed.

The Building Committee and the Ways and Means Committee were discharged, each with a vote of thanks from the club.

Study Club.

The Monday Study Club is studying "As You Like It," and yesterday's meeting opened with quotations from the play. Each member of the club presented some item of current interest, among them being "Suffering Caused in the East by the Coal Famine;" "Excavations in Wyoming, Montana, Texas, and other States During 1902, of the Remains of Prehistoric Animals;" "The Purchase of Abbotsford Castle, Scotland, by an American;" "The President's Attitude on the Venezuelan Question." Mrs. Averill, the leader, ably discussed the points of Senator Hoar's recent bill to Congress, and the restrictions.

The first scene of "As You Like It" was read, after a brief introduction by the leader.

The Spring-street Child Study Circle gave an evening meeting for the fathers and mothers at the home of Mrs. Adams, No. 721 South Main street, Friday evening.

LOCAL BLUEBOOK.

Names, Addresses and Telephone Numbers of Los Angeles Women Supposed to Be "In Society."

The Los Angeles and Pasadena Blue Book for 1903 has just been issued from the press in all the glory of a dark-blue cover of undressed leather and with the title in letters of gold. Inside there is clear type on dull finished linen paper, and an attractive alphabetical arrangement of the subject matter. It also boasts the necessary "fore-word" of introduction, in which the editor, Miss Lenora H. King, says:

"Believing that in so doing we fill a recognized need in Los Angeles, we present this volume. Effort has been made to render it thoroughly authentic and as exclusive as the nature of the publication demands. It will be understood readily that in a growing city like Los Angeles the compilation of a wholly reliable Blue Book is fraught with greater difficulties than in a place where society is more settled, and changes are few from year to year.

"Realizing this fact, the company has preferred that the present volume shall be called too conservative, if necessary, rather than to make it a common directory, similar to those that have, from time to time, masqueraded under the name 'Blue Book.' There is a strong growing wish among members of the local four hundred to see Los Angeles society crystallized and better able to maintain that standing of dignity which obtains in old eastern cities."

It is the purpose of the publishers, the Pacific Coast Blue Book Company, to add to the present volume from year to year the names of such newly-arrived society people as shall be possessed of the requisite per cent. of "society" blood, and to issue the book annually. Addresses, telephone numbers and receiving days of each family are appended, and the prominent clubs in the two cities, with names of the official board of each, closes the volume of 164 pages.

TALKS WITH TRAVELERS.

F. H. and C. Holyoke of Bangor, Me., owners of extensive timber interests in northern Maine, are at the Westminster with their families. They will spend the winter in Southern California, having been annual visitors for a number of years.

"I am not surprised that Southern California is taking increased interest in the protection of its forests and its mountain covering," said C. Holyoke last night. "The only wonder is that action was not taken long ago to prevent the destruction that has been going on so long. In our State the laws protecting the forests are very strict, and are well enforced by efficient wardens. A severe penalty is exacted of all violators of the law, by the side of which the small fines imposed in Southern California are ludicrous.

"There, as here, the greatest danger is from fire, and the luckless hunter or logger who leaves a fire unprotected in an abandoned camp receives summary punishment, imprisonment for a term of years being imposed in numerous cases. A rigid patrol is maintained, and few of the guilty escape.

"A mistaken idea prevails that owners of timber lands are opposed to the policy of forest perpetuation. Just the contrary; we are doing everything in our power to preserve the forests for the future, and to that end we permit the cutting of only such trees as measure nine inches in diameter at a point twenty feet from the ground, although the buyers, most of whom are engaged in the manufacture of wood pulp, would make a clean sweep of the lands.

"There is little attempt at reforestation at present, although this probably will come later, as the value of the forests is more fully realized. As an evidence of the increased interest that is taken in the matter, large bodies of students from forestry schools make annual summer visits to the Maine woods, gaining much practical knowledge of the conditions and preparing for the growing demand for men who know the country's needs.

"There will be no danger of a timber famine so long as the owners of the lands continue their policy of protecting the natural growth by preventing the cutting of saplings."

AFTER SCHOOL SITE.

Investors Would Like to Purchase Lot Occupied by Spring Street School—Board of Education Business.

Covetous eyes are trained on the business property now occupied by the Spring-street school. At last night's meeting of the Board of Education a communication from Dr. Walter Lindley was read, wherein he asked permission to make proposals to the board for the purchase of the property.

The lot now occupied by the Spring-street school has a large frontage both on Spring and Broadway, and is very desirable for business purposes. Dr. Lindley contends that a school in the business section is unsanitary. The matter has been taken under consideration by the board.

According to the report of Superintendent Foshay the total number of children enrolled at the present time is 21,987, and the daily average attendance 19,660. Mr. Foshay reports that many of the schools are now crowded, and because of the congested condition half-day sessions are being held. He urged that provisions should be made with as little delay as possible to relieve the overcrowded districts. "The question of adequate room for the incoming classes at the beginning of the second term of the school years, February 1," said he, "demands the most careful attention."

Minor business transacted by the board included granting a leave of absence to Helen Henry and Josephine Dryden to June 30, to Alice Claypool and Isabel Jodin to February 2, and to Helen C. Reilly to March 2.

Dora Haller was assigned as second assistant in the kindergarten at the second-street school for the remainder of the term, and Mary D. Babcock was assigned assistant in the same branch at the Pico-street school. Maude Moore was assigned as teacher of the fifth grade at the Ann-street school.

The resignation of Carrie White was accepted and then came the election of the following substitute teachers for the primary and grammar grades as indorsed: Elizabeth Webster, Clara M. Walker, Anna Schubert, Laura May Petray, Lulu Thorpe, Mabel G. Wing and C. M. Carpenter.

CRUSHED TO DEATH.

Charles Filkins Dies from Injury Received at Mason Operahouse Yesterday.

Bad luck followed close upon the heels of Charles Filkins yesterday. At noon he went to work for the contractor at the Mason Operahouse, to assist in removing a boiler from the interior of the building. While thus engaged, and within two hours after he had first gone to work, the boiler swung suddenly around and crushed Filkins against a wall. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital in a half-conscious condition, suffering excruciating pain from the injury. The surgeon at once pronounced the man a dope fiend, and the patient acknowledged that he was addicted to the use of the drug.

He tossed and groaned so that it was difficult to do anything for him, and the administration of a heavy opiate had little effect. He died in great pain at 10:15 o'clock last night. His address was given as No. 133 North Main street.

SANTA ANA PASTOR WILL BE AN EDITOR.

REV. MYRON COOLEY TO HEAD BAPTIST PAPER.

Modest Man Gives to Carnegie Library. Pioneers Pass into the Great Unknown. Wedding Bells Ring—Notes and Personals.

SANTA ANA, Jan. 12.—Rev. Myron Cooley, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist Church, has been elected managing editor of the Pacific Baptist, the official organ of the denomination for this Coast. The paper is published in Portland. Mr. Cooley will leave this week to take up his new duties. He has been for six years the successful pastor of Immanuel Church, and is very popular with his congregation. His writings in the denominational papers are well known, and were the immediate means of securing for him his new position.

GIFT FOR LIBARAY.

The board of library trustees has received a check for $200 from an unknown non-resident to aid in furnishing up the new Carnegie building. The gift came through E. E. Keech of this city. A movement is on foot to increase the amount by subscription or otherwise to $1000, the estimated cost of putting the new rooms in proper shape.

WEDDING BELLS.

Miss Maude Roper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Roper of this city, and a popular member of society, was married yesterday morning at the home of her parents on Orange avenue to Mr. France of Los Angeles, by Rev. McLain W. FULLERTON.

CHICKEN THIEF CAUGHT.

FULLERTON, Jan. 12.—For some time Ed Atherton of the Fullerton Ostrich Farm has been missing chickens from his ranch, and he set a large trap the other night, with the intention of landing a wild cat or some other night prowler. He went to the trap early Sunday morning and found the steel bars holding the two front feet of one of the largest wild cats he had ever seen. The cat was pawing the earth and jumping ten feet high, trying to release himself, but Mr. Atherton soon dispatched him, and brought the four-legged chicken thief to town to be stuffed by John Blitscher. All hunters who have seen the cat say it is the largest ever captured in the county. It was very heavy, having fattened at the expense of Mr. Atherton's chicken-house.

NEWS BREVITIES.

Mrs. Robert Landreth has returned from Colorado, where she has been stopping the past nine months.

The three-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Hodson of La Habra died and was buried Sunday.

Herman Dickel, a well-known business man of Anaheim, has been seriously ill several days.

E. Johnson, who has been confined to his bed with illness twelve days, was out today.

David Rudnick went to Los Angeles Sunday to attend the wedding of his brother, Benjamin Rudnick, and Miss Martha Ellis, who were married in the synagogue. David Rudnick acted as best man; Miss Gertrude Ellis was maid of honor, and the Misses Ida Frankle and Dina Kaplan were bridesmaids.

SAN BERNARDINO.

CASE OF "HOT TIME."

SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 12.—Mrs. Rutledge's home on G street was the scene of hot happenings for a short time last evening, between 9 and 10 o'clock. There was a sensational gun play, and that a fatality did not result is due to the fact that the young woman who fired the shot didn't aim straight. John McCall was calling on Mrs. Rutledge's daughter, Miss Cora Roberts, when two women from the tenderloin, in which district McCall is said to own property, stopped at the Rutledge house to see McCall. As the story goes, Cora Kelly, one of the women, drew a revolver for the alleged purpose of shooting the Roberts girl, when the latter secured a revolver and fired at the Kelly woman. The bullet went wide of its mark, but it was sufficient to cause the two women visitors to beat a hasty retreat. It is said that the Kelly woman is enamored of McCall, and after learning that he was calling on the Roberts girl, fired by jealousy, she determined to annihilate her supposed rival. No complaints were sworn out today, and it is believed all the parties concerned will be glad to let the matter drop.

REDLANDS.

DEATH OVERTAKES TOURIST.

REDLANDS, Jan. 12.—Soon after arriving from San Francisco this morning, William Sholer, who came here hoping that the change of climate would benefit his health, suffered a severe hemorrhage, and expired at the Japanese rooming-house back of the postoffice block on West Central avenue. Sholer went on the back porch, apparently to wash his face, and was stricken down and died almost instantly. Mr. Sholer was a member of the Germania Club of San Francisco, and that organization has been wired for instructions regarding the interment of his remains.

NEWS PICKUPS.

After the robbery of Mr. McCrary's residence, the officers decided to make a raid on the Mexican camp near by, and yesterday Constable Curtis, accompanied by Mr. McCrary, went after the outfit. Upon searching the premises, they found several articles, including a fine sealskin cape and other valuable pieces of clothing, and about $40. No arrests have been made, as the articles have not been identified.

It develops that F. S. Spaulding, who was sand-bagged and robbed of a diamond stud and considerable loose money on one of Redlands's principal streets, one evening last week, is not a capitalist, as was at first reported. He is an artist by profession, and in that way supports his wife, as well as his mother and sister.

"The closed Doors" was the subject chosen by Attorney Eugene Chilton Campbell for a telling address before the members of the Loyal Temperance Legion, yesterday afternoon, against the evils of cigarette smoking.

In the golf tourney there was a handicap sweepstakes match play against Col. Bogey at the Country Club links. The contest proved interesting and was participated in by several players. E. C. Sterling won.

RIVERSIDE COUNTY.

MAN-KILLER SENTENCED.

RIVERSIDE, Jan. 12.—Anaclito German pleaded guilty this afternoon to the charge of manslaughter, and was sentenced to serve nine years in San Quentin by Judge West of Orange county, sitting for Judge Noyes. German is an Indian, who one Sunday last November shot and killed Ed Collestin Guachina, a Mexican woodchopper. The tragedy occurred at German's house on Lower Magnolia avenue, where Guachina went. The two men drank wine and quarreled over cards. German shot Guachina and took the body of his victim in a wagon a distance up Magnolia avenue and hid it in a ditch alongside the road, where it was found ten days later. The case of Carmen German, Anaclito's wife, who was supposed to have had a hand in the crime, was dismissed, on motion of the District Attorney.

LONG BIKE TRIP.

William Braton pleaded guilty today in the Superior Court to the charge of stealing a bicycle belonging to H. E. Ross, and was sentenced to two years at San Quentin.

STREET IMPROVING.

Relative to the proposed repaving of the streets in the business section of the city, Mr. Skelley, one of the largest interested property owners, says that he has been misquoted. What Mr. Skelley says he said at the meeting held a few days ago, at Mr. Evans's office, was to the effect that if the property owners are called upon to pay for repaving the streets every few years, they may as well sell their property, if they can, and be glad to get 50 cents on the dollar for it.

That there is urgent need of repaving Main street, between Sixth and Tenth streets, and the business sections of Seventh and Eighth streets, no one disputes, and there is earnest hope on the part of the public in general that a satisfactory plan can be agreed upon between the abutting property owners and the City Trustees, whereby this long-needed improvement may be early undertaken and completed.

ELSINORE.

STREETS IMPROVED.

ELSINORE, Jan. 12.—The main streets of the town are being graded and greatly improved. Main street has been given special attention, and presents a smooth and even roadway its entire length. Workmen are filling in the approach to the bridge on Heald avenue.

Mrs. Tony Hanson, who has been at the Lakeview Hotel several months, returned to Los Angeles this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Kingsbottom of Los Angeles are here.

Miss Sadie Walkem, the primary teacher here, has been granted a life diploma by the State Board of Education.

W. E. Hampton and wife of Los Angeles are in town. Mr. Hampton has property in Elsinore.

The following named are registered at the Lakeview Hotel: C. H. Albiers, Clifford H. Albiers, Dr. Simpson, J. W. Cohn, Robert Wright, St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. H. Albiers, Mrs. Merchant, Miss Kate Albiers, Los Angeles.

A. W. Hover and Mrs. Hover of Los Angeles are here.

A WOMAN'S THROAT

Is her fortune if she chances to be a Patti or Albani, and that fortune is guarded day and night with the greatest care. Nothing frightens a singer so much as a cough.

Every woman ought to be afraid of a cough. It is nature's danger signal. Who does not know of some sweet woman-voice silenced forever by disease which began with a slight cough.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will ensure a permanent cure of the most obstinate and lingering coughs. Even when the lungs are involved and there are hemorrhages and emaciation, "Golden Medical Discovery" is generally effective in restoring the diseased organs to sound health and strength. There is no alcohol in the "Discovery" and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

"I am feeling quite well," writes Miss Dorcas A. Lewis, of No. 1249 20th Street, Washington, D. C., "and I owe it all to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I had been quite a sufferer for a long time, and after reading Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser thought I would try his 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I had not been sleeping well for a long time. Took one teaspoonful of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and slept nearly all night without coughing, so I continued taking it. I had been a great sufferer for more than ten years. I tried lots of different medicines and different doctors, but did not feel much better. I coughed until I commenced spitting blood, but now I feel much stronger and am entirely well."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dearest Arthur: New Year's they say, is the day for good resolutions. I have made one—at least, I hope you will think it a good one. I am turning over the active business management of the mills to John Carson. Will you come home as soon as possible and draw up the partnership papers? I need you. Faithfully,

"MYRA.

P.S.—The firm name stands as of old, the Nathan Dexter Milling Company. Isn't John Carson a dear old fellow?

And Arthur wired back:

"Happy New Year. Leave tonight. God bless John Carson—and my Myra."

DR. O. C. JOSLEN,
California's Leading Specialist

Treatment For Men On

Accurate, Speedy Cures.

There is not a physician living who can claim to be proficient in the treatment of all human ailments. To attain the highest possible degree of proficiency in all departments of medical science would require half a dozen lifetimes of study and more of practical experience. The regular practitioner is proficient in a large number of the commonest and most easily cured diseases. The specialist must first become proficient by regular practice, and must then go on to proficiency in a few of the more additious and diseases more difficult to understand, and more difficult to cure. My methods of treatment are original with me, have been devised through years of study and careful, painstaking conscientious practice.

Varicocele

Many men afflicted with varicocele are endangering their general health, their manly power; and even life itself by allowing the disorder to remain uncured. Varicocele results from partial paralysis of the delicate nerve fibers that have a part in controlling local circulation of the blood. The muscular coating of the veins, being deprived of nervous communication and control, become inactive, weaken and relax. The blood vessels expand from the pressure within, the circulation in the parts becomes sluggish and frequently stagnant pools form in little nooks and pockets that constantly enlarge as the relaxation continues. The possibility exists that clots may form in these stagnant pools and then pass out into the general circulation. Should one find lodgment in a valve of the heart the result might be instant death, or should it be carried to the brain general paralysis would follow.

I guarantee to cure varicocele in one week by a method that involves no cutting or ligature, or caustic. No other physician employs the method, and so thorough is my work that there need not be the slightest fear of a relapse into the old condition. Those who have been long afflicted with varicocele will never realize the injury it has caused until they feel the vim, energy and buoyancy of spirits that a complete cure will bring.

Painless Cure for Stricture

Without cutting or dilating, and by mild and absolutely painless treatment, I cure stricture completely. All obstructing tissue is dissolved, all inflammation or irritation removed, and every membrane of the system involved is thoroughly cleansed and restored to a healthy state. No failures—a perfect cure in every instance.

Men, send for my colored chart of male anatomy which is both instructive and interesting—Free.

Contracted Disorders

To but partially cure a contracted disease is almost as dangerous as to allow it to go entirely unattended. Every particle of infection and inflammation is removed, the probability exists that the disease will gradually work its way into the general system. Still greater is the danger of the prostate gland becoming chronically inflamed, which always brings partial or complete loss of nerve power. Perhaps twenty-five per cent. of the cases of so-called "weakness" are a direct result of some improperly treated contracted disease. During the past five years I have treated over 6000 cases of contracted disorders and have effected an absolutely thorough and safe cure in each instance. There have been no relapses or undesirable developments whatever, and my patients have been cured in less time than other and less thorough forms of treatment require in producing even doubtful results.

Piles Permanently Cured

I am constantly curing cases of piles that other physicians have been unable to relieve. My treatment is mild, gentle and certain, and my practice in this disease constantly grows as a result of recommendations from those whom I have cured.

Specific Blood Poison

This most hideous of all [illegible] can no longer be classed as incurable. The idea that the best that can be done for the patient is to keep the disease under control by persistently dosing the system with mineral poisons, is an exploded theory, and other ancient theories to which the profession clings, from time to time, but infrequently results in the cure of the disease, are driven deeper into the system, where the poison attacks and destroys even the most vital parts of the sufferer. I positively eradicate the very last taint of poison from the system in sixty days. The cure is thorough and permanent, and every trace of the disease vanishes forever. No dangerous drugs or poisonous antidotes are used. My harmless blood-cleansing remedies are unknown to the medical fraternity, and in this disease, I am overcoming this frightful handicap and am growing triumphant in my chosen career.

I offer consultation and advice by mail or by call. All correspondence is strictly confidential.

AS I ALONE TREAT "WEAKNESS."

I have conclusively demonstrated the fact that derangement of the sexual functions is a curable ailment. That there has been considerable diversity of opinion upon this point among the profession, is but an evidence that functional weakness has not been thoroughly understood and has been unscientifically treated. Impotency is commonly regarded as a nervous disorder, it has never yielded when treated from that theory. I have ascertained by the closest observation in thousands of cases that in nine-tenths, in fact in rare instances is the general constitution or nervous system involved to any appreciable degree whatever, and that "weakness" in all its phases is merely a symptom of nervous disorder. In by far the greater number of cases the functional derangement is due to a single cause, a chronically inflamed condition of the prostate gland, brought on by early dissipation or lingering as a result of some specific contracted disorder. Such cases may show temporary improvement under the various processes of treatment, but ultimate relapse is certain to follow all such treatment. The only radical cure is the absolute removal of the abnormal condition which causes the functional disorder, and this I positively accomplish through my system of local measures. My treatment is entirely distinctive and original, in no sense employs like methods, or approaches my success in curing. The results I obtain are more thorough and lasting, and strength and vigor are restored in the fullest degree.

We Make Permanent Cures. Honest Work, Scientific Treatment and Correct Treatment Always Bring Success.

Quick Cures, Safe Cures, Sure Cures.

Our supremacy as specialists in treating diseases of men has been attained by our superior methods which are in strict accord with the latest and most approved researches of medical science. No man has as yet reached the degree of perfection where he can cure every disease, because many cases are incurable, but we can honestly lay claim to one certain fact—that our methods have proven to be superior to all others of which we have any knowledge. They are distinctively our own, and by no one else, and have proven their phenomenal excellence by effecting cures where all others have failed. These are hard, cold facts that cannot be brushed aside, and are worthy the attention and careful consideration of ailing men. To be cured and cured permanently, should be their first consideration. Advertisers are saying; so are we. Cures are few. Of our ability to cure, You are to judge by our success. Is it not proof of our honesty, our ability to do as we claim, when we offer to produce prominent business men whose word is beyond a doubt, who are glad and willing to testify to our skill from the fact that we have cured them? Again, I say, we can point upon the fact that we are regularly-graduated physicians; that our work is legitimate in every respect, and that we are not in any sense irresponsible men who are not physicians, but faking the public for money. Our unquestioned success in genito-urinary work is becoming known and appreciated; our doors are open to all. We are never to be interviewed and don't inquire from others. Our consulting and treating rooms are especially arranged and fitted with the latest appliances, with the view and for the purpose of giving our patients the best that science can furnish. We cordially ask afflicted men to call and talk with us; there is no charge for consultation. Our Sanitarium has a corps of graduated nurses, cool airy rooms, well ventilated, and is furnished with every convenience that is found in an up-to-date, modern institution; our patients from out of town, or all who need to go into the Sanitarium, are charged nothing above our regular treatment prices, thus making the Sanitarium absolutely free to them.

Weakness, Its Cause and Cure.

Nearly every man suffering from so-called vital weakness has a curable cause, which is at the bottom of the trouble. The main causes are stricture, varicocele, enlarged, inflamed prostate, results of abuses and excesses, badly-treated disorders, etc., which obstruct the functional centers. When a man applies to us suffering from weakness we find and remove the cause just the same as an expert engineer or electrician finds and removes the cause when machinery fails to do its work. We have no difficulty in curing these cases; we have cured them by the thousands. We have the necessary knowledge, skill and experience to find the cause and give the proper treatment, thus putting the organs in a normal condition, when the weakness disappears, which was only a symptom of the real trouble.

Our book and colored plates will give you some valuable information on this subject. They will be mailed to you free.

Contagious Blood Poison.

Every intelligent man knows something of the nature of contracted blood poison. He should know also that experience and a first-class diploma are essential requirements to the doctor who succeeds in curing this grave condition of the blood which invades every tissue in the body. The man who has been so unfortunate as to contract this disease should realize the importance of correct treatment. Skill and knowledge must rule or the patient will sooner or later find himself in a most extremely undesirable condition. It is this condition which resulting from bad treatment gives the disease the reputation of "incurable." Every case of specific blood poison treated in my office is cured and by cured we mean that every vestige of the disease is forever gone.

Kidneys and Bladder.

Inflammation and disease of the Kidneys comes on like a thief in the night. Thousands of cases of Kidney Disease are beyond help before the victims have any warning, except, perhaps, a weary feeling through the back and lower limbs, and perhaps an irritable bladder. Every person, old or young, should have a careful, scientific chemical analysis of the urine at least twice a year. We have in our laboratory an expensive and complete outfit for this important work, and have the necessary skill and experience to do accurate work. We make this analysis free to anyone who desires to know the true condition of his kidneys and bladder. Don't neglect this opportunity. No doctor can treat the kidneys and bladder successfully unless he is thoroughly up on urine analysis, which is the only means of a correct diagnosis.

Examination Strictly Free. No Charge for Remedies.

WHEN THE YEAR ROLLED 'ROUND.

BY CICELY ALLEN.

"IT WASN'T three weeks before he died that I said to Nathan Dexter, 'You'd ought to have a partner, Nathan. You're getting along in years and with no sons—'

"'I may have no sons,' says he, 'but I've a daughter that would put half the sons of this town to shame. So long as she lives, there'll be no sign over that door but the Nathan Dexter Milling Company. No half-baked partner is going to get into this firm, just because he wears pants.'"

"Myra's certainly been an amazing comfort to her father, and there ain't many girls with the money behind 'em that she has who would spend their days in a noisy mill to please a father that's dead sore because she wasn't a boy. But that's no saying she can manage the business now he's gone.

"Well, I've heard Nathan say that Myra knew as much as he did about the business, from buying yarn to making out pay checks."

"And there's Arthur Blynn, who's been waiting three years or more for Myra. I reckon he'll have something to say about the settlement of the estate."

The object of this corner grocery gossip was, at the same moment, seated in the library of the Dexter home. In an easy chair by the fireplace her mother was weeping softly. On the sofa, with their arms entwined, were her two younger sisters, summoned home from college by their father's sudden death. On one side of the table was Arthur Blynn, whose eyes constantly sought the beautiful face of the girl opposite him. Some women become red-eyed and maudlin in sorrow. Myra Dexter was not that sort. All during the trying time she had looked like one whose grief had been chastened and purified by the remembrance of happy companionship with the father who had gone before. No one, not even his wife, had known Nathan Dexter as his older daughter had known him—and loved him.

She laid her slender, white hand on the mass of papers which Arthur had spread before her.

"There is really no reason, Arthur, why we should go over these today. I know their contents, and mother and the girls should not be worried by business details at this time. Everything will go on exactly as when father, dear, was with us. The girls must return to college next week, for above all things he wished them to graduate. The business is in excellent condition, and it will not be necessary for use to change our style of living."

Mrs. Dexter coughed nervously, and Myra turned a questioning glance in her direction.

"But the mills, Myra——"

"They will be run just as father has always run them."

Mrs. Dexter flashed an appeal for help to Arthur, and Myra intercepted the glance. Her lips set more firmly. Mrs. Dexter plunged on.

"But, Myra, if the 'Sconset Milling Company is willing to buy us out, why not take their offer? This money carefully invested, with our real estate and your dear father's insurance, would provide an ample income."

"We will not discuss the matter further just now. But this much you must expect. As executor of father's estate, I shall see that the spirit, as well as the letter, of his will is carried out. I know it was his wish that the name of the Nathan Dexter Milling Company should stand as a monument to his ability and honesty. That is the work he left to me. John Carson will be my right-hand man, as he has been father's, and we shall succeed."

When the others had gone, Arthur rose, and with elaborate care bound up each package of papers. Myra, with her back to the high carved mantle, stood watching him.

"Myra, I am willing to serve my seven years for you, but this decision means more than seven years—it means a life work. For four years you have kept me waiting, that you might please your father, and now——"

Myra slipped her hand gently through his arm.

"Just a little while longer, Arthur, until I see that the business is running smoothly under my management."

"But, when it runs smoothly, you will be ambitious to branch out——"

"And if I am? Why, Arthur, you men marry and go right on with your professions or your business. Marriage does not put an end to these things for you, why should it for us women?"

"Because when the cursed professional microbe gets into a woman's system it makes her impatient of domestic life. A man can keep his business and his home life distinct—a woman never can. Myra, this is the crisis of our love. Will it be my love or your pride?"

A deep flush covered her face, then died away, leaving her very pale.

"Neither, Arthur. It is merely fulfilling the last wish of my father."

Arthur gathered up his hat and gloves. She stood proud, erect and spoke calmly.

"I trust you will continue to be our legal adviser as you were father's?"

"Certainly," he answered, courteously, and was gone.

The weeks rolled into months, the months into a year. The business of the Nathan Dexter Milling Company had never been so prosperous. The model cottages for employés had been built. When other mills in the vicinity had been handicapped by strikes, Myra's orders had been filled with dispatch. The Boston papers had published her picture and an enterprising newspaper woman from New York had interviewed her on "The Woman in Business."

But all this had not been accomplished without cost. Myra had no social pleasures. She spent ten hours a day at the mills, and John Carson, her superintendent was a frequent visitor at her home after dinner. The gray-haired "boss" and the brown-haired mistress of the Nathan Dexter Mills held many anxious conferences in the lamp-lit library. The Dexters took a cottage by the sea for the hot weather, but Myra spent only an occasional Sunday with them.

And Arthur? Not once had he referred to their old-time relations. Always attentive to his duties as their adviser, always appreciative of an evening at home in her society, he refrained from pushing his suit. At first Myra missed his small lover-like attentions, then she became so absorbed that she regarded him only as a helpful factor in the success of her business ventures, for his advice was always sound.

So at last the holidays came, and the world made merry. Myra distributed Christmas gifts to her employés, but let her sisters buy all her presents for family and friends. The girls brought college friends home, and the festivities annoyed Myra.

She was thinking of this with a frown between her clearly-arched brows, when her mother came into the library. Mrs. Dexter paused in the doorway.

"I hope I am not bothering you, Myra; but I am so lonesome. The girls are out—and—and the house seems so big. I am glad you are doing so well with the business, daughter, but I—I miss you so. Since your father's death I am so much alone."

Myra pushed aside a paper covered with figures, and took her mother's hand in hers. A sudden thought flashed through her mind, and cut her heart. In her devotion to the dead, had she overlooked her duty to the living? For some moments she sat with her arms encircling her mother's slender frame. Then they talked, and all the mother love poured itself out in Mrs. Dexter's involved sentences. Not of herself did she speak, but of Myra—and Arthur—patient Arthur.

The next day Myra wrote to Arthur, who was in Boston on business:

PASADENA TAX RECORD GETS ITSELF BROKEN.

DELINQUENT LIST SMALLER THAN EVER BEFORE.

Shows Prosperous Financial Condition—Children's Training Society Elects Officers — Residence Burned—News Notes of Crown of the Valley.

PASADENA, Office of The Times, No. [illegible] South Raymond avenue, Jan. 12.—A statement made by City Tax Collector James Cambell yesterday that the delinquent tax list for this city is smaller than ever before in the history of the city, as a city, is a pretty good commentary upon the prosperity which we are enjoying. There is less than half of taxes now due the city from property owners, and much of this [illegible] is owed by non-residents, many of them wealthy, who will doubtless pay before the annual delinquent sale in March. They have to pay 5 per cent. penalty for letting taxes slip beyond the last Saturday in December. Since that date several hundred dollars has been paid in. The amount delinquent on the first of the year was $3100.

The force of this record-breaking state of affairs may be felt when it is found that the taxes just paid were [illegible] larger than in many previous years, although bond money obligations having to be met.

TRAINING SOCIETY ELECTS.

The annual election of officers of the Ladies Children's Training Society took place yesterday afternoon at All Saints' Parish House and resulted in the following reflection of the old officers, who have served less than four years: President, Mrs. F. P. Rowley; vice-president, Mrs. Arturo Bandini; secretary, Mrs. J. H. Woodbridge; advisory board, Mrs. R. J. Dobbins, Mrs. J. M. Smith, Mrs. Caroline Severy, Mrs. Emily Macy. These as board of directors will meet during the week and appoint twenty-five ladies, who will divide themselves into committees for work. Several new names were added to the organization at yesterday's meeting; full reports were given of the work already done, donations and of receipts in and disbursements. The treasurer's report showed that aside from the necessary fund kept in hand for the annual running expenses of the Children's Home, the society has no debts on hand and is $1500 in debt. Sunday will be held of the Entertainment Committee this morning to arrange a date and details for the coming ball, and there is another social, money-making scheme on foot which will be discussed and will bring not several hundred dollars.

A special vote of thanks was given the Assembly Club for a cash donation of $5 not because there have not been much and greater sums given because this came from an organization of young girls, made up out of their own hands. The remaining donations from all have been published and will be published in the annual report.

TO SEE THE PRESIDENT.

Mayor W. R. Clark proposes to do something pretty nice to send the President, with the Board of Trade invitation to the Chief Executive to visit here. The resolutions of invitation being handsomely engrossed and will be sent to Roosevelt in a mahogany-wood case, about 2¼ by 6 inches in size, ornamented with silver corners and name plate, upon which will be engraved:

Pasadena's Greeting To Our President.

Also there will be the key to the case of gold and silver, and pretty souvenir. The box will be opened by the President, which is to be set with a few precious stones. It will make a handsome present for the President to attach to his watch chain or make into a scarf pin, to wear when he goes bear hunting.

HOUSE BURNED.

The residence of F. T. Bueneman at 1 South Madison avenue was totally destroyed by fire yesterday morning between 8 and 9 o'clock. The house was owned by Robert Strong. The loss is estimated at $3500, with $2500 insurance. The fire is believed to have been from a defective flue. The fire was telephoned in. The chemical and ladder truck were exercising at the time, and had to return to the house before going to the fire on a telephone call the number is always struck first. To complicate matters the chemical horses got overexcited and burst through their chains and ran down without dragging the engine with them. The result was a wreck at the scene of disaster and a delay in the department.

NEW SLIP-OUTS.

The trustees will open bids for their new church on the corner of Union street and Marengo avenue on the 19th of the 20th inst. The work of the erection of the edifice will proceed as soon as possible.

The Pasadena and First National banks will hold their annual meeting for election of officers and directors of national reports.

Manager Hunt hopes to be able to open the new hotel, the Maryland, to the public before February 1. The workmen are pushing up as rapidly as possible.

Mr. Ingram, the pioneer flour manufacturer of Whitehall street, N. Y., has joined the Board of Trade that he intends to come to Pasadena to settle. He was a regular meeting of the City Trustees yesterday afternoon it was announced that the City Council advised plans for bandstands, lavatories, drinking fountains and 100 electric lights to be placed in the new public parks.

Eastern capitalists have purchased the Hotel Madre Villa Hotel, long closed, and it will be renovated and opened again.

Manager Chapin of the Hotel Green says he doesn't think his change of political position with the Los Angeles Examiners, because he has left the News.

In the Police Court yesterday morning Ah Sing was fined $1 for peddling without a license, James Wilson $5 for loafing on the sidewalk, and McLain $10 for disturbing the peace.

Mrs. Ladus Wilburt Moody of Los Angeles Co., was held yesterday at his home, No. 229 South Raymond avenue.

IN SOCIETY.

Miss Ruth E. Merrill, daughter of Mrs. T. J. Merritt, and Wilbur Wade, son of Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] will be married on Wednesday at the home of the bride, 45 North Madison avenue. Only members of the two families will be present.

W. G. Benedict of North Raymond avenue celebrated his birthday in an unexpected manner. Mr. Benedict had conspired with several of his friends to surprise Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Michener, his neighbors, who have recently moved into their new home. Instead the invited guests, remembering that it was the conspirator's birthday, turned the tables on him. Cards, music and refreshments passed away the evening.

The Valley Hunt Club gave a dinner Saturday evening, which was enjoyed by sixty-five guests. The evening was spent in playing cards.

Miss Edith Rowland and Miss Kate Leffingwell arrived home Sunday from San Francisco, whither Miss Rowland went to meet Miss Leffingwell, who has been visiting Honolulu.

Mrs. J. H. Holmes has issued cards for a tea to be given at Hotel Green Wednesday afternoon from 3 to 5 in honor of Miss Angie Holmes, who recently returned from Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Arnold have been attending the meeting at Washington, D. C., of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and the Geological Society of America, of which societies Mr. Arnold is a member.

SANTA CATALINA ISLAND.

HIGH SWEEP OF THE TIDE.

AVALON, Jan. 12.—An extraordinarily high tide came as a surprise to the boatmen yesterday morning and carried away about a dozen of their boats which had been pulled up on the beach, presumably out of the reach of the waves. Capt. George Gimilier of the Mascot was the first to discover the prank the tide had played, and, getting into his launch, started to pick up the missing boats, and soon came in with a string of five. Others joined in the search, and eventually all were recovered, though some had drifted several miles to sea. The water overran the sea wall, undermined and passed some of the boat stands, and surged up into the street. The mark left on the piles of the wharf was scarcely two feet below the stringers.

SUMMER SEA RIPPLES.

General Manager New of the wireless telegraph is here arranging for improvements in the office equipment. The downtown office is in the Hotel Metropole, and the clerks attend to the receiving of messages, but as the business increases it has been found advisable to establish an office at a convenient point outside the hotel, and it will be built near the wharf gate, with a constant attendant. Another room will be added to the building on the hill, which will be a living, or sleeping room for the operator, who will be in attendance day and night.

Fish were biting yesterday, and everybody out caught albicore. Sir Walter Waring, out with Mexican Joe, gathered in half a dozen; Mr. Little of Chicago, a correspondent of McClure's Magazine, who came to write up the island fishing interests, out with the Nestella, corralled four; Mrs. Cook and Miss Helen Clay, out with the Mascot in the forenoon, secured six; P. W. Herrick of Cleveland, with the Mascot in the afternoon captured eight, and a party with the Henrietta had one albicore and two sharks. This morning P. W. Herrick and C. W. Faxon, with the Mascot brought in four albicore.

Among the interesting visitors to Avalon yesterday, as a guest of Gen. and Mrs. A. L. New, was Mrs. Finis P. Ernest of Denver, vice-president of the board of lady managers of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition to be held at St. Louis next year. Mrs. Ernest has just arrived in Los Angeles from a meeting of her board held in New York, and as her health is somewhat impaired, she will remain in California for the winter. Mrs. Ernest is greatly interested in her work, and while here will spare no effort to see that California has a good representation and a liberal appropriation for the fair which, she says, will be the greatest exposition the world has ever seen, far surpassing that of Chicago and Paris, the grounds at St. Louis being almost double in extent and the buildings larger and more numerous than those of the "White City."

Miss Jessie Main of Perrysburg, O., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Averill, from the same place, who are residents of Avalon for the winter.

Mrs. L. A. Mumford and Miss Lizzie D. Thurber of Saginaw, Mich., are at the Metropole.

B. F. Latimer, who is to be the host of the Isthmus the coming summer, took a party of his friends, the business representatives of Avalon, yesterday on the launch Ramona and gave them all a good time. A barbecue lunch, with all the accessories imaginable, was served.

Modern in all its appointments. Hotel Redondo, Redondo Beach.

WOMAN'S HALLUCINATION.

Mrs. Mary Meagher, who imagines that she is the widow of Charles Hill and entitled to the $142,000 left by the old miser, pointed out James Rogers, a guest at the Natick House, yesterday morning, as the man who was wanted in Oregon and the East for bigamy and forgery. She said that he was Henry Dubois, who had married her daughter in Portland, Or., and placed her in a fast house. He married two other women afterward, she said, and had also forged her name to two notes and was wanted for the same offense in Chicago. Rogers proved to the satisfaction of the officials at the Police Station that he was not Dubois.

GAME FROM THE WILDS.

An itinerant band of game-venders attracted attention on Broadway yesterday with a wagon load of wild geese, ducks, rabbits and other game that had been slaughtered in Kern county. Choice teal and spoon-bill ducks were among the collection, together with cotton-tail rabbits and edible birds of various kinds. Conspicuous in the lot were several large "honkers," big black geese that were wont to lead their downy white mates in zig-zag flights across the sky, and a large wild cat was displayed as an eye-teaser.

FRIENDS' REVIVAL.

The new week of the revival in the Friends' Church started off with great interest last night. The ministry of song, conducted by Prof. R. N. Jeffery, is an enjoyable feature of the meetings, which are in the hands of the pastor, Rev. Levi D. Barr. Services are held at 2 and 7:30 p.m., daily.

Rev. Dr. S. Hoffman, who for thirty years has not accepted a penny of salary in the various churches where he has labored, has announced his resignation as pastor of the Reformed Episcopal Church of Our Redeemer, in Philadelphia, and will retire from active work.

NEW TOWN TALKED OF NEAR LONG BEACH.

PROPOSED SITE IS EAST OF THE ALAMITOS PARK.

Steady Climb in Postoffice Business—Fresh Fruits and Vegetables of Sunny Springlike Southern California Winter to Be Exhibited in Los Angeles.

LONG BEACH, Jan. 12.—The prospect of a new town being started east of Long Beach is attracting attention. Additional interest has been attached to it because of the visit of a number of trolley men and others Sunday. The party came to Long Beach and was driven out Signal Hill way and elsewhere east and north of this city. Among those in the party were H. E. Huntington, I. W. Hellman, W. G. Kerckhoff, Epes Randolph, Mr. De Guigne and Mr. Borel of San Francisco, George E. Pillsbury, Jotham Bixby and George H. Bixby. It is understood that the Alamitos Land Company proposes to make improvements on the lands lying back of the beach and east of the Alamitos Park, and that the Pacific Electric Railway Company has in view the extension of its trolley service in that vicinity when the improvements have reached the proper stage.

POSTAL PROGRESS.

The gross receipts of the Long Beach postoffice for the fourth quarter of 1902 were $3581.83. For the corresponding quarter of 1901 they were $3288.70. The money orders issued for the fourth quarter of 1902 aggregated $13,402.49. For the last quarter of 1901 the aggregate was $8561.91. The money orders paid within the last quarter of 1902 aggregated $16,641.01. For the corresponding quarter of 1901 the aggregate was $10,772.70.

Since the institution of free mail delivery in Long Beach a system of automatic timekeeping for postoffice employés has been established. For each carrier there are four keys. When he arrives at the postoffice in the morning he uses a certain key to turn a register in the postoffice clock. That sounds a gong which may be heard all about the office, and at the same time stamps his number and the exact time to within a minute on a tape. When he goes out with mail he turns another key, which makes the proper registry. When he returns he uses another, and a fourth one when he leaves. The clerks of the office similarly register when they arrive and leave. The tape bearing the stamped entries for each day is filed in a scrap-book, and forms a permanent record for future reference.

FRUITS OF WINTER.

An exhibit of sixteen kinds of vegetables and several kinds of berries now maturing on the Signal Hill farm will be placed in the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce by Meserve & Raine. Of the vegetables there are three varieties of lettuce, three of cabbages, three of winter string beans and lima beans, two of peas and three of new winter potatoes. Of the fruits there are five kinds of strawberries. Although they are away out of season, enough Legan berries have been picked to make an exhibit of them, also. Of one variety of strawberries only nine berries are required to fill a one-pound box. From the neighboring orchards Mr. Androus contributes an exhibit of lemons, H. C. Dillon one of guavas, and Thomas Stovell one of oranges and lemons. Reese & Gompere will exhibit from an adjoining place four varieties of blooming oxalis and three varieties of blooming freslas. The same firm has two acres of callas in full bloom near Burnett station.

LONG BEACH NOTES.

Dr. Shaw, secretary of the Long Beach Y.M.C.A., has returned from Los Angeles, where he has been under treatment in a hospital for some time.

Property owners are moving for the grading of Ninth and Tenth streets, between Alamitos avenue and Daisy street, which is nearly the whole length of the town.

Several skiffs were at a distance from shore this morning when the wind shifted to the southeast. Fearing that a heavy lift might be followed by a strong blow, the boatmen put back, but the force of the wind did not increase as was anticipated.

Capt. Mason of the launch Helena caught a 140-pound jewfish a few miles out Sunday. William Schilling, Jr., caught one Thursday from the same boat, weighing 200 pounds, and W. H. Graves, with the launch Osprey, took one weighing 250 pounds.

SAN PEDRO.

NEW ICE FACTORY.

SAN PEDRO, Jan. 12. — Work has been commenced on the new factory of the San Pedro Ice and Cold Storage Company, on the Southern Pacific right of way off Front street, between Sixth and Seventh streets. The new concern will have a capacity of twelve tons, as against a daily output of eight by the old factory. The increase of business during the past year is said to have been nearly 25 per cent. It is proposed to build a bath-house along side the new ice factory, in which will be installed a plunge to be supplied with clear water from the ice plant.

BEATS ALL OTHER PORTS.

The importance that San Pedro has attained as a seaport is marked, inasmuch as the increase in shipping during the past year was greater than that of any other port on the Pacific Coast. The number of vessels entering the port is steadily increasing. The new year has started with an unsurpassed record, and it is safe to say that the list of imports will be much greater this month than in any like period before. There are forty-five vessels either loading for, or sailing from, northern ports with lumber for San Pedro.

At Eureka are seven vessels loading for San Pedro—the schooners Bertie Minor, Lottie Carson, Maggie C. Russ, Ottilie Fjord and Vine, and the steamers Pasadena and San Pedro. The schooners Alert, Laura Madsen, Melrose and W. F. Jewett are out several days from Gray's Harbor, and the schooners Sophie Christensen, J. M. Weatherwax and Wawona are loading at the same port. The steamer Ruth is taking on lumber at Bowen's Landing. At Everett the schooners Bangor and Cecilia Sudden, and the barkentine Katie Flickinger, are loading. The schooner Ethel Zane has been sailing from Everett twenty-two days. The schooner F. S. Redfield is loading at Astoria, and the schooner F. W. Howe is taking on a cargo at Port Hadlock. The bark Hesper is out twenty-six days from Tacoma, and the schooners King Cyrus, Philippine and William [illegible] are loading at the same port. The schooner Resolute is loading at Fairhaven, and the steamer Robert Dollar is taking on a cargo at Columbia River. The schooner Wempie Bros. is outfourteen days from Portland. The schooners Sadie and Stimson are loading at Umpqua River and Port Ballard, respectively. The schooner Caroline is also at Umpqua River. The schooner Emma Utter is out six days from Coos Bay, and the schooner A. M. Baxter has been sailing twenty days from Port Whatcom. The schooners J. M. Colman and Maria E. Smith are both sailing from Port Gamble. The schooner John Smith is out seven days from Port Ballard, and the schooners C. S. Holmes and A. M. Campbell are sailing from Port Blakeley. The schooner O. M. Kellogg is loading at Portland for this port.

The Ramona, Capt. Gielow, arrived from San Francisco with freight and passengers yesterday morning. She took on a return cargo and sailed last night.

The steamers Melville Dollar and South Coast finished discharging their cargoes here and sailed for San Francisco for orders.

The schooner James H. Bruce, Capt. Swansen, arrived from Port Blakeley with 625,000 feet of lumber for the Banahi company.

The schooner E. K. Wood, Capt. Hansen, finished discharging lumber here and sailed for Fairhaven to reload.

The steamer Santa Barbara, Capt. Zoddart, arrived yesterday morning from Redondo, where she had been discharging a cargo of lumber. She took on freight and passengers here and sailed in the afternoon for San Francisco.

The schooners Orient and Endeavor finished discharging here and sailed for the North to reload. The former goes to Coos Bay and the latter to Tacoma.

The steamer Marshfield, Capt. Dettmers, sailed for San Diego to finished discharging her cargo.

The steamer Samoa, Capt. Madsen, arrived this morning from Caspar, with a cargo of lumber, consigned to local wholesalers.

The schooners Azalea and Comet sailed for the North. The former goes to Eureka and the latter to Port Gamble.

The steamer Iaqua, Capt. Kjellin, finished discharging lumber here and sailed for San Francisco for orders.

The fishing sloop Clemente arrived from Anacapa Island this morning with 2300 pounds of rock cod, caught in eight hours with hand lines.

HARBOR TOWN NOTES.

The tides have been running to both extremes during the past few days. At Terminal Island the water has been as high as the railroad tracks, and in several places the plank walk near the Brighton Beach Hotel has been washed away. At low tide many of the vessels in the inner harbor lean, making it difficult for them to leave port until tide swells. It is claimed that the water has gone higher than six feet already.

The announcement has been made that the San Pedro Dramatic Club will produce "A Noble Outcast" at the Wetherby Operahouse two nights, January 26 and 27. The play is by John A. Fraser, and is highly recommended as a first-class comedy-drama.

The Ben Hur Lodge installed officers this evening, as follows: P.C., E. B. Scott; C., Harry Stieglitz; Judge, J. H. Iman; Scribe, H. Ekrem; K. of T., Charles Pierce; Teacher, Mrs. Helen Scott; Guide, W. L. Scott; Captain, C. O. Bell; I.G., W. E. Brentner; O.G., J. H. Jenkins; Ben Hur, J. T. Parkerson; M.H., Mrs. Inez Iman.

CLAREMONT.

STRONG ADDRESSES.

CLAREMONT, Jan. 12.—One of the most impressive Y.M.C.A. speakers who has ever visited Pomona College is Arthur Rugh, who addressed two largely-attended meetings yesterday. The evening address, which was given in the chapel, was the more formal. Rugh, although a young college man, not yet out of his twenties, is at present the national traveling secretary of the so-called "student volunteer movement"—the movement by which hundreds of strong and able college men are being inspired with the missionary spirit and accomplishing great work in the conversion of college and university men of China and Japan and many other lands. The evening address was upon the subject "The Choosing of Our Life Work." Rugh's principal thoughts are contained in the following:

"The life of Christ was ruled by a definite and never-forgotten purpose. The lives of college students vary widely as to their aim and purpose; many are groping in the dark, and possess no real freedom. There are four great classes into which students may be divided as to their attitude upon the question of their life work. First, those who have simply made no decision; second, those who have made a decision and may change; third, those who have decided, but are not at rest as to their decision; and fourth, those who have decided and know where God wants them. History is full of illustrious examples of men who have been dominated and guided by one definite and all-absorbing purpose. Peter, Paul, Livingston, Columbus are all conspicuous examples of men of grand achievement wrought out through the force of a grand purpose.

"Definite purpose gives unity and strength to any life. It is our bounden duty to conform our lives to some great purpose worthy of our highest endeavor. The choice must be prayerfully made. Our true place must be of divine choosing. God gives His call to a man not through visions or rapt experiences, but by showing him where he can accomplish the most work with his particular ability and talents. The missionary life, to those by nature fitted for it, presents splendid opportunities; it is characterized by that fullness and that joy which always pervade a life of self-forgetfulness and cheerful, heroic service. To all of us, whether our work be in field or forest, at the desk or loom in roaring market place or tranquil room, is given the privilege of exerting a vitalizing influence upon all about us, of being, in fact, in the truest sense, missionaries of the cross."

Rugh will soon leave for the missionary field in the Orient.

COVINA.

SUDDEN DEATH.

COVINA, Jan. 12.—Mrs. Nancy E. Miles, who has resided here for many years, died suddenly this afternoon from heart disease. Mrs. Miles, who appeared in her usual health, had driven to Glendora in the morning to visit friends, and on her return called at the office of Dr. McNair. On reentering her buggy, she suddenly fell forward against the dashboard and expired almost instantly. The deceased leaves a widower, one son and a daughter in Denver.

Prominent lemon growers, including Messrs. Chesebro, Evans, Kerckhoff and Meachtlen, went to Santa Paula yesterday to inspect the lemon house of the Lemoneira Company. They returned today, and report their trip both pleasant and profitable. They bring new ideas, which they think can be successfuly adopted in the packing of lemons in this locality.

MUNICIPAL LIGHTING IDEA IN POMONA.

WAR WITH EDISON COMPANY IS NOT YET FOUGHT OUT.

Luna Now Illumines the Streets—Aged Mrs. Lydia Reed Passes Away—Young Amateurs Give a Play—Orange Activity.

POMONA, Jan. 12.—The street-lighting question between the Edison Electric Company and the City Council still hangs fire. The company turned off the street lights the 7th inst., but as the recent nights have been lighted by the moon, it is as if a moonlight schedule was operative. President Poston of the Council has been authorized to offer the Edison company $6.50 each on a one-year contract for street lights. This is the former price on the three-year contract. Trustees Green, Petty and Wilson are in favor of municipal ownership, voting bonds along with school and other improvement bonds, or if this can not be brought about, they favor a competing company, and they claim they have had propositions from other parties since this light-rate war has been pending. As a result of their recent trip to Riverside, where they inspected the municipal electric plant, the Trustees have employed F. C. Worthley, manager of the Riverside city electric works, to draw plans and prepare estimates of the cost of an electric plant for Pomona.

The death of Mrs. Lydia Reed, one of Pomona's oldest residents, occurred at her home, corner Sixth and Thomas streets, at 9 o'clock Saturday night. The deceased was 79 years old, and had enjoyed unusually good health up to Saturday, when she suffered a stroke of apoplexy. Mrs. Reed was a native of Ohio, and came to this locality in October, 1875, before Pomona was founded, and has lived in her present house, which was built by her husband, ever since. She was well known here, the Reed family being among the earliest settlers. The deceased leaves six children, David and Henry Reed, Mrs. George Farrington of this city, Mrs. I. J. Reynolds of Pasadena, Mrs. T. J. Emrick of Philomath, Or., and Mrs. A. L. Beem of Chipo. The funeral will be held at the family home Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock, Rev. Dr. G. W. White officiating.

GOOD AMATEUR PLAY.

The productions of Louisa M. Alcott's "Little Men" and "Little Women," by a company of young amateurs at the operahouse Saturday evening, for the benefit of the juvenile room of the new library building, was witnessed by a good-sized audience. Incidental music being furnished by Mrs. J. A. Spence. A "Topsy-Turvy" chorus at the opening was much enjoyed, as was also a violin solo by Dick Loucks, and a recitation by Effie Young. All the young performers in the playlets acquitted themselves creditably, and showed the results of careful rehearsal.

The following is the cast: "Little Women:" Mrs. March, Mrs. W. H. Hendricks; Meg March, Effie Young; Jo March, Louise Cooper; Beth March, Vera Hawkins; Amy March, Elma Crank; Mr. Laurence, Myron Adams; Laurie, Overton Hendricks; Hannah Mullet, Loraine Cadwell. "Little Men:" Prof. Bhaer, Dale Clay; Mrs. Bhaer, Loraine Cadwell; Teddy Bhaer, Jack Loucks; Demi Brooke, Tom Dills; Daisy Brooke, Elma Crank; Bess Laurence, Agnes Loud; Tommy Bangs, John Hendricks; Nat Blake, Overton Hendricks; Nan Harding, Fern George; Dan, Dick Loucks.

LORDSBURG.

NOTES AND PERSONALS.

LORDSBURG, Jan. 12.—The funeral of Richard G. Parker of La Verne, who died Saturday, was held this afternoon at the Pilgrim Congregational Church in Pomona, Rev. H. Vail of Claremont officiating. Interment was in the Claremont Cemetery. The deceased owned a fifteen-acre ranch near Live Oak Cañon, but resided on the Bradbury ranch, of which he was the lessee. He was a member of the A.O.U.W., and leaves a widow, one son and three daughters, who are very highly respected throughout the community and have the sympathy of a host of friends.

The ranchers have for years hauled gravel from an excellent pit in one of the La Verne cañons, for repairing the roads and other purposes, but recently the owner of the land at the mouth of the cañon plowed up the road and prohibited anyone to enter. The road overseer was appealed to, and states that the road had been illegally closed, and it is reported that steps will shortly be taken to force an entrance, when interesting developments may be expected.

The San Dimas Heights Horticultural Club will meet Tuesday evening at the home of George Coleman; an interesting programme has been prepared.

B. F. Masterson and family, former residents of this place, returned today, after spending two years in the East.

S. E. Tundt is about to build a handsome residence here, of the colonial style of architecture.

Prof. D. L. Miller, a well-known traveler and author, delivered an illustrated lecture tonight in the First Brethren Church, on "Pompeii and Athens." The church was crowded, the views were excellent and the lecture was thoroughly enjoyed.

PERSONAL.

E. G. Ballard, a druggist of Davenport, Iowa, whose pastime is the study of genealogy, registered at the Van Nuys Broadway yesterday with Mrs. Ballard.

Lucius M. Colby and wife and Earl Colby Clarke of Rochester, N. Y., are at the Angelus.

Rev. Philip M. Prescott and family of Redlands are at the Van Nuys Broadway.

A party of eight eastern tourists that arrived yesterday at the Van Nuys Broadway included Mr. and Mrs. Champlin of Portland, Me., Mr. and Mrs. Manuel de Tessars, Mottonliler and Stein of Cleveland, O.

L. C. Dutton of Springfield, Ill., is a guest at the Westminster.

Abner Graves, a mining engineer of Carbo, Sonora, is at the Hollenbeck.

Hon. G. W. Giffen and wife of Truckee are spending a few weeks with their sons, C. A. and G. M. Giffen of this city. Mr. Giffen represented Nevada county six different terms in the State Legislature, during one of which he was Speaker of the Assembly.

J. H. Harris and wife of Twenty-first street are at San Jacinto on a health-seeking trip.

W. T. Shelton, Indian Commissioner of Northern Arizona, is at the Ramona with his family.

Col. W. E. Morgan of Cleveland, O., is registered at the Ramona.

Rabbi M. S. Levy of San Francisco was among yesterday's arrivals at the Hollenbeck.

R. R. Ritchie of San Francisco, coast agent of the Northwestern Line, is at the Westminster.

C. F. Osborne, a capitalist of Norwalk, Ct., arrived in Los Angeles yesterday on his usual winter trip to the Pacific Coast.

CARS KNOCKED THEM.

George Clark, aged 73, a painter employed at the Santa Fé car shops, was struck by the beam of a moving car in the railroad yards yesterday, and sustained a broken collar bone and shoulder. He received treatment at the Receiving Hospital, and was later removed to the County Hospital. E. P. Stowe, employed by the Edison Electric Company, was struck by a Traction car near his home, at No. 1024 South Figueroa street yesterday afternoon, while riding a wheel, and received bruises on his nose and forehead. After treatment at the Receiving Hospital, he was removed to the Good Samaritan Hospital.

THUGS STILL AT LARGE.

The two thugs who beat and robbed A. E. Dunning, a cripple, living at No. 218 West Eighth street, near Chutes Park, late Sunday night, are still at large, in spite of the diligent search instituted by nearly half of the detective department. There was considerable excitement at the Police Station early yesterday morning, when two young men answering the description of the footpads given by Mr. Dunning, were brought in, handcuffed. The case looked exceedingly dark for them, as they were pointed out to the detectives near Pico and Main streets by Carl Ekendahl, a lumberman, living at No. 506 East Third street, as the men who had tried to rob him a few minutes previously. Ekendahl was intoxicated and mistaken, however, and no case was made against the suspects.

BRITTAIN OUT OF DANGER.

J. Marion Brittain, the young man who was shot by Ira B. Truesdel, at Mrs. Fannie M. Ross's lodging-house, No. 457 Turner street, on the 5th inst., is still confined at the California Hospital, but the attending physicians believe that he will recover. Truesdel is still in the City Jail. His preliminary examination will probably be held this week.

FEMALE ROBBER GONE.

Carl Holmgren, the miner, who was robbed of $600 and several gold nuggets in a room he occupies in the rear of the Somerset lodging-house, on East Fifth street, by a street-walker Saturday night, is still making diligent search for the woman. Detectives are aiding him, but it is believed that the demi-mondaine has left the city in the company of her "mac," who is a hack driver.

SAYS WOMAN ROBBED HIM.

J. Mulherron, who has a sugar-beet ranch near Compton, told the police last night that Ella Fields, a middle-aged woman rooming at a house on the corner of Turner and Alameda streets, had robbed him of $30 and a silver watch some time during the evening. The Fields woman was arrested and the watch was recovered from her. Mulherron and the woman were occupying the same room.

Nearly $25,000 was collected in the Episcopal churches of Chicago Sunday for local and foreign mission work, at the request of Bishop McLaren.

INVIGORATED

HOW A WOMAN GOT HER STRENGTH BACK.

She Took Our Vinol with Good Results.

WE WANT EVERY ONE TO KNOW ABOUT IT.

READ WHAT WE HAVE TO SAY. COME AND SEE US.

We don't want any one in this city to drag themselves through life in pain and misery for the want of enough strength to feel well and happy.

If you feel listless, without ambition and run down, it is a bad sign.

You are running grave chances. You are in a condition to be attacked by most any disease.

This feeling of debility is a symptom that your system is generally demoralized. You should take a tonic.

You should take Vinol, which we know and will guarantee will restore your strength.

Following is one case where it did this. Mrs. T. H. Boyle, of 56 Chestnut St., West Newton, Mass., says:

"Last spring I used one bottle of Vinol. At that time I was all run down and sick. I find that it did me lots of good, and by its use my strength came back to me."

Vinol is a delicious preparation, containing the active curative principles that are found in cod-liver oil, dissolved in a delicate table wine.

Vinol acts directly on the stomach, aiding digestion and at the same time creating a healthy appetite. It gives strength and vigor to every organ of the body.

We endorse Vinol, and guarantee its action, and will gladly refund to any one who is not satisfied the money which they paid for it.

HAMBURGER'S

127 TO 147 N. SPRING ST. LOS ANGELES

SECOND DAY

January Linen Sale.

This great sale started off yesterday with the popular patronage which such a great effort merits, for, of all the linen sales we have ever held, this one holds top-notch, both in the immensity of the assortments and the values we are able to give—much of which is due strictly to the fact that our Mr. Hamburger made these purchases personally at the mills in Ireland and Germany, thus saving middlemen's profits, the saving of which is to the benefit of our patrons. It has grown to be the custom of most housewives to replenish their linen supplies at this time of the year, for the advantage of first selections of the new patterns is not to be overlooked.
